Learning Unlocks Golden Opportunities For Worthy Advancements

FOREWORD

A wide-eyed freshman started the picture. His life unfolded in four colorful years. The first days were spent searching for the right classrooms and wondering whether he would excel in science, mathematics, history or English. He struggled with his first Latin verbs and wished for a better seat in the auditorium.

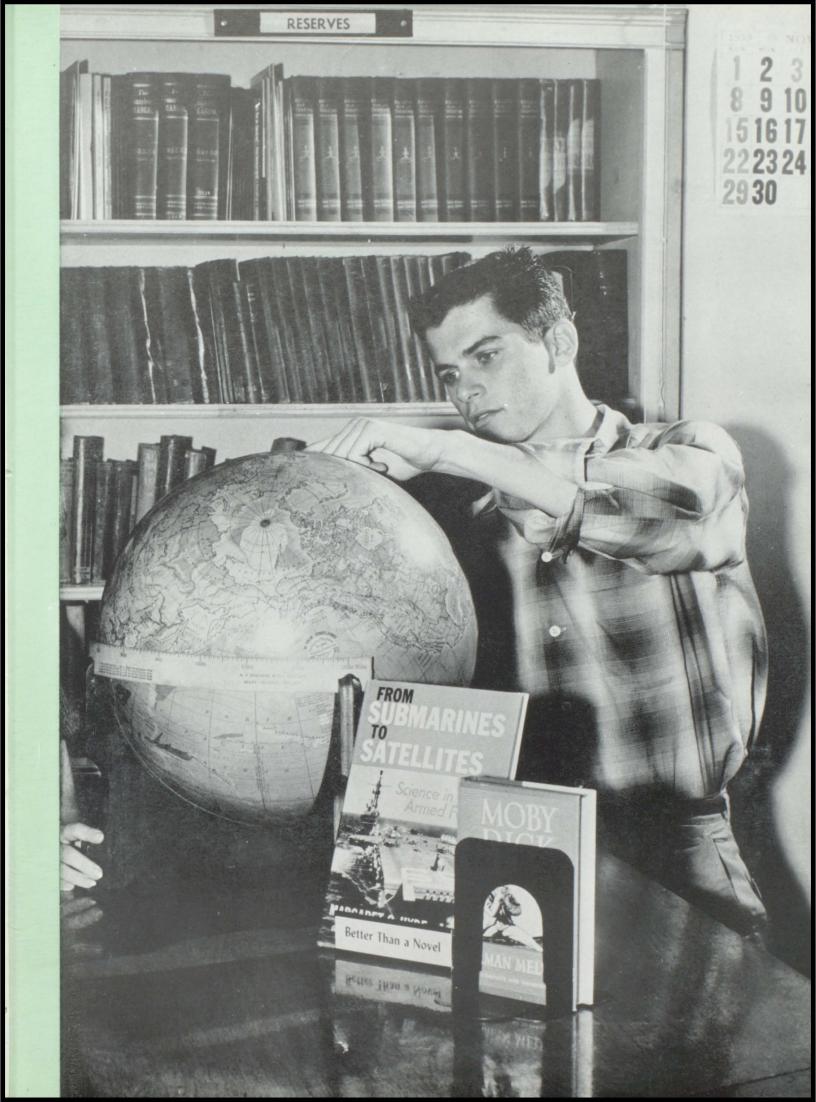

The next year, as a sophomore, he appeared more secure. But there were still many phases of high school life left to amaze, delight and worry him. Autobiographies were written and he went on his first wild animal hunt—through the world of a drop of water by way of a microscope.

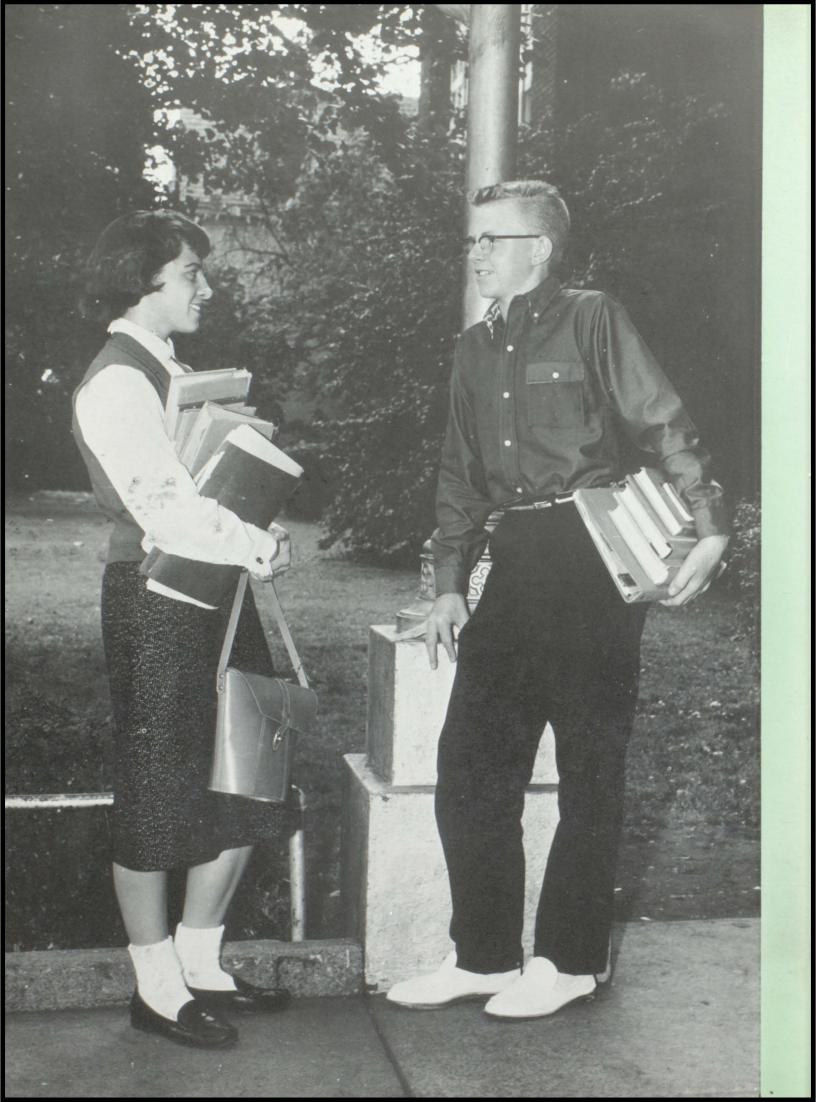

As a junior he tried out for the Junior Class play, learned the excitement of laboratory experiments and cheered the school teams to victory.

The senior year seemed to come before he could brace himself. He studied "Hamlet," delivered his oration and worried about a P. of D. notebook. He was approaching the end. Suddenly caps and gowns appeared and soon a diploma. Then the four years were over and the world spread beyond him.

School Schedule Attempts To Provide Time For Every Phase Of Education

CONTENTS

Curriculum Holds Interests For Entire Student Body

CLASSES

In classes students receive valuable preparation and vocational training that will enable them either to pursue careers or to continue their formal education after graduation.

ACTIVITIES

Countless hours are spent after school by students participating in activities offered by the school to help them develop well-rounded personalities and many interests.

ATHLETICS

Athletics give students the opportunity to develop physically and mentally, yet provide recreation in football, basketball, track, wrestling, cross-country, tennis and golf.

In looking back, students remember countless happy and sad events that took place in their high school careers.

