Of School
Broaden Pupil's
Outlook Of Life

School days aren't always the happiest, but on graduation night ask any member of the class of 1963 what the last four years have meant to him and he'll reply, "Its work and its play, its laughter and its tears will remain in my memory for years to come."

Little things form fond remembrances of high school life—things like the bustling hallways, redolent with the scent of pine at Christmas time; the unpleasant smell of sulfur dioxide in the chemistry lab; the feeling of togetherness as students prayed in assembly; the band skits at the football games and the hoarse voices afterwards; the All Class play, "Spring Fever"; the dignity of the National Honor Society and Mu Alpha Theta initiations, and the trip through the land of snakes with Hal Harris.

Also, the ice cream sold at the home games; the happy smiles

after the installation of the milk machines; the jangled nerves as seniors prepared their orations; the honor roll and the MLC bowling party; the tears as the "stately seniors" left the school on the last day; the exchange of namecards and pictures; the bi-weekly appearance of the High Post; dancing 'till dawn at the prom and post prom party, and finally graduation—all these will be remembered as the school year draws to a close.

Looking back, students will recall the countless happy and sad events which they have experienced. These memories are enclosed forever in this yearbook to rekindle school spirit many times as the following pages are unfolded repeatedly in years to come.

So come back now on a pictorial journey through the past nine months, filled to overflowing with adventures which will be relived in this 1963 Latrobean. With these memories the class of 1963 turn their backs on their alma mater as the world spreads before them.

REFLECTIONS

Remember the first day of school when a spark of excitement filled the air as each student wondered what the year held for him? And the bitterly cold nights when the band braved the weather to entertain at halftime at the football games?

Thanksgiving came and was gone and then, as Christmas neared, plans were made for homeroom decorations and the sound of carols filled the corridors.

Exams were taken and the year progressed with the Sadie Hawkins in March and beginning of the forensic season. Who will ever forget the prom or that most magical moment of all, graduation?

Homework, Extra Projects Promote Subject Interest

An attentive and systematic observer, the student of Latrobe High School entered the halls for a busy but pleasurable year. Education, the main objective of school life, helped the students to understand everyday problems and prepared them for careers in the everyday world. But the extra-curricular activities involved voluntary efforts, giving students a chance to participate in athletic contests, organization meetings, forensic contests and instrumental programs.

All pupils could join in with the wide range of activities. Time spent in outside and extra-curricular activities brought many rewarding experiences to the students. Association with fellow students aided in molding the character of all.

ADMINISTRATION

SUPERINTENDENT OF Latrobe Public Schools
David A. Snyder reviews the advantages of the unique floor plan of the new school.

Striving to maintain and improve the Greater Latrobe School District was the task of the administration.

With the joining of the Unity-Youngstown School District and the Latrobe Borough Schools, the Greater Latrobe School District was formed. Heading this new system was the School Board, consisting of 19 members. Mr. Carl Shirey served as Board president and Mr. Frank A. French, Jr., as vice-president. It was the job of the Board to plan the curriculum, hire teachers and arrange for necessary repairs on buildings. Filling the office of Superintendent of Schools was Mr. David A. Snyder. Mr. Snyder oversaw the general workings of the Latrobe Public Schools.

Principal Robert M. Crawford was found a great aid by parents concerned about the progress of their children and students seeking references. He also arranged for the weekly assemblies and compiled the quarterly honor roll. Every day in the Attendance Office, Assistant Principal William E. Yates was busy with his diverse activities. Checking attendance, arranging pupils' schedules and greeting visitors were among Mr. Yates' tasks.

The clerical work for the school was done by Mrs. Betsey Tillman, secretary to Mr. Crawford, and Mrs. Dorothy Ziegenfus, secretary to Mr. Yates. Working in the Administration Building were five ladies who performed other necessary clerical work. Miss Ruth Himler served as Mr. Snyder's secretary and as secretary to the School Board. Miss Hedi McFeaters, Miss Grace Shrack, Mrs. Marie Hvizdos and Mrs. Margie Horrell completed the staff.

Having served for nine years as principal of LHS, Mr. Crawford will retire at the close of the school year. During his career here, he accomplished much, always with the goal to promote good education. Since he came to Latrobe in 1954, he has been known to many as a friend; and to all, outstanding in his service to the school.

MR. WILLIAM YATES, assistant principal, supervises the daily distribution of attendance lists.

Aiding the students with problems was the main objective of the librarian and guidance counselor. Band, orchestra, art and chorus were provided for students to display their creative and musical talents. Building stronger, more alert bodies was the main duty of the Physical Education Department.

During the school year, the LHS Music Department functioned as an important source of extra-curricular activities for many students. Choruses for advanced and elementary vocal work, as well as a band and orchestra, for those interested in instrumental music, were provided.

Aiding students in finding reference material as well as desired books was the task of the librarian. Her work also included mending books and keeping the card catalogue up to date. Students were given an opportunity to gain coordination and skill in various games during physical education classes. Health classes provided a broader understanding of the human body and diseases which attack it.

In guidance classes underclassmen were shown how to study effectively. These instruction periods were under the direction of the Guidance Department, which also aided pupils in the selection of courses and helped students get jobs and make application to the college of their choice.

WITH THE help of Doctors Walter Berberich, Maurice Showalter, J. Wiley Hartman and Gerald N. Huber the school provides for the physical examinations of its student body.

MEDICS

Administering physical examinations, endeavoring to shield and protect the health of the pupils and aiding in other medical matters during the year was the school medical staff.

Dr. J. Wiley Hartman, aided by Dr. Walter Berberich, Dr. F. Clay Gibson, Dr. G. F. Nealon, Dr. Paul Mankovich, Dr. Gerald Huber, Dr. John Mazero and Dr. John Parker, comprised the medical group. Directing the dental examinations was Dr. M. A. Showalter.

Nurses Mrs. Florence Young, Mrs. Lois Shirey and Mrs. Jacqueline Shive'tts assisted the physicians and managed the schedule for the junior physical examinations and the freshman vision and hearing tests at the School Infirmary in the Second Ward School.

Listed as objectives of the examination by the doctors were the chest, heart, feet and blood pressure. Mrs. Young, using the audiometer for checking the ears and administering eye tests, was able to detect other problems of the pupils.

Mrs. Young and the examining doctors notified the parents of the students of any physical defect found. The school nurse suggested that the students have impairments checked by their family physician or eye doctor. The examinations were of help to the students by telling them of any defect and giving them the opportunity to correct it.

MRS. JACQUELINE Shive'tts, Mrs. Lois Shirey and Mrs. Florence Ycung, school nurses, prepare reports that notify pupils of physical defects or impairments in addition to arranging for medical check ups.

IN PREPARATION for physical exams health room attendants check and record the weights of fellow students.

DOROTHY BILLER, Patricia Cline and Jane Downs take the monthly inventory of medical supplies.

Eight girls in charge of the health room, under the supervision of Mrs. Young throughout the year, provided successfully the services they were qualified to render. Their jobs were mainly to administer help to students becoming ill while in school. Some of the girls intend to enter the field of nursing and thus gain valuable instruction to aid them in their future occupations.

Girls serving as attendants gave their services voluntarily. During the morning sessions Elaine Krinock, Margaret Walker, Sharon Wineland and Joyce Parker performed the duties. Jane Downs, Dorothy Biller, Patricia Cline and Patricia Harvey were in charge in the afternoon.

In the carrying out of their duties the eight girls tended to bruises, bandaged abrasions and applied liniment for the treatment of mild burns and other inflammations. Administering internal medication was not permitted.

Besides assisting with physical examinations, Mrs. Young's duties included aiding health room attendants by giving information pertaining to medical care, helping in the chest-rays for the Latrobe public schools and administering services for the elementary schools as well.

Visiting the high school daily throughout the year, Mrs. Young advised students concerning physical impairments, such as chronic rashes, contagious ailments and other infirmities which may have affected student health.

SICK ROOM monitors Sherry Wineland and Patricia Harvey check to see that ailing Elaine Krinock's admission slip is filled out properly when she reports due to an upset stomach.

Groups Enhance
Latrobe High's
Academic Program

Accompanying a year of hard work and study, the activities of the students of Latrobe High School provided them with a well-rounded social life, even though the pupils were obliged to obey the motto, "Business before pleasure."

Through the extra-curricular activities, adequate opportunities to develop individual personalities in students were available. They also aided in unfurling the pupil's ability to work with his fellow man.

Many service groups functioning in the high school gave the members a chance to survey their respective fields of endeavor. The JCL, the SCL, the Modern Language Club, the Biology Club and the Commercial Club allowed the participants to perforate into special fields of study. Publications, music, forensics and dramatics enabled students to display their talents.

Members of the Student Council served the school and their fellow students, while those holding memberships in the safety and fire patrols aided by safeguarding the school.

With the sound of typewriters pounding frantically in the background, as copy was proofread and approved, the members of the Journalism II staff wrote busily to produce the bi-weekly newspaper and the Latrobean, the student yearbook.

Some of the difficulties encountered by the writers were the correct usage of rules to produce a well constructed lead paragraph and rushing to beat the deadline. However, satisfaction is reached when the writer first reads his story as it is put in print.

issues to other schools. Between editions of the High Post, Latrobean write ups must be prepared according to a rigid schedule. Staff members also contribute stories about school functions to the local newspaper. This service keeps the community informed about school activities.