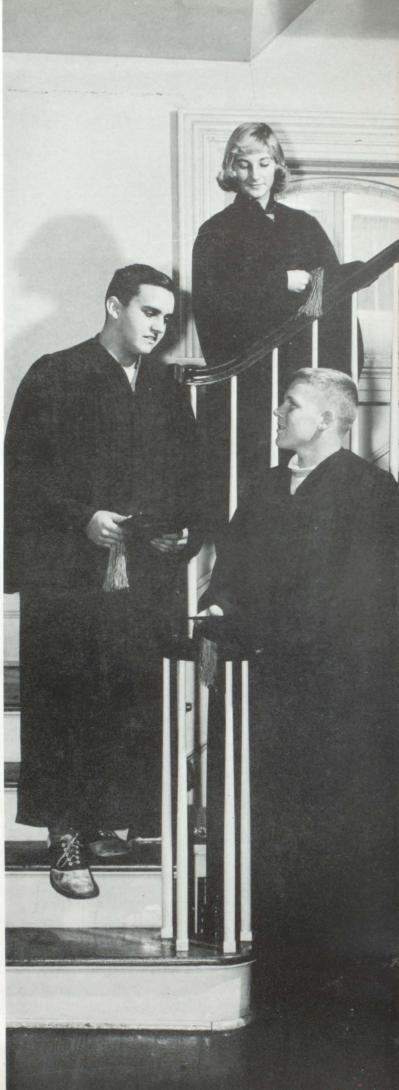

Who can forget the nights of cramming before final exams or the preparation of speeches for Friday talks? Unforgettable hours doing home work assignments at the last minute and the suspense in waiting for report cards.

teaching assignments, Mr. George Fabry acted as assistant football coach for the varsity squad and functioned as a Guidance Committee member.

Mrs. Nancy Frye, having completed her initial year on the faculty, counseled the activities of the Modern Language Club. In addition to her club duties Mrs. Frye taught French I, II and Spanish II students.

During the past school term six teachers enlightened pupils in the proper techniques needed for the successful comprehension of mathematics. Miss Mary Louise McBride taught Algebra II as well as training Broadcasting I and II aspirants. The organization of the Mu Alpha Theta, a national mathematics club, was also attributed to the efforts of Miss McBride.

A Prom Committee participant, Mr. Robert Luxner assisted with the duties that confronted this group. His teaching responsibilities included instruction for General and Business Mathematics classes. Acting as Plane Geometry and Trigonometry instructor, Miss Lyda Hamilton also aided in solving problems related to the tasks of the Guidance Committee and Prom Committee.

Mr. William Franks tutored students who participated in Algebra I class. Mr. Franks acted as chairman of the Freshman Dance Committee and headed the chores of the Junior-Senior Prom Committee.

The performance of the duties of assistant track coach and assistant freshman football coach were those of Mr. David Dunn who also headed General Mathematics and Industrial Mathematics classes. Mr. Robert Laing acted as junior varsity football mentor and helped students gain Algebra I understanding.

Consisting of five instructors, the Commercial Department of the high school formulated a vocational outlook on subjects for the stu-

The activities of the Future Teachers of America were under the sponsorship of Miss Florence Gill. Miss Gill also imparted knowledge to Commercial students enrolled in Junior Business Training and Writing and Spelling. Bookkeeping I and II teacher, Mr. Robert Cook, coached the varsity golf team and advised the Fire Patrol. Mr. Cook also held the position as treasurer of the school's Activity Account.

An additional member of the Commercial Department, Miss Blanche Quick, conducted Typing I and II and Shorthand I and II instructions. Participation on the Junior-Senior Prom Committee and Guidance Committee were the extra-curricular services rendered by Miss Quick. The cheerleading squad was under the co-advisership of Miss Margaret Smith. Miss Smith trained Typing I and II students as well as instructing Commercial Law and Geography classes.

Mr. Mitchell Barron, the fifth Commercial Department tutor, assisted with the problems of the Guidance Committee and aided in the numerous functions of the Junior-Senior Prom Committee. Supervision of Commercial Sales and Bookkeeping I, II classes comprised his teaching duties.

Department was under the leadership of three faculty members. Mrs. Grace Kettering aided in the planning of the Senior Tea as well as instructing Homemaking III and Homemaking IV classes. Mrs. Katherine Stumbaugh served on the Prom Committee and taught both Related Arts and Homemaking IV. Commencement activities and the preparing of the junior flag were responsibilities Mrs. Margaret Seamens accepted during the school year.

Serving in the capacity of Guidance Director, Mr. William Gillespie found solutions to many of the perplexing problems that confronted students throughout the past term. Securing guidance speakers and planning vocational assemblies were additional functions Mr. Gillespie performed.

Art class supervisor, Mr. George Klim, directed the instructions of the art lovers in the high school and at Fourth Ward School as well. Head librarian, Miss Carol Jenkins, placed interesting and informative literature at the convenient disposal of the student body. She also served as faculty adviser for the Librarians' Club.

Mr. Richard Braun directed the activities of all of the boys' gym and health classes. He also was the head coach for the varsity track squad, cross-country team and junior varsity basketball squadron.

The responsibility of guiding girls' physical education groups, health classes and girls' intramural athletics was assigned to Mrs. Mary Alice Graham. Mrs. Graham participated in the endeavors of the Junior-Senior Prom Committee in addition to these regular teaching duties.

The Music Department at Latrobe High
School instructed students in the skills of playing musical instruments. It provided the school with a band, orchestra and various choral groups. These students demonstrated their ability during the year by participating in numerous activities.

Mr. Ernest Teichert served the Music Department by conducting Junior Band and Junior and Senior Orchestra. The Senior Orchestra provided music for all plays and contests presented at the high school.

Music dominated the job of Mr. Ronald Shurie. He directed the band, instructed students in Music Theory, and conducted re-hearsals for Girls' and Boys' Choruses I and II. Besides these, Mr. Shurie was responsible for music for commencement and class songs. He also directed the annual song assemblies.

Projects such as the Junior-Senior Prom, clubs, contests and dramatic productions would have been limited without the cooperation of members of the school faculty. All extra-curricular projects required time and effort. In addition to part time activities, teachers enlightened the minds of future leaders.

 EXAMINING A student's teeth is Dr. M. Showalter assisted by the school nurse, Mrs. Florence Young.

Efficient enactment of effective medical techniques by nine observant men protected the physical health of the student body.

Dr. J. Wiley Hartman served in the capacity of head school physician during the past term. Dr. William Sipe, Dr. F. Clay Gibson, Dr. G. F. Nealon, Dr. Walter Berberich, Dr. Paul Mankovich, Dr. Raymond Sarver and Dr. Thomas Sproch comprised the remainder of the school medical staff. The high school dental examinations were under the supervision of Dr. M. A. Showalter.

The administration of physical examinations occurred during the morning sessions of the first semester. Second Ward School was the site selected as the medical center. All students enrolled in the ninth and eleventh grades were included in the school check-up program during the year.

To make parents and the students themselves aware of the presence of any physical defect was the primary reason for the annual examinations. Parents were informed of existing impairments by means of slips sent to them by the examining doctors and the Latrobe Public School nurse, Mrs. Florence Young. Upon receiving the aforementioned slips pupils consulted their family physicians.

School Attendants Assist Medical Profession By Caring For Students' Needs

The persevering efforts of eight girls enabled the health room to function successfully throughout the course of the school year.

In addition to her duties performed during the enactment of physical examinations, Mrs. Florence Young advised the health room attendants as to the correct medical procedures.

The experience gained by the attendants was advantageous to those seeking future nursing careers. The girls who performed the service during the morning sessions were Jacqueline Dunlap, Sondra Biller, Judith Beaken and Jane Blank. Bibliana Tuskan, Diane Bumar, Faye Colgan and Donna Lohr were in charge of the health room during the afternoon periods of classes.

Admittance to the health room was gained by a permit. This required the signature of class room teachers. Study hall visitors to the room did not need the aforementioned slips.

The eight girls were not allowed to administer internal medication to pupils. Bandaging abrasions, tending to bruises, treatment of mild burns and other inflammations and making ill students as comfortable as possible were some of the daily tasks performed by the novice medical aspirants.

Mrs. Florence Young's tasks included the assistance of school physicians with the chest X-rays, the heart tests and the blood tests. She also conducted the eyes and ears check-ups. Aiding the health room attendants in the detection and effective treatment of contagious rashes, chronic rashes, and other minor infirmities possessed by high school students comprised another of her duties. Mrs. Young accounted for the successful functioning of elementary students' physical examinations.

VOCATIONAL TRAINING

Armatures, milling machines, T squares, blue-printing machines and electric saws helped the members of the vocational training course prepare for jobs as members of tri-state and local industrial crews.

All those enrolled in the trade course took two years of general shop. During the next four semesters they worked in one of the four specialized fields. Electric, drafting, wood and machine were the specific training shops.

Beginners in wood shop made bread boards, knick-knack shelves, letter boxes and shadow boxes. More advanced wood-workers constructed beds, bookcases, end tables, desks and coffee tables. All of these were made at the cost of the materials alone.

The first thing taught in every mechanical drawing class was proper lettering. Correct identification of the piece being drawn made this knowledge essential. The next basic fact taught was the use of the T square and angles.

Drawings done by the class ranged from orthographic projection of a simple object to auxiliary drawings and descriptive geometry problems. The latter is also known as the true size and shape of a line.

Much experience needed to enter local industry was gained in machine and electric shops.

As juniors the boys learned the different wiring circuits, methods and the electric theory Hard Labors Bring Finished Product, Satisfaction To Diligent Trade Pupils applying to these circuits. To conclude their studies, special wiring projects were done. For practical purposes practice on the uses of lathes and welding was given. Appliance and motor repair was another supplementary in their daily schedule.

The seniors studied a course in advanced circuits. Motor and control wiring was done and rewinding of direct and alternating current motors was also a part of the training. Further practice on the lathe and in welding completed the course.

The prime purpose of the machine shop was to teach the proper use of such equipment as milling machines, shapers, tool and cutter grinders, lathes and saws. With these machines the students made replacements for broken equipment and were able to complete odd jobs around the school.

To create more interest in these vocational fields the Kiwanis Club sponsored a competitive contest in which the participants submitted projects prepared by them in the shops.

Some of these were hand, machine and bench vises, V blocks and a cannon made by the machinists. Electric shop members produced direct current armatures, repulsion coil and electric computers. Those in the drafting department drew detail and assembly drawings of various objects.

Courses in the curriculum served as guides to the future for many L.H.S. students. To give its members the best opportunities in subjects and skills needed to prepare them for life after graduation was the objective of these fields of study.

All six courses required the participants to satisfactorily complete social studies. In English, speeches on current events, English literature and government were given each week. These classes also studied such classics as Browning's poetry, Modern Poetry, Short Stories, several of Shakespeare's plays and various essays.

Freshmen learned the background of the government of Pennsylvania and some of the geography of the state in civics. Other history classes studied the many problems of a domocracy; history of the early world and important information about the founding of this nation.

In general science students became better acquainted with the basic points of science. Chemistry and physics proved exciting in that most laboratory experiments were performed by the class members. Biology students com-

Officers Assume Individual Duties In Supervision Of Class Endeavors

Commencement exercises brought to an end the four years of scholastic endeavors engaged in by members of the class of 1960. All the excitement and experiences of high school days had drawn to a close, leaving only its shadowy memories.

To fulfill the duties of class officers the seniors elected two boys and three girls. Acting as president was Thomas McKelvey. Wayne Sulkey served as vice-president. Sheila Williams, secretary, recorded minutes, Caryl Hanna filled the office of treasurer and Carol West acted as Student Council representatives.

The Senior Class was well represented on both the honor and high honor roll. Members had time to participate in extra-curricular activities and serve their school diligently during their final year.

Numerous boys who engaged in varsity football and basketball, track, cross country, wrestling, tennis and golf events were awarded letters for recognition.

More musically inclined pupils were members of the band, orchestra, Girls' Chorus II, Boys' Chorus II or the Double Octet. State, district and county band, orchestra and chorus festivals found many twelfth-graders present. Working along-side the band in preparing football half-time shows were five senior baton-twirling majorettes, led by the head majorette.

The Senior Class play, the All-Class play and the Christmas P. of D. play gave opportunities for the dramatically gifted seniors to display their talents. Their final production was the presentation of the annual Moving-Up Day skit.

Instead of the senior officers decorating the usual Christmas tree in the front hall this year, a large eight-foot wreath suspended from the ceiling added to the yuletide spirit.

School dances showed a good senior representation. The annual girl-ask-boy Sadie Hawkins Dance proved to be no exception. As a climax of school dances, the students danced into the wee hours of the morning at the annual Junior-Senior prom and post-prom party. The Junior Class acted as host for the seniors at this affair.

Not all the school year was spent in having fun, though. Through earnest endeavors, a few students were able to win scholarships to various colleges. Those students who met the requirements were initiated into the National Honor Society and Quill and Scroll.

Now, after four years of high school life, the graduates prepare to go into the world and seek their futures. But they will always remember activities and classes they either enjoyed or tolerated during their four years at Latrobe High School.

JEAN LAURENZI, yearbook editor and National Honor Society member, was voted the leading journalism student. She served as Quill and Scroll president. THOMAS ROBERTS showed his leadership traits by directing the activities of the National Honor Society and serving as vice-president of the band.

WILLIAM BUSH Industrial

By placing on the high honor roll for four years and earning membership in the National Honor Society, ROSEMARY ANDREWS distinguished herself in scholarship.

PHYLLIS JACOBS' forensic activities included two-year debate finalist and an extemporaneous winner. In the Junior Class play and two All Class plays, MILDRED JETTER displayed her flair for dramatics. The senior outstanding in homemaking was VIRGINIA McCRACKEN. Virginia received the Betty Crocker Homemaking award.
In the secretarial field, DIANE SHEARER was chosen as the top commercial student for her abilities in typing, shorthand and operating office machines. Co-captain of the basketball team and three letter winner in his junior year were the accomplishments of RICHARD LAZUR as the all-round athlete.

Musician ROBERT JACOBS functioned as president of the band and played in the orchestra. Industrial student WILLIAM BUSH attained the high honor roll and displayed his abilities in woodwork achievements.

Concentration On Subjects Prepares Juniors For Upperclassmen Role

At the conclusion of their third year of high school, the juniors prepared to accept the challenging responsibilities required of members of the Senior Class.

Leading the class this year in their activities were Andrew Del Sordo, president; and Roy Campbell, vice-president. Priscilla Hall acted as secretary. David Tranquilla, treasurer, oversaw class funds while Winifred Noel served as Student Council representative.

In addition to regular academic activities, the students participated in many extra-curricular events. Dramatic ability was shown in the Junior Class play, "Turn Back the Clock," and in the All-Class play, "We Were Young That Year."

Many eleventh-graders took part in the annual Woman's Club Contest and Ruth Robb debates. The juniors had the responsibility of preparing the needed decoration and treating the seniors to the annual Junior-Senior prom.

In the sports field there were many outstanding boys who contributed to the success L.H.S. enjoyed in athletic events. The girls also did their part by participating in intramural volleyball and basketball.

Musically-minded students were active in the band, orchestra and chorus. Several of them took part in various district and county festivals held in the surrounding area schools. Juniors could be seen at many school dances, sporting events, plays, club meetings and on various committees. They were also found in Broadcasting II and Journalism II. Worthy students were initiated into the National Honor Society and Quill and Scroll.

A number of girls, comprising the Junior Guard of Honor, participated in the commencement exercises.

One of the most memorable events occurred on Moving-Up Day, when the president of the Senior Class presented the class key to the Junior Class president. The juniors then took on the duties of the new Senior Class.

Five boys also participated in the newly organized combo and dixieland bands which are under the direction of Mr. Ronald Shurie, Mr. Earnest Teichert and Mr. Robert Cook.

The juniors will always remember the many experiences they confronted in their classes. Courses in English found them both recalling summer fun or looking into the future with weekly speeches. The reading of Shakespeare's "Macbeth" and Short Stories were also a part of their studies. In addition, shorthand and typing II classes and plane geometry offered challenges in knowledge and skill.

In their three years of high school, the future leaders gained much knowledge on preparing to bear the responsibilities of the school.

Life Compositions, Biology Projects Highlight Sophomores' Endeavors

Upon reaching the conclusion of their second year of high school, the Sophomore Class closed the door on the first half of their secondary school careers. At the tenth grade level, they compiled an eventful year.

Elected to guide the class through its final period of underclassmanship was Joseph Sproch, president. Chosen to assist the president was Linda Kennedy, vice-president. Diane Bumar acted in the capacity of secretary. Dianne DeFlavio collected the class dues. Richard Dailey represented the class at Student Council meetings. Miss Virginia Daniels acted as faculty adviser and lent a helping hand to the tenth-graders throughout the year.

Sophomores continued to prepare for their futures as they added to the knowledge they attained their freshmen year. Industrial students attended vocational classes while commercial students were introduced to the beginnings of shorthand, typing and bookkeeping. Those students in the college preparatory courses continued their studies of algebra and Latin. Girls in the homemaking course gained more training necessary for their future roles as homemakers.