Proper application of the rules of style were taught by Mr. William R. Couchenour, adviser of publications, to the participants in Journalism I. Future journalists must learn the do's and don'ts of news writing, their application, the effectiveness of lead paragraphs and the mechanisms dealt with in publishing a newspaper.

During this class, the sophomores are exposed to the qualifications which make a good journalist. After completing this course they become members of the journalism staff, which includes news, features and sports departments, and of the business and advertisement staffs.

Participating in scholastic competition, the annual and school paper have received many honors. High ratings from Pennsylvania School Press Association, Columbia Press Association and the National Scholastic Press Association were presented to the Publications. Individual honors were presented to staff members for news, features, sports and editorial copy.

Deciding upon the color and style of the year-book is one of the many duties of Karen Juhasz, Latrobean editor, while Katherine McCarthy, High Post editor, assigns duties to writers as one of her many obligations.

Thus, as the years of honest effort come to an end, members of the graduating journalism department leave their places with thoughts of a job well done.

SPORTS EDITORS Thomas Ciocco and Gene Paull evaluate their page layout with David Downs and Christopher Abraham.

JUNIOR STAFF writers consult past issues of the High Post in preparation for editing next year's publications.

FORENSICS

With the approach of spring, the forensics season was ushered in as one of the school's major activities.

Gaining the first place position in the Rotary Oratorical Contest, was Myra Lynch with her oration, "Stand Up, Speak Out, and Bravely." She warned, "Today we won't stand up for anything . . . not even for ourselves. Where has the courage and the drive to speak for our beliefs gone? You may do or defend what is right, perhaps never realizing a reward in your lifetime. But that which is good is never gone unrewarded. Someone, somewhere will benefit by your act."

Russell Walker was proclaimed second place winner for his presentation of "Great is Truth." At the beginning he quoted a biblical passage, "Great is truth and mighty above all things."

"Return to Individualism" by Virginia Pollins was awarded honors for third place. "I dare you to be an individual," she stated and went on to explain that the human race is losing its individualism.

Helen Van Norden received honorable mention for her delivery, "A Pearl of Great Price."

Other students displaying their ability as authors and speakers by competing in the finals were Clifford Evans, Linda Frichtel, Janet Gallagher and David Hornung. The contest was open to all seniors.

The topic in the annual Ruth Robb Debate was "Resolved: That the United States should promote a common market in the Western Hemisphere." Receiving the honors this year was the negative team of Karen Juhasz and Fred Fletcher. Jane Downs and Carol Sproch compiled the opposing team.

REMEMBERING ALL the long hours of arduous labor and nerve-wracking stage fright which went into the writing of senior orations, finalists Linda Frichtel, Helen Van Norden, Virginia Pollins, Janet Gallagher, Clifford Evans, David Hornung and Russell Walker join Myra Lynch, 1963 Rotary Oratorical Contest first place winner, as she admires the trophy cup, visible proof of a job well done.

WOMEN'S CLUB division winners Myra Lynch and Carol Sproch approve of Russell Walker's selection of passages from "Macbeth."

Speech Contests Develop Poise, Oratorical Ability Of Individual

RUNNERS UP Russell Walker, Nanette Priestas, Janice Hauser and Judith Givens gather information for this year's extemp topics.

The winning couple cited the need for association with the common market as it would tend to lower the status of our nation. However, the opposing team stated a common market would raise economic and educational standards and greatly lessen the dangers of a Communistic take-over in Latin America. While the team of Juhasz and Fletcher offered a solution of Foreign Aid, Jane and Carol held that Foreign Aid has done nothing in the past to solve the problems of Latin America.

For the twenty-sixth consecutive year the Women's Club of Latrobe sponsored their annual contest. Divided into three categories, two finalists from each were selected to compete. In poetry reading Carol Sproch emerged as the winner. Myra Lynch captured the declamation prize, while Russell Walker gained top honors for his Shakespearean reading. The other three finalists included Judith Milliron, Virginia Pollins and Julie Nicolazzo.

"Today's Crises and How They Affect the USA," was the topic of discussion in the Kiwanis Club Extemporaneous Speaking Contest. Awarded the grand prize was Clifford Evans, senior, for his presentation. Winners in each class were Virginia Dovey, junior; Pamela Saxman, sophomore; and Emil Sarady, freshman. Russell Walker, Judith Givens, Janice Hauser and Nanette Priestas composed the other participants in the finals.

Faculty advisers to supervise the contests were Miss Irene Mertz, orations; Miss Martha Osborne, extemp; Mrs. Eleanor Gadd, debates and Miss Louann Love, Women's Club Contest.