In order to broaden their personalities, tenth graders participated in extra-curricular activities and sports. Sophomores displayed their skills and strengths in football, basketball, track, cross-country, wrestling, tennis and golf. They ended the football and basketball seasons with impressive records. The varsity squads also had representatives from the tenth grade.

Journalism I and Broadcasting I were elected by many sophomores. They boasted membership in almost every club and organization in the school. These included the Student Council, Student Service, Poster Club, Safety Patrol, JCL and the Readers' Club among others.

Dramatics occupied the time of the sophomores as they participated in the All Class play, "We Were Young That Year." Abilities were also displayed in the speaking field during forensic season. Sophomores also took part in vocal music, band and orchestra.

After working hard and receiving rewards for their accomplishments, the sophomores looked forward to their remaining years in high school in the role of upperclassmen.

Officers Conduct Classmates Through Semesters Of Higher Learning

Memories of their first year of high school will always be retained by the Class of 1963. The ninth graders will remember those first confused days when rooms were hard to find, many new friends were met and the new experiences were encountered.

Soon after the beginning of school the freshmen elected officers to represent them in their initial year. Elected to the office of president was Clifford Evans. Jack Townsend, vice-president, assisted the president. Recording the proceedings of the year was secretary Barbara Carota. Dianne Graham, treasurer, took care of the financial problems. Representing the group at Student Council meetings was Anthony Perricelli. Mr. Raymond V. Wild acted as class adviser to the yearlings.

All freshmen were acquainted with general science, civics and English I. Those planning towards college learned the first fundamentals of algebra and Latin. Future secretaries from the commercial course studied introductory shorthand, commercial arithmetic and general business training. Homemaking girls were introduced to cooking and sewing elementary methods, general students pursued both subjects of their choosing and required study principles, while the trade students experimented in the shops.

In addition to the hours spent in class, ninth graders also participated in extra-curricular activities and sports. In the musical department, students were members of the band and the orchestra. Girls' and Boys' Choruses I were composed entirely of freshmen. Marching as majorettes were a number of frosh girls. Freshmen displayed their acting ability by winning roles in the All Class play, "We Were Young That Year." Aspiring speakers received many opportunities to fulfill their ambitions throughout the forensic season. The Woman's Club Contest and the Ruth Robb debate were open to the ninth-graders. Two students represented the Freshmen Class in the finals of the Extemporaneous Speaking Contest.

With the accomplishments of their first year behind them, the freshmen looked forward to the promise of three more years of pleasure, hard work, extra activities, sports and friendships. The ninth-graders were also readied in citizenship and democracy training to take their place as school and community leaders and participants.

DURING THE noon session John Jacobs, Patricia Doherty and Gary Lenz discuss a hard morning of classes that involved new ideas to them.

Beating the deadline, getting the word count and using the proverbial five w's are important thoughts to the publications staff members of Latrobe High School.

A story was born when the writer received his assignment card. This note from his editor told him the title of his story, the word count desired, the date that the story was due and mentioned helpful suggestions.

The reporter was on his own from here. He interviewed and took notes, wrote and rewrote his story, always mindful of the standard rules of style.

After the copy was checked by the editor, it was typewritten and sent to the printer. The editor made certain that the proofs were correct and, after assembling the layout, returned it for final printing.

Latrobe High School students received one of the finished products, The High Post, 13 times during the past year. Under the guidance of the senior editors of the paper, the staff acquired a working knowledge of the fundamental principles of newspaper journalism and yearbook writing.

Students from all four classes played a major part in this year's forensic season by competing for prizes in the four annual speaking contests held in the school.

Beginning the season was the Oratorical Contest for seniors sponsored by the Rotary Club. Rosemary Andrews earned the first place award for her oration entitled "The Ring of Responsibility." It dealt with duties of officials in a democracy. Susan Robbins captured the second place award for her oration entitled "As the Twig Is Bent." Receiving the third honors was Leon Klingensmith. His talk was entitled "Intelligence?" Mildred Jetter received the fourth place honorable mention with her oration called "Man's Greatest Gift." Other finalists were Gail Doherty, Dale Harris, Jean Laurenzi and Thomas Roberts.

Winners of the Civic Club debate were the team of Phyllis Jacobs and Carl Frederick. They expressed the negative point of view on the topic, "Resolved: That the Federal Government Should Substantially Increase Its Regulations of Labor Unions." They were opposed by the affirmative team composed of Leon Klingensmith and Stephen Van Norden.

The general topic for the annual Kiwanis Extemporaneous Speaking Contest this year was "Socialized Medicine." Senior Carl Frederick received the grand prize for his presen-

Rehearsals, Footlights, Glitter Characterize Three Major Student Productions

"Curtain going up!" Tense players took their positions and everyone from the star to the extra got a taste of the glamorous theatre world during the three dramatic presentations of the year.

The season opened with a drama entitled "We Were Young That Year," as the All Class play. With a cast including 17 members, the play revolved about the universal problems of young people during adolescence.

This endeavor included something new as the leading character, Nancy, related descriptions of amusing and touching incidents typical of young love directly to the audience. A society of Birdwatchers added complications to the plot. In the end "head ruled heart" concerning the romance, but both young lovers found themselves to be better people because of knowing each other.

Overseeing the production were student directors Rosemary Andrews and Chester Jaworski. Aiding them were members of committees who worked toward making the play a success to all the classes.

Footlights came up on the greasepainted faces of the junior thespians who re-enacted the heyday of their parents in "Turn Back The Clock," the Junior Class play.

Dating back to the Charleston era, the comedy featured as the main characters, two modern-day parents who reminisced about the days of their youth. The plot developed the idea of comical contrast between the present age and the "roaring twenties." Substitution of the flapper dress and raccoon coats added to the spirit of turning back the hands of time.

Fourteen students portrayed roles of the various characters. Kevin Downs and Ellen St. Clair acted as student directors for this play.

Adapted from the Broadway musical of the same name, "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" was selected as the Senior Class play and also was the final presentation of the school year.

The cast was composed of 17 players and 10 extras. Susan Matusak and Daniel Kuhn served as student directors, while other members of the class served on committees of business, scenery and publicity.

In this performance, Lorelee Lee, "a little girl from Little Rock," and her friend, Dorothy, staged an inter-continental campaign for husbands—rich ones, preferred. Under the pretense of searching for an education abroad, they became entangled in such extenuating circumstances as extortion and the theft of an heirloom diamond. In spite of all difficulties, the girls did find connubial bliss in the end.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Bright lights and hectic evenings displaying super salesmanship at the football games began the career of Student Council members last autumn.

Selling refreshments at athletic events was a major duty that council members performed during the school year. Senior James Burns acted as president of the group with Jacqueline Dunlap assisting as vice-president. Patricia Blank served as secretary while Carl Myers made the financial reports.

A representative from each home room, a delegate from every club or service organization and an individual class representative comprised the membership at the bi-monthly meetings. Mr. James R. Beatty acted as faculty adviser for the activities of the student governing body.

In connection with assembly programs presented at Latrobe, the council sponsored a series of eight special assemblies throughout the year. Each member participated in helping with the opening devotions in an assembly at least twice a year.

Purchasing paintings for the corridors of the school formed a unique responsibility of this organization. The collection of contemporary art is the only known student-chosen collection of its kind in the United States. It

Handling the sale of play tickets for the dramatic productions comprised a duty of the members. Another service of the group included operation of the check rooms during social functions held in the auditorium. A member of the council handled the operation of the microphones used in the auditorium.

Members earned points by acting as ushers on Parents' Night and Eighth Grade Day each year. Councilmen furnished decorations for the auditorium during the Christmas season.

Each year the council sponsored three dances for the student body. In preparation for the dances they arranged for music and decoration of the gym. Among these is the annual girl-ask-boy dance, the Sadie Hawkins.

Representatives willing to donate study halls were assigned duty in the Lost and Found office. Here all lost articles were collected and claimed by their owners for a ten-cent fee.

This year the president and vice-president attended the yearly Student Council Convention held at Governor Mifflin Senior High School in Shillington, Pennsylvania, in October. It was the twenty-third annual convention. The officers appeared at general sessions and discussion groups with students from throughout the state.

Council members who earned a total of 18 points in various activities during the year received a pin on Awards' Day. Bronze, silver and gold pins signified the number of years of service. Gold pins with a guard served as fourth year symbols. Guards, representing the office a member filled, were added to the officers' pins.