CLASS WINNERS Pamela Saxman, Virginia Dovey and Emil Sarady examine the loving cup which Clifford Evan received.

HOME-BOUND students receive the latest news edition from their home room High Post representative Marsha Sowers.

Hall Monitors Enforce Rules

Advertising all the important events of the school term, the Poster Club functioned this year under the guidance of Mrs. Clare Stover.

At the initial meeting of the club, a list of the main school activities, including sporting events, plays and dances, was given out. Each member then decided which posters he would prepare during the year. All of the work on these displays was done outside of school.

Membership was limited this year to seniors only, because of the great number of interested students. On Awards Day, participants who had accumulated 12 or more points received pins as recognition for their work. A large sign made on poster paper counted two points. One-half point was given for a medium-sized poster and one-fifth of a point for a display on construction paper.

Members of the organization elected Louis Pevarnik president; Dolores Ritenour, vice-president, and Barbara Carota, secretary-treasurer of the club. Besides the posters hung in the school, some were displayed in the downtown stores, publicizing school functions.

All signs had to be approved by the adviser before being exhibited. "The Poster Club can be a vital link between the school and the community," stated Mrs. Stover.

"Will all High Post Representatives please report to Room 118 at this time."

As this announcement came over the broadcast on the 12 days of publication, 40 representatives met to count the school papers for their respective home rooms and to receive information concerning distribution. At the beginning of the school term the work of the High Post Representatives helped staff members to present an informative home room program concerning the sale of school publications.

The diligent students also collected money for subscriptions to the High Post and Latrobean published by the journalism staff. To promote the sale of these publications was the duty of each reporter. As the school term reached a climax, the representatives fulfilled their hardest task—carrying the long awaited Latrobean to their eager classmates.

The High Post Representatives were elected by members of their home rooms as one of six home room officers.

"These people are elected to do a very responsible job and receive very little recognition," stated Mr. William Couchenour, adviser to the group.

Club Publicizes School Affairs; Representatives Issue Papers

AS ONE part of her duty Linda Riley directs Harry Goldberg, a bewildered freshman to the correct classroom.

Patrolling the halls and keeping watch were the Student Service guards each period.

The guards checked students' lockers, turned all articles and unlocked locks to the lost and found and on occasion would assist or guide a visitor. They also turned corridor lights on and off at the conclusion and beginning of classes.

To lead their periodic meetings, the 57 members chose Alquin Heinnickel, president; Kathleen Kozenko, vice-president; Jo Ann Zahorchak, secretary-treasurer; and Linda Riley, Student Council representative. Mr. William Yates, adviser, reminds members of the duties and responsibilities at the meetings. Checking to see if you had a hall pass, these workers always on the alert. They made certain that all the school laws were obeyed.

As stated by Mr. Yates, "The Student Service in Latrobe High School has but one purpose in its existence and that is to make our school a better place in which to work. The members are constantly alert in looking for anything that might endanger the student body or that might make our high school less comfortable.

SAFETY PATROL

Seated: Baughman, Cost, Newman, Bollinger, Chambers, Prah.

Second Row: Romansky, Chesla, Cicchitello, Marshall, Lantzy, Peterman, Vilks.

This school year in the vicinity of LHS, the familiar orange flags of the safety patrol became a part of everyday school life as patrol members carried out their duties by assisting students and motorists in reaching their destinations safely.

Appearing at their stations four times daily, regardless of the weather, the safety patrol performed admirably in leading the school to another accident-free year.

As in previous school terms, the patrol regulated student traffic and vehicles at Minehan Avenue and Ligonier and Jefferson Streets as well as aiding local police and Civil Defense members in parking cars at all home football games. With the removal of the lady patrolmen from the corners near the school, the patrolmen were again permitted to stop cars.

Stated the patrol's adviser, Mr. Frederick Halsall, "All safety patrol members perform an important service to the school in terms of helping the student body to become more safety conscious."

The Latrobe Junior Chamber of Commerce was the donor of the yellow raincoats which the boys wear and the flags which they carry. At the end of four years of service, a boy becomes eligible for an award made by the American Automobile Association. This year, seniors Paul Vilks and Ronald Benford received medals in recognition of their service.

Vilks and Benford, seniors and Charles Bollinger, a junior served as captains. The patrol was advised by Mr. Halsall, assisted by Mr. Earl Karasack.

Serving the student body as a safety precaution in the event of a fire was utmost to the Fire Patrol members.

As the drill alarm sounded, the 12 members moved quickly to their designated places and performed their assigned duties. Members made a thorough check of the building during the drills to see that all windows and doors were closed and the lights turned off. Additional duties of the volunteers were to remove all unauthorized persons from the building. In the event of a fire, members would assist the Latrobe Volunteer Fire Department in fighting fires and act as messengers.

Seniors Louis Pevarnik, Eugene Ciafre and Anthony Kalokerinos headed this year's Fire Patrol. Organized in 1948 by Mr. Robert Cook, who is still the adviser, this indispensable organization has served the school for 15 years.

"I am pleased to head such a serviceable organization as the Fire Patrol," stated Mr. Cook.

The Fire Patrol was comprised of members of the junior and senior classes who volunteered to serve.

"Pin him down!" "Get that ball!" "Block that kick!"

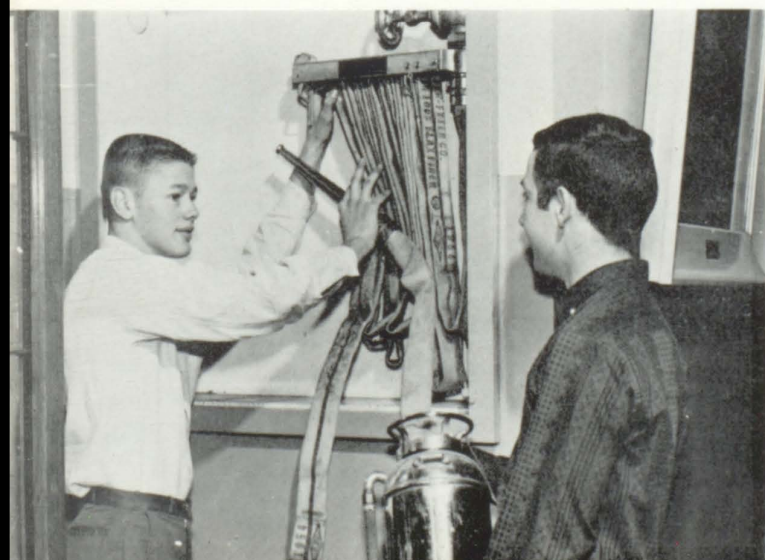

Such expressions were used by the Wildcat varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders as they led student cheering sections during the 1962-63 sports seasons. Cheering and enthusiasm are essential in every activity but people to lead the body with these cheers is a very important aspect in any event. Therefore, the 16 girls believed in the proverb, "Practice makes perfect." During the summer the girls practiced three days a week and everyday the week before school commenced.

Karen Juhasz, head, Linda Domenic, co-head, Mary Lou Atkinson, Merrily Ryder, Donna Calabrace, Jeanne DeFlavio, Kathleen Sarp and Mary Ann Westfall comprised the list of varsity cheerleaders. Helping to raise school spirit was the Latrobe Wildcat, Anthony Pericelli.

Members of the junior varsity squad were Kathleen Guzik, Patricia Cline, Judith Giannini, Kathleen Hughes, Constance Carota, Susan Kelly, Marcella Novak and Linda Monzo. They led yells at jayvee wrestling, basketball and Wildkitten football events.

Instrumentalists Display Talent

Providing a necessary part of school life are the instrumental organizations of Latrobe High School, the Band and Orchestra.

Comprised of 100 members, the Wildcat marching band participated in many school activities under the baton of Mr. Gary Couch. They marched at football games, playing the traditional school songs. Two weeks before the beginning of school, the Band practiced precision marching and musical selections for the up-coming year.

In October, the Band was invited to appear at a Marching Band Festival, marching with other Pennsylvania high school bands. The group also took part in the Halloween, Veterans' Day and Memorial Day parades.

Under the supervision of Mr. Eugene Pecoraro, grade school music teacher, the 41 members of the Orchestra played for assemblies, dramatic presentations and forensic contests. The highlight of the year was the Spring Concert in which the Orches-

Presiding as officers of the Orchestra were Linda Frichtel, president; Susan Halstead, vice-president; Margaret Gibson, secretary and Virginia Dovey, librarian.

Those students in Band and Orchestra displaying musical ability were chosen to attend district and county events. Participants in County band included Keith Robb, trumpet; Eric Marnell, baritone; Richard Moretti, trumpet; Susan Halstead, trombone and Charles Persons, bass. The Pennsylvania Music Educators Association sponsored a workshop in which Orchestra members Judy Givens, flute and Virginia Dovey, Susan Halstead, Cathy Clarke, violin, participated.

VOCAL MUSIC

Strains of such songs as "Aura Lee" drifted from the music room telling students that one of the choruses was busily rehearsing for the annual spring concert.

Freshmen boys and girls received elementary training in Boy's and Girl's Chorus I, respectively. Accompaniment for the boys was provided by Robert Harris, while Judith Inselmini accompanied the girls. Girl's Chorus II, composed of sophomores, juniors and seniors, sang three part harmony with Cheryl Helfferich as accompanist.