STUDENT SERVICE — In patrolling the halls and seeking out offenders of school laws, the Student Service members performed a duty which contributed to the maintenance of a well-run school.

These workers chose Carol Immel as president and Joseph Androstic as vice-president, while Winifred Noel served as secretary-treasurer and Barbara Gordon as Student Council representative. Mr. William E. Yates served as the group adviser.

Escorting visitors on tour of the building, checking locks and lockers, seeing that stairwell doors were closed and lights turned off comprised just a few of the duties which fell to the group. In general they reported any actions that did not comply to the regular system of order.

The group met twice monthly with Mr. Yates to bring up and discuss problems. They also made suggestions for repairs which otherwise might have been overlooked and reported such needed articles as door stoppers and lamp shades. The 48 students, including Lost and Found workers, were stationed in strategic places in the halls.

POSTER CLUB—Posters proclaiming such thoughts and events as "Let's Go Wildcats," "Basketball Tonight" and "Parent's Night" greeted the students as they traveled the halls this year.

events and activities throughout the year was the job of the Poster Club under the direction of Mr. Edwin Withrow.

Letters were awarded to the members who earned ten points. They could merit the points by making ten large posters for the halls which counted as one point each or by making ten small posters for the home room for one point. These points accumulated throughout the year determined the winners of the letters distributed on Awards' Day.

The nature of the information being advertised was announcements of future events as contests, class plays, sports activities or dances. The larger posters were displayed not only around the school but also in prominent local store windows and industries.

Donna Schirf led the group as president, aided by Marianne D'Aniello, vice-president, Gail Doherty, secretary, and Student Council representative, Stella Shinsky.

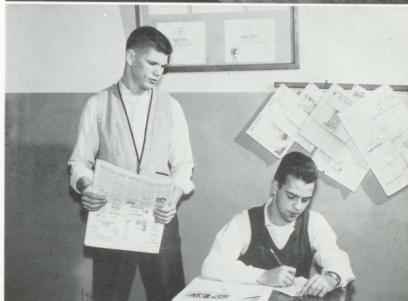

HIGH POST REPRESENTATIVES — "Step right up and get your High Posts here," repeated home room High Post representatives some 13 times this school year.

During the year, this group gathered in 118 to receive their High Posts and necessary instructions from Mr. William R. Couchenour, journalism adviser. The representatives then returned to their respective home rooms to distribute the latest of school news.

After being elected to fill this role by home room pupils, the representatives' duties began with the subscription campaign. They strived to fill their quota for the newspaper and yearbook. This entailed the handling of distribution sheets and payments. They also urged their home room to try for a 100 per cent subscription goal.

On the last day of school, the representatives' load grew heavier as, for his final duty, he delivered the yearbooks to his home room. He also assisted with the annual college football contest held by the Journalism Depart-

FIRE PATROL—The shrill notes of the fire alarm sounded as members of the Fire Patrol hurried to their designated positions to help evacuate the school.

This indispensable organization was composed of 11 boys who were divided into three groups, fire fighters, searchers and door monitors during the school term.

John Zajdel, Thomas Bleehash, Roy Campbell and Robert Shrum composed the quartet of fire fighters for this year. Their duties included assembling at the auditorium main entrance, determining the location of the fire, carrying of fire extinguishers and axes to the fare area by the most direct route possible, and, upon arrival, engaging in their firefighting combat until the Latrobe Volunteer Fire Department took charge.

The searchers and door monitors, John Solick, James Smolleck, William Smitley, Thomas Baybrook, David Ayers, Jack Osborne and William Lewis inspected rooms and halls for burning lights, open windows and unauthorized persons. They took care of the exit doors when pupils left and reentered school.

Mr. Robert Cook, the present Fire Patrol mentor, organized the patrol in 1948 to lessen the dangers of fire.

SAFETY PATROL—Rain, but still no reason to worry about getting wet, the Safety Patrol properly dressed in yellow raincoats were at their posts stopping traffic so you could cross the street to get home sooner.

Regardless of the weather the members of the organization under the leadership of Captain Randall Stumpf and Lieutenant Francis Zarzeczny reported to school ten minutes earlier than pupils to obtain their "please stop" flags and go to assigned posts before the bell rang.

Protecting the life and property of both pedestrian and motorist four times a day, was the aim of this small but important organization. Through their commendable jobs, they succeeded in keeping an excellent safety record at Latrobe High School.

Librarians Help Pupils Select Books By Maintaining Accurate Catalogues

 LIBRARIANS BERNADETTE Krempasky, Susan Matusak and Joy Young perform daily tasks by stamping and filing new reading materials.

SERVICE GROUPS

Mr. Frederick Halsall and Mr. Earl Karasack, co-advisers for the group, helped the Safety Patrol park the cars at football games and prepare the annual safety assembly. For the voluntary, dependable and prompt service contributing to the safety of fellow classmates, the members received, from the American Legion monthly, free passes to the local movies.

IIBRARIANS—Swishing of dust, pounding of typewriter keys and shifting of books told you that the student librarians were busily working. Their objective—to keep the books and library in tip-top condition.

These common sights and sounds characterized the librarians' duties of dusting, tidying book shelves, card filing, keeping the magazine room in order and repairing old books.

Throughout the school term the 16 librarians helped lessen the duties of Miss Carol Jenkins, head librarian, by performing these general tasks in the library.

Officers for the Librarians' Club were elected at the beginning of the first semester by its seven senior, eight junior and two sophomore members. Joy Young, as president, was in charge of the monthly business meetings and Bernadette Krempasky, as secretary-treasurer, kept the club records. Penelope Newcomer represented the group at Student Council meetings.

For five periods a week this service group did their duties without asking for anything in return, except a "thank you."

SERVICE GROUPS

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY — To the strains of a solemn march played by the orchestra, a select group of juniors and seniors walked to the stage to receive pins symbolic of the most exclusive organization of the school, the National Honor Society.

The president of the society this year was Thomas Roberts. Acting as vice-president was Wesley Thomas while Geraldine Stein served as secretary. Treasurer for the group was David Westfall and Leon Klingensmith represented the society at Student Council meetings.

Other members of this organization were Jean Laurenzi, Rosemary Andrews, Alice Clemens and Patricia Bell.

To gain attendance into this organization a student must be in the upper fourth of his class and possess the primary requisites of scholarship, leadership, character and service. Fifteen per cent of the Senior Class were eligible for membership, while five per cent of the Junior Class merited membership.

Under the supervision of Mr. James R. Beatty, the members chosen by the faculty were initiated into the society in the spring of the school year. After the initiation, new aspirants attended the annual Student Council-National Honor Society dinner. These outstanding students were initiated in a colorful and inspiring ceremony, with parents and fellow students in attendance.

Leaders, Members Learn Techniques Of Teaching Career For Future Use

QUILL AND SCROLL—To gain admittance into the Quill and Scroll, a national honorary society for high school journalists, was the aspiration of every journalism student.

The members of the organization elected Jean Laurenzi president and Alice Clemens vice-president. Mary Griffin served as secretary. Other officials were Nancy Ciafre, corresponding secretary; Susan Robbins, program chairman; and Susan Matusak, project chairman. Mr. William R. Couchenour directed the activities of the society.

Requirements for students to become members of the organization consisted of a standing in the upper third of the Junior or Senior Classes and superior work in some phase of journalism. The initiates also wrote at least three-hundred inches of copy or contributed two years of effort to the advertising or business staff. Other criteria of admission included evidence of initiative and loyalty.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA—Under the direction of Miss Florence Gill, the members of the Future Teachers of America Club learned about various phases and fields of the teaching profession.

The 48 juniors and seniors belonging to the organization elected Leon Klingensmith to lead them in their activities for the year. Assisting him was Ray Kells, vice-president. Joy Young was secretary for this group while Connie Campbell held the office of treasurer.

This club helped students to better understand the responsibilities as a teacher, and assisting members to explore the possibilities of the elementary or secondary teaching field.

During the past year students heard former F.T.A. members speak about college details concerning the work of a speech correctionist and of the services recorded by a guidance counselor. The members also observed teaching procedures in elementary schools.

Many students of this group also had an opportunity to assist and watch teaching procedures of the instructors in various subjects.