The most select of the vocal groups was the Mixed Chorus. This year they did most of their work 'a cappella', or without musical accompaniment. At times when the piano was used, Myra Lynch served as pianist. Classical music was included in the repertoire of the Mixed Chorus.

New facilities were provided for the Music Department when room 120 was made into a rehearsal room. All of the choruses were under the direction of Mr. Gary L. Couch, who has completed his first full year at Latrobe High.

"Education is the key to success."

With this familiar quotation in mind, members of the Future Teachers of America anticipate the coming years when they, as teachers, will develop the minds of students.

The FTA enables prospective teachers to explore the different aspects of the teaching field and to be answered on their many inquiries. In what field of the teaching profession should I train? What are the proper methods of conducting classrooms? These are a few of the questions brought forth at the club meetings. Guest speakers from various educational professions replied to questions.

Leading the approximately 45 members were Julie Nicolazzo, president; Michael Lechman, vice-president; Karen Juhasz, secretary-treasurer; and Diane Dunhoff, Student Council representative. Miss Sandra McWilliams and Mrs. Nancy Ruffner were co-advisers.

"Laughter is the best medicine."

Displaying this to be true is any child at Latrobe Hospital as a member of the Readers' Club fulfills her duty of reading and playing with the young patients on a Saturday morning. The girls also aided in the Muscular Dystrophy Drive and assisted anyone needing charitable aid in their communities. During the Christmas season, distribution of a Christmas basket to some needy family was another of their unselfish deeds.

Serving as officers of the club were Patricia Williams, president; Carol Eicher, vice-president; Cheryl French, secretary; Jeanne Kennedy, treasurer and Geneva Miedel, Student Council representative.

"This club serves as a valuable training group for future nurses and for anyone interested in any form of medicine or social work," added Miss Adeline E. Reeping, Readers' Club adviser.

Mardi Gras Highlights Affairs; Readers Cheer Child Patients

READERS' CLUB officers Patricia Williams, Geneva Miedel, Jean Kennedy and Cheryl French choose children stories.

Modern Language Club members can gaze back upon their exciting and eventful activities during the 1962-1963 school term.

The annual bowling tournament was the first social event of the year held in January. The boy and girl with the best scores received prizes. The girl emerging with the lowest score also received a prize.

Highlighting the club's events was the annual Mardi Gras Costume Ball in March. This dance is patterned after the original occasion held in New Orleans. Reigning over the gala affair was a court consisting of a king, queen, prince, princess and beautifully attired ladies-in-waiting representing both the Junior and Senior Classes.

Concluding the organization's social activities was the swimming party held on the last day of school. This annual affair is held at Ligonier Valley Beach to which all members are invited to attend.

John Pawlosky led the members in the activities of the year. Other officers included Theodore Camerote, vice-president; Lynn Vechter, secretary; Monica Lopushansky, treasurer; and Jon Erny, Student Council representative.

Organized in 1947 for the purpose of exchanging ideas about the respective cultures members have been studying, the club is open to all junior and senior students taking French or Spanish.

The club, sponsored by Mrs. Nancy Frye, was one of the largest organizations in the school, with approximately 170 members.

By stimulating research, experimentation and applications in the field of modern science, the Biology Club diversified the student curriculum which lacked a regularly scheduled laboratory period.

Officers elected to serve the club for the year of 1962-63 included Cathy Clark, president; Richard Laposky, vice-president; Carol Sproch, secretary; Richard Slivoskey, treasurer, and Judith DeFelice, Student Council representative.

Under the leadership of Miss Virginia A. Daniels, Biology instructor, the club organized after the first quarter of the year. In the third year of its existence, the club claimed a total membership of 300, while this year's membership exceeds 90.

Affiliated with the Future Scientists of America, The Science Clubs of America and the Pennsylvania Junior Academy of Science, the Biology Club conducted field trips, required research papers, enacted skits in the school assemblies and prepared programs for those interested in science vocations.

Meeting on the first Monday of each month, the executive board, consisting of officers and committee chairmen, prepared the plans for the scheduled club meeting on the second Monday of each month. During these meetings students conducted biological experiments and listened to guest speakers.

To become a member of the Biology Club, a student must have attained an average of 85 or better in the subject of biology and maintained that average throughout the year.

Club Sustains Math Interest

MU ALPHA Theta president James McWilliams explains the significance of the club charter to fellow officers.

Offering opportunities for qualified students to further their study of mathematics, the Mu Alpha Theta strived to encourage a greater interest in this field.

Selected to lead the club in its activities was James McWilliams. Other officers included Russell Walker, vice-president; Patricia Doherty, secretary; Jack Townsend, treasurer, and Paul Vilks, Student Council Representative.

Admission to the organization is based on qualities of a National Honor Society as well as high mathematics grades. A candidate for membership must have an average beyond 85 per cent in Algebra I, Algebra II and the first semester of geometry.

In voting for members, character, leadership and service to the school are also considered. Although there were 23 members during the past school term, any number of students may belong. Voting is conducted in the spring, after the beginning of the second semester. Meetings were held on the first Thursday of each month. Activities included speakers from colleges and local industries. During December, former members of the organization spoke of their experiences.

Following the election of new members, an initiation ceremony was held in May.

Answering the familiar call of "will you help me find a book, or where is the information on this author," are the 17 girls serving as Student Librarians.

Helping pupils and faculty members take out books, two girls for each period assist Mrs. Nancy Weisner, head librarian. Library permits are collected and stamped and overdue notices are sent to careless students. As an advertisement for new books, the jackets are displayed on the bulletin board.

Before the library opens each day, dust is swished off the shelves. The magazines are straightened and current publications added to the rack. The card file is also attended to during this time. File cards are typed and books prepared for circulation. Torn books are repaired. At the beginning of this year the fiction section was increased and new books of all types were put into circulation.

"The Student Librarians perform a great service by working in the library and assisting both students and faculty," stated Mrs. Weisner.

The girls met a few times at the beginning of the year to discuss their duties and responsibilities.

BIOLOGY OFFICERS Judith DeFelice, Carol Sproch, Cathy Clarke, Richard Slivosky and Richard Laposky note the latest biological advances.

PATRICIA HARTMAN, Jeanne Smith and Karen Guzik, library assistants, sort reference magazines for use by the student body.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Procured and redecorated this year, the large white Student Council house became familiar to the pupils of the school as one of the latest accomplishments of this service group.

Comprised of approximately 65 members, each one a representative from a home room, club, organization or other students willing to serve, the Council rendered its services to the student body. The main purposes of the association were to promote worthy school activities, to provide opportunities for student cooperation and participation in developing a greater responsibility for discipline.

Fellow members elected Weldon Sipe, president; Margaret Hamill, vice-president; Pat Williams, secretary, and Robert Newyear, treasurer. Mr. James R. Beatty was adviser and counselor for the group.

The most outstanding achievement of the Council was the purchase of the paintings that adorn the halls. Each year the officers view the art exhibit at Carnegie Museum to decide upon the canvasses to be brought back for showing at the annual art assembly. The student body then selects the works to add to the permanent collection.

Serving refreshments to customers at the football, basketball games and wrestling matches, the members dedicated many hours of their time aiding the Council to earn money for the projects. Representatives were also on hand to usher at Parents'

Night and to assist at Freshman and Eighth Grade Days.

Ticket, decoration and refreshment arrangements for the two Council-sponsored dances, "Leaf Stag" and the "Sadie Hawkins," were other projects undertaken by the group. Green paper wreaths constructed by members of the decorating committee adorned the auditorium during the Christmas season.

The Council furnished the student body with seven programs conducted by professional entertainers at the special assemblies. Members of the organization also led devotions and introduced speakers at the regular assemblies.

Operating the Lost and Found, Council volunteers collected money to support the group's activities. The members accommodated play patrons by working in the check room and taking care of their coats.

The organization, operating mainly in committees, held its meetings the second and fourth Mondays of each month. Mr. James R. Beatty has been faculty adviser to the Council 32 of the 43 years the school organization has existed at Latrobe High School.

Members who earned a total of 18 points received a pin on Awards Day. Bronze, silver and gold pins signified the number of years of service. Gold pins with a guard served as fourth year symbols. Guards, representing the office held, were added to the officers' pins.

Those who received pins accompanied the Council to Pittsburgh in May to see one of the new film releases with a side-stop to the Carnegie Museum. The trip and theater ticket were paid for by the Council.

DRAMATICS

As the house lights grew dim, nervous thespians waited off stage for the line which would be their cue to enter.

The dramatic season began with "Spring Fever," the All Class play. Unfortunately, spring fever struck Howard Brant at precisely the wrong time — while he was taking Professor Bean's zoology course. Complicating the plot were a term paper to be written in several hours and the arrival of Howard's Aunt Maude, who had come to see him graduate. Adding to Howard's woes are the explosions from Ed Burns' laboratory and Ann Percell's intrusions on his privacy. Ann, who loves Howard, has her problems, for her parents, for whom she has made no provisions, arrive. She solves her problem by sending her wealthy father to stay with Howard only to have him mistaken by art student Vic Lewis for his model.