Ushers Convey Many Responsibilities At Plays, Concerts, Speaking Events

USHERS—"This way, please" was a phrase frequently used by the ushers who provided the school with the valuable service of ushering at the many scholastic, athletic and social events of the year.

Twenty-seven volunteers, under the guidance of Miss Catherine Netzlof, began their services with commencement exercises.

Directing the junior and senior members on the main floor was Joyce Huhn, while Juanita Robl served as head usher in the balcony.

These girls ushered at various plays, concerts, forensic contests and football games. Folding programs, taking tickets, handing out programs and directing people were services performed by the group. The white-clad volunteers were selected for usher work on the basis of dependability, promptness and sense of responsibility.

At the close of the year, a service letter was awarded to any worker who met the requirements satisfactorily. To merit this letter an usher must serve for two years with no more than two absences each year.

On Awards' Day, any worker donating two years of ushering received a letter. A new group was then selected to replace the graduating seniors during the activities of commencement. By offering time at school, the ushers rendered many services to the school.

BROADCASTING I — Recording of voices and studying of techniques comprised the training the 31 members of Broadcasting I received in their twice-a-week classes.

Under the supervision of Miss Mary Louise McBride, the students met with the goal of learning the basic fundamentals of broadcasting news coverage and its delivery.

Actual announcing on B.C.C., writing advertisements for school dances and plays, and participation in the Christmas production were also included in their activities.

The aspiring broadcasters visited WTRA and WAKU studios. There they had the opportunity to view the studios in operation.

Bi-Weekly Scripts Broadcast News About Contests, Events, Assemblies

 "GOOD MORNING, students, this is your bi-weekly news reporter," chimes Judith Beaken while Carl Frederick and Nancy Schimpf wait for cues.

SERVICE GROUPS

In their practice sessions, held twice a week, the students prepared to take their places as members of Broadcasting II. If, after a year of studying, the requirements are met, they become staff members for the following school year.

BROADCASTING II — "This is station B.B.C., the broadcasting class of Latrobe High School, bringing you news—flash news, from in and around the halls of Latrobe High."

As these familiar words rang throughout the school, students knew they were about to hear important school announcements and sports bulletins reported by the members of Broadcasting II.

Under the supervision of Miss Mary Louise McBride, 19 juniors and seniors did their best to report all the facts available at air time.

News editor for the year was Nancy Schimpf, while Judith Beaken served as script editor. Carl Frederick filled the position of sports editor. Louise Quitko performed the duties of production manager.

Entering into the spirit of the holidays, the broadcasters enacted roles in a special Christmas program entitled The Christmas Bug. The play was presented to the public over station W.T.R.A.

The work of the broadcasting organization ranged from advertising school plays and dances to collecting and broadcasting local and school news.

READERS' CLUB—"Thank you for reading that exciting tale of Peter Pan and playing so many wonderful games with me." This was a frequent comment of many little patients at the Latrobe Hospital made to the 93 members of the Readers' Club, under the direction of Miss Adeline Reeping.

Leader of the club, Jean Laurenzi, presided as president, but in the event of her absence, Patricia Bell, vice-president, conducted the meetings. Secretary Virginia Stasik kept records, wrote minutes and assigned the dates to read at the hospital, while Rosemary Lechman represented the group at the Student Council meetings.

"We serve," the club motto, did not only apply to the hour and a half spent at the hospital each Saturday morning. Many more hours were spent helping with the Muscular Dystrophy drive, sending convalescent cards to teen-agers and collecting presents for needy children.

During the course of the production, it was the task of this organization to determine whether all stage microphones were functioning properly. The Stage Crew was also responsible for proper lighting and drawing the curtains at the right moments during plays.

Before opening night, the Stage Crew had to bring the larger properties or "flats" kept at Fourth Ward School to the auditorium to assemble. They also painted necessary materials to set a scene.

This hard-working team of five boys, Richard Kosker, Patrick Gebicki, Dennis Carroll and Ronald Harr worked under the direction of the stage manager, Richard Baird, appointed by Mr. Frederick Halsall and Mr. William Yates, co-sponsors of the group.

JUNIOR CLASSICAL LEAGUE

As a sidelight to the study of Latin, many classic language enthusiasts learned to appreciate the customs and way of life in the ancient Roman civilization in their affiliation with the Junior Classical League.

Many educational as well as entertaining activities were planned by Miss Adeline E. Reeping, adviser for the league. She was aided by Patricia Clark, consul; Sandra Baumann and Paul Reiner, pro-consuls; Lee Ann Goodman and Ellen Hamill, scribas; and Charles Shearer, explorator.

Lois Goodman had charge of the scrapbook which included pictures and a complete resume for the year. Official accompanists for the social gatherings were Myra Lynch and Joanne Lencoski.

A skating party in late October initiated the year's activities. Three hundred and seventy students were in attendance at the Latrobe Roller Garden where they viewed the floor show arranged by the skating instructor. Refreshments were provided for the group.

tion. The means of exchange were canned goods which were contributed to ill persons after the program. After the freshmen were bought they had to do whatever their master wished of them.

A trophy case display with a picture of the Appian Way in the background showed the student-made projects during the Latin Festival, February 15 to March 4. A special trip to the Buhl Planetarium in Pittsburgh for the sky show "The Last Days of Pompeii" was arranged also. Two students each from Latin I and Latin II took standardized objective Latin tests in conjunction with the Festival.

Many students attended the State Junior Classical League Convention at Punxsutawney Area High School April 1-2. Several were candidates for office. A contest concerning the Trojan War was entered by a few who prepared for it extensively by listening to many tape recordings especially for the purpose of the test.

In May, the National Latin Honor Society held a dinner. A student must have had a 90 per cent or better grade to belong to the Society. The annual Auxilium Latinum tests gave the students a chance to really discover their language abilities. Several received medals or certificates to show their proficiency.

This summer in early August, New Mexico will be the site of the national convention. Lois Goodman will enter the local scrapbook in competition. Pennsylvania will also have an entry in the contest to find a national Junior Classical League song. The song is "Onward Classical League" set to the tune of "There's No Business Like Show Business."

The Latin classes employed a more extensive use of audio-visual aids during the year. These included tapes on the Trojan War, colored slides on Rome, grammar records and film strips on mythology. These aids acquainted the students with the ancient civilization of Greece and Rome.

In addition to their regular undertakings, students from both units who had the necessary qualifications were selected to represent Latrobe High School at county, regional and district conventions.

Under the supervision of Mr. Ernest Teichert, music director for the grade schools, the high school orchestra performed for assemblies and plays. Membership during the year included representatives of all four classes.

VOCAL MUSIC

Vocal ability and interest was apparent at Latrobe High during the past year as soprano, alto, tenor and bass voices resounded through the halls.

Under the supervision of Mr. Ronald Shurie, musical director, the 220 students comprising the choral groups worked diligently to achieve music mastery.

Preparation for advanced chorus work was the main objective of the members of Girls' Chorus I. They were accompanied during their sessions by freshman Myra Lynch.

Freshmen boys made up Boys' Chorus I. Their accompanist was junior Lynne Skatell. Those meeting Mr. Shurie's qualifications advanced to Boys' Chorus II.

es belonged to Girls' Chorus II. Joanne Rose, sophomore, acted as the accompanist for this group. Providing a festival spirit, they entertained the home room students during the Christmas season by carolling in the halls.

Boys' Chorus II, comprised of tenth, eleventh and twelfth grades, was accompanied by Leon Klingensmith. During the school year this unit traveled to Aspinwall High School.

Auditions for students from the advanced choruses were held in order to select octet members for the 1960-61 term. Last year, the octet singers were Patricia Tito, Eileen Frisky and Phyllis Jacobs, sopranos; Dee Ann Keim, Carol Kells and Karen Smith, altos; Joseph Nichols and Thomas McCune, tenors; Leon Klingensmith, baritone, and Timothy Schwartz

Each of the choruses prepared for, and anticipated, the annual Spring Concert. Also delegates from all four groups represented Latrobe High at the conventions.

In addition to regular activities, the vocalists entered other fields of endeavor. A mixed choral group composed of volunteers from all the choruses participated in the Christmas assembly. Two barbershop quartets, a male and a female group, were also organized.

Eighth graders were encouraged to become members of the vocal groups when they entered their freshman year. Along with preparing students for later participation in the musical world, these practice sessions provided wholesome relaxation for all who took part.

Bi-weekly meetings for each of the choruses were held in the auditorium. Songs of all types, including standards and popular numbers, were taken up. Mr. Shurie worked for a knowledge of rhythm, note reading and tone control.

In order to get a quarterly grade in vocal music, students must be enrolled in the music theory class. Seventeen members subscribed to this activity last year.

Keeping the music room and its equipment in order was the duty of 13 music room attendants. The students who volunteered their services during the past year were Denise Zappone, Mary Eleanor Graff, Lynne Skatell, Lorraine Gapen, Vicki Helfferich, Barbara Smith, Sheila Palmer, Kay Brant, George Adams, Karen Smith, John Zajdel, Karen Massena and Patricia Bell.

Recording their best record in nine years, the Latrobe High varsity football squad garnered two championships in compiling an eight win one loss slate.

Coached by Mr. Charles Findley, the Wildcats copped their first Foothills Conference championship and gained the Westmoreland County Class 'AA' crown. In order to gain the Foothills championship, the Latrobe team posted a record of four wins against one loss in league competition.

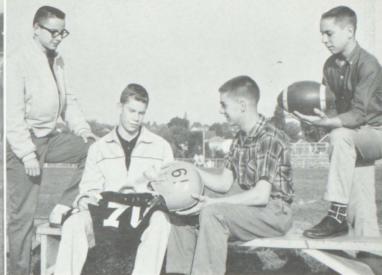

On September 13, the Orange and Black gridders started their season by trouncing the visiting Schenley eleven, 47-18. In the second game of the season, Derry Area was shut out 21-0. After a scoreless first quarter, the Wildcats rambled for 21 points in the second period to blank the Trojans.

With a two-game winning streak, the Wildcats met their first 'AA' foe, Penn Hills. After spotting the Indians to a 9-0 half time lead, Latrobe came from behind to shade the visiting eleven, 12-9. Wilkinsburg was edged by the Latrobers 3-0 in a dramatic finish. The play was hard fought throughout. With only seven seconds remaining in the game, senior Ronald Vid kicked a 12-yard field goal for the win.

Stretching their winning record to five, the Wildcats downed Jeannette 21-6. Latrobe

After an open date, the locals suffered their first loss when the Connellsville Cokers upset them 20-15. Playing in a driving rain storm, the Wildcats forged ahead in the third quarter, via a safety, to break a 13-13 deadlock. However, the Cokers retaliated by driving 13 yards in the final quarter.

Returning to a winning form, Latrobe edged their traditional rival, Greensburg, by the score of 14-6. The Orange and Black team overpowered the Golden Lions during the first half to take a 14-0 intermission lead. Greensburg came back strong in the second half to post their only score. Several Greensburg drives were halted by the Wildcats' staunch defense.

The Latrobe High squad conquered New Kensington 20-6. On October 13, in the final game of the season, the locals defeated Hempfield Area 22-13. In the third quarter, with Latrobe leading 15-7, the Spartans drove 92 yards to hit pay dirt, and narrow the score to two points. The Wildcats came right back to register another touchdown before the end of the game.

With the completion of the football season, 21 gridders received letters. Senior monogram winners were Bruce Atkinson, Patrick Crain, James Dumas, Anthony Gebicki, Walter Gebicki, Richard Lazur, Thomas McKelvey, Wayne Sulkey, Wesley Thomas, Ronald Vid, John Zabkar and Joseph Zink. In their first year of football competition the freshman squad completed their season of gridiron experience with a two-win threeloss record.

Although the freshman gridders had only three and one half weeks of pre-season drills, they won their opener by defeating Derry 12-0. In the second game, the yearlings played host to East Huntingdon. This ball game was a close contest; however, the freshmen came through to win the encounter.

Unfortunately, after this game the squad suffered a number of injuries, mainly that of first-string quarterback Robert Ruffner and tackle Paul Lohr. These boys were sidelined for the rest of the year.

Going into their third game undefeated, the freshmen suffered their first set-back at the hands of Hempfield Area 12-0. After this first loss the Wildkittens traveled to Greensburg where they were unable to sustain the attack of the Greensburg eleven and dropped the game to the Lions.

With an even record of 2-2 the yearlings encountered the Jeannette freshmen. In this final effort of their season, the freshmen bowed to Jeannette. With this game the yearling squad closed their first season of high school football play.

Section Record Fails To Tell Story Of Hustling Spirit Shown By Cagers

Latrobe High School's varsity basketball team showed the lack of experienced players as they compiled a three-win, 18-loss record this school year.

After the injury to Richard Markovich, the cagers under Coach Ralph Forquer went down repeatedly with only one letterman on the team. In pre-season games the Wildcats won two while dropping six. They were victorious over Derry Area and Indiana.

In the opening contest in Section II-A, the Latrobe team suffered a 67-55 defeat by Connellsville. This setback followed by 13 straight defeats by section foes. It marked the first time a Latrobe team had completed section play without a victory.

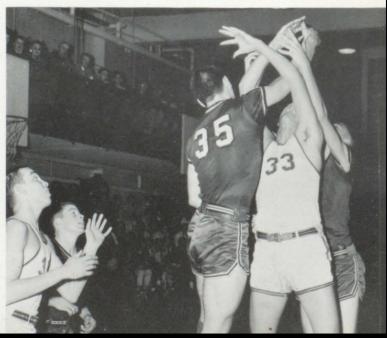

During the first half of competition Penn Joint decisioned the Cats, 72-60. Section champion Uniontown downed the Latrobers, 99-59. Greensburg-Salem, Hempfield Area, Jeannette and Norwin captured triumphs over the Latrobe five also.

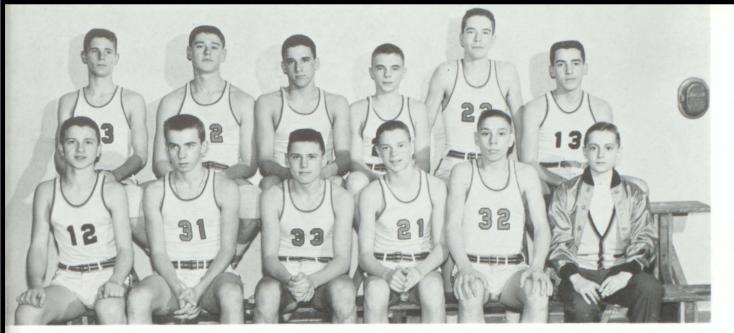

Second half league play continued the same. Second defeats were handed Latrobe by the other members of the section. Showing improvement, the Wildcats did hold section winners Uniontown to a 14-point victory, 74-60. A close contest between the orange and black cagers and the Jeannette Jayhawks ended 73-67 with the latter team winning.

However, the hoopsters of LHS did advance to the quarter-finals of the Westmoreland County Coaches Association Tournament in March. They snapped their losing thread with a 64-52 win over Derry Area in the opening round. Latrobe bowed in a thrilling game with Jeannette, 50-46.

With the completion of the basketball schedule, seven cagers received letter awards. Senior monogram winners were Richard Lazur, Richard Markovich and Thomas Shearer. Juniors earning letters were Donald Berenbrok, Under the direction of Coach Richard Braun, the Latrobe High junior varsity basketball squad balanced their season record with 11 wins and 11 losses.

In exhibition play the reserves defeated Har-Brack, Mt. Pleasant Ramsay, Penn Hills, Indiana and Wilkinsburg. The Derry Area jayvees downed the locals twice. Rounding out the schedule, the junior varsity polished off Penn Joint and Jeannette twice, and Connellsville once. Greensburg, Norwin, Uniontown and Hempfield dealt the reserves double defeats when the teams played.

Compiling a successful record of 10 wins and 4 losses was the Latrobe High School freshman basketball team.

The little Kittens, under the sponsorship of Coach Ray V. Wild, registered double victories over Harrold, Manor, Connellsville and Jeannette. Greensburg defeated the Kittens twice, while Penn Joint and Irwin split their series during the season.

Grapplers Capture County Championship Title; Finish With Winning Season

By compiling a dual record of seven wins against five losses, the Wildcat wrestlers under the coaching of Mr. Creed Westfall, again succeeded in notching a winning season.

Victories for the matmen came by way of Washington Township 69-0, Hempfield 38-12, Norwin 26-24, Jeannette 41-13, Uniontown 32-29, and Greensburg twice, 42-11 and 30-26.

The highlighting accomplishments came when the wrestlers annexed the Westmoreland Championship and deadlocked with Norwin for the WPIAL Section II crown. The team won the coveted county affair with 50 points, far in front of the other entrants. Thomas Goldstein, Terry Warren, Lionel Frowen, James Jioio, Wesley Thomas and Wayne Braden won.

In the section clash, Latrobe tied with Norwin as both squads scored 25 points. Earning individual honors were Thomas Goldstein, Wesley Thomas and Charles Wentzel.

Sixteen boys earned letters through their efforts on the squad. The seniors were Terry Warren, Wesley Thomas, Charles Wentzel, Richard Shirey and David Westfall. The latter served as team captain. Under the supervision of Coach Richard Braun, the 1960 edition of the track and field team experienced a highly successful season.

Although they were hampered by bad weather, the squad got off to a good start with the annual Intraclass Meet. Contrary to the usual outcome, the juniors copped the meet by scoring 99 points. The seniors came in second by scoring 76 points, while the sophomores tallied 23½ points. The freshmen garnered one point.

The regular season started on April 23 at home with a meet against Penn Hills. On the next Saturday the Cats traveled to Hempfield for another dual encounter. April 26 the tracksters had an away meet at Wilkinsburg. After attending the WPIAL Relays at Gateway High School, the cindermen had a home match with Derry Area High School.

Next came the meet with Greensburg at home on May 7. The regular dual season ended with a home clash against Connellsville. This year the Wildcats again played host to the Westmoreland County Track Meet. On May 17 the team attended the Uniontown Invitational Meet to complete the season.

Coach Braun was assisted by Mr. David Dunn and Mr. John Charlesworth.

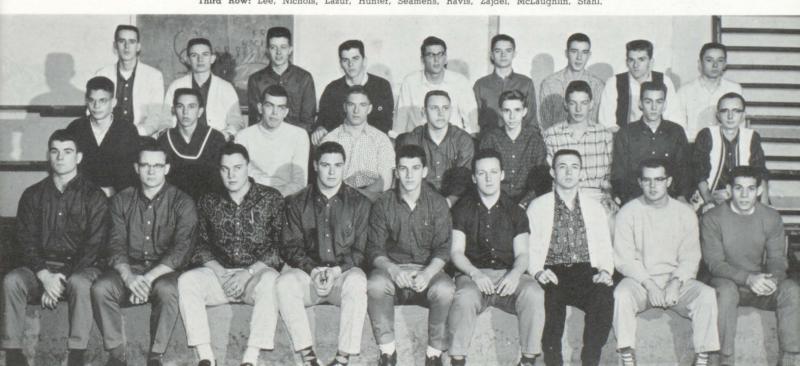

- IN A close race Joseph Nichols loses by a hair in the mile run at a track event.
- SENIOR TRACKMAN Ronald Hunter soars over a hurdle on his way to victory.

First Row: Harvey, Zabkar, Zink, Crain, Gebicki, Dumas, Lazur, Vid, Schifano.

Second Row: Kabana, Lees, Campbell, Moff, Bleehash, Grote, Shrum, DelSordo, Ruby.

Third Row: Lee, Nichols, Lazur, Hunter, Seamens, Ravis, Zajdel, McLaughlin, Stahl.

INTRAMURALS

Home Rooms Contend In Tournament To Win Girls' Basketball Distinctions

In stressing top physical fitness among all the students, the gym instructors for both boys and girls presented well-rounded schedules of activities designed to increase their athletic ability along certain lines.

Wrestling, basketball, rope climbing, high jumping, endurance running and exercises comprised Mr. Richard Braun's annual program for the boys' physical education action. The primary forms of tumbling were also successfully covered as a new project this year. Pushup and sit-up contests were held to determine the intramural winners. These encounters inspired the participants to utilize their best efforts in attempting to win.

Mrs. Mary Alice Graham, girls' gym instructor, planned her curriculum around games and exercises. Basketball, volleyball and indoor baseball provided the female contingent with the chance to become proficient in these sports while an extensive plan of stunts and calisthenics was adopted to aid in their poise and physical well-being for future years.

In home room basketball playoffs, junior home room 122 defeated senior home room 112 to become the champions of the school for the third successive year. They have been one of the few teams to gain this honor. Junior home room 119 was defeated in the semi-finals, while sophomore home room 13 defeated freshman home room 210.

- EXERCISES ON the parallel bars strengthen the muscles of Donald Loughner and Gene Paull.
- TOE TOUCHING calisthenics trim the waists of Catherine Kibe, Edna Kirkland and Judith Sickenberger.

Kneeling: Horak, Johnson, Kaczmarik, Keefe.

Standing: Hawanchak, Horwat, Kloock, Klapchar, Johnston,

Kattan, Henderson.

 PERFECTING THEIR sence of balance by practicing the duck walk are sophomores Michelle Robinsky and Eva Krivonik.

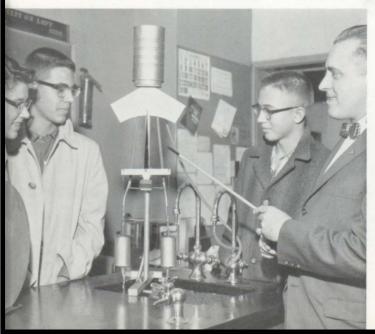

SCHOOL SCENES

Cheers, Ball Games, Studies Create Lasting Impressions For Graduates

 LAST MINUTE discussion before a pep assembly interests head majorette Pamela Johnston, cheerleader Jane Johnson and football letterman Anthony Gebicki.

 SCIENCE NIGHT explanations by local plant chemists εnd engineers make clear many principles to students.

- THOMAS McCREERY and Phyllis Mignogna admire a hall poster which heralds the basketball season.
- "HE'S OVER the goal line," cheer hundreds of happy fans at a Latrobe gridiron game.
- DUSTING, VACUUMING—some chores performed by Carol Marriott, Suzanne Griffin, Bennie Beatty and Jane Blank.

As the final day of school comes around again, students recall those many treasured moments of their high school days.

Many will remember the first day of school in September. Soon after, the football games started, the school year was on its way. Students settled down to the seriousness of study. Their classes of General Science, World History, Shorthand and P.O.D. always will be remembered. Seniors began to make plans for future college and working careers.

With the first signs of winter came the basketball games and the wrestling matches. Following the long-awaited Christmas vacation students began to prepare for mid-term exams. Students sighed a breath of relief when these were over.

The forensic season was introduced as spring made its annual appearance. Juniors and seniors made plans for the prom of early May. Now the end was drawing near. Many seniors shed a tear as graduation time had come. Baccalaureate and commencement exercises signified the completion of four happy years for the Class of '60. Memories of high school will remain with them forever.

 SCHOLASTIC EFFORTS play an important role throughout the school year for seniors Edith Graham and Calvin Pollins.

Onward and Upward...

From the yearbook editors comes grateful acknowledgement to the number of people who helped with the make-up and publication of this annual.

Much work has been done by the advertising, business and editorial staff to record the events of the school year. The book is offered to you in the hope that it will prove a keyhole through which past memories may be reviewed.

For the past half century, the history of America's mighty technological and industrial expansion has been the story of tool steel . . . and the growth of our company since its founding in 1910 has paralleled the ever-increasing needs of industry for first quality tool and special steels. From the first small plant in Latrobe, Vanadium-Alloys Steel Company has extended its operations until today we encompass five divisions in the United States, with subsidiaries in Canada an 'Italy, along with associate companies in both France and Italy.

Year after year, Vanadium-Alloys has maintained an outstanding reputation for leadership in its industry through strict adherence to quality and special emphasis on metallurgical research for new and improved steels

An important part of the Vanadium-Alloys story is good neighborliness, with each plant serving as a valuable member of its own community. Good neighborliness is more than paychecks and purchasing power—many of our employees work long and unselfishly on community and civic projects. As our second 50 years begin, we can look to the future with firm confidence that the next half century will be even better than our first.

What we call foreign affairs is no longer foreign affairs. It's a local affair. Whatever happens in Indonesia is important to Indiana. Whatever happens in any corner of the world has some effect on the farmer in Dickinson County, Kansas, or on a worker at a factory...The world must learn to work together—or finally it will not work at all.