Portraying characters were David Downs, Howard Brant; Julie Nicolazzo, Mrs. Spangler; James Laughrey, President Dixon; Virginia Pollins, Mrs. Percell; August Derito, Mr. Percell; Virginia Dovey, Ann Percell; Carol Sproch, Vivian George; Gene Paull, Vic Lewis; Michael Hollick, Ed Burns; Rita Mankovich, Lou Herron; Cheryl Helfferich, Aunt Maude; Jeffery Underwood, Professor Bean. Student directors were Barbara Kisick and Cathy Hays.

was a three-act comedy. The Gage family had remodeled a house in Connecticut and recently moved in. Their happiness, however, was short-lived for soon Jonathan and Mathilda Rockwood, former owners of the house, returned to claim their property.

The Rockwoods, who were joined by their son Matt, moved in taking over part of the house. Being old-fashioned, Jonathan and Mathilda objected to the improvements made by Herbert and Marge Gage.

Cast members were Sandra Fleming, Frieda; Jon Erny, Herbert Gage; Gloria Pundai, Sarah Gage; Mary Ann Westfall, Paula Gage; Judy Campbell, Marge Gage; Amy Fowler, Barbara Gage; Michael Hollick, George Husted; Dennis Flanagan, Jonathan Rockwood; Virginia Dovey, Mathilda Rockwood; Morris Fiorina, Mr. Loomis; James Laughrey, Uncle Walter; David Downs, Matt Rockwood; Alquin Heinicke, Carson; Theodore Mankovich, Constable. Patricia Mekic was student director.

Terminating the dramatic season was the Senior Class play, "Pygmalion," by George Bernard Shaw. In this production, a wager between Henry Higgins, a phonetics expert, and Colonel Pickering is the basis for the plot. Higgins bet Pickering that he could take a girl from the street and train her so that, at an upcoming ball, she would pass for a dutchess.

It happens that Eliza Doolittle, a young Cockney girl, is chosen for the experiment. Higgins does take Eliza to the ball where everyone thinks she is a dutchess. But after Eliza's success, Higgins no longer cares anything about her or what she does. Eliza becomes angry and walks out, for she thought that Higgins really did care.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

Seated: Lynch, Juhasz, McCarthy, Van Norden.

Standing: Fletcher, Evans, Rise, Walker, Townsend.

Emphasizing the academic interests of secondary education, the National Honor Society strived to recognize the intelligent students of strong character who served the school and assumed the responsibilities of leadership.

Admission to the honorary society is based on these three qualities, other than the primary requisite of being in the upper-fourth of the Junior or Senior Class. In choosing the members, service, leadership and character are all considered.

Under the supervision of Mr. James Beatty, Clifford Evans served as president of the society. Other officers included Russell Walker, vice-president; Helen Van Norden, secretary; and Jack Townsend, treasurer.

Each member of the faculty was given a ballot on which he voted for a certain number of candidates. Students enrolled in any course were eligible to join. Grades made by students of the Senior Class throughout high school determined those ranking in the upper 25 per cent of the class. The list of juniors was compiled from the number of times each student's name has appeared on the honor and high honor roll. A fewer number of juniors was selected.

In the spring, an induction ceremony was held to install new members of the society. Each student received a pin signifying his membership. Being a strictly honorary organization, the society has almost no social events, since most members participate in other extra-curricular activities. A dinner is held each year for the members.

Gaining membership into the Quill and Scroll is a meaningful achievement of a journalism student. High scholastic standing, as well as journalistic ability, was required of the initiate.

To incorporate Initiative, Opportunity, Leadership, Loyalty, Enlightenment, Friendship and Truth into his writings was the main objective of the journalism students who gained membership.

The members elected Linda Frichtel, president; Julie Nicolazzo, vice-president; Pat Doherty, secretary; Karen Juhasz, corresponding secretary; Katherine McCarthy, treasurer; Linda Domenic and Mary Lou Atkinson, program committee; and Diane Dunhoff and Carol Eicher, project committee.

In order to gain admittance into the society, a junior or senior editorial staff member must rank in the upper-third of his class, have written 250 inches of published copy and have a recommendation from the publications adviser. Students on the business and advertising departments must be on the staff two years and meet the other requirements except the printed copy.

Encountering many problems as they worked back stage, the nine members of the stage crew labored to complete their work for plays, skits, and assemblies which took place during the course of the past school year.

With the aid of head stage manager, senior Ronald Benford, the crew completed such tasks as the management of the curtains, lights and microphones. Obtaining and preparing stage props for the several school plays and assemblies also fell into their category of work. The eight other members included seniors Dave Peters, Bob Olson; sophomores Gilbert Gleckl, Gregory Petermann, Regis Kurela, Dave Kuzie and freshmen Tom Conn and John Smith.

Assistant principal William E. Yates, faculty adviser to this service group, has stated his admiration for the group. "The stage crew is a fine example of a group of boys who serve their community, that is, the school."

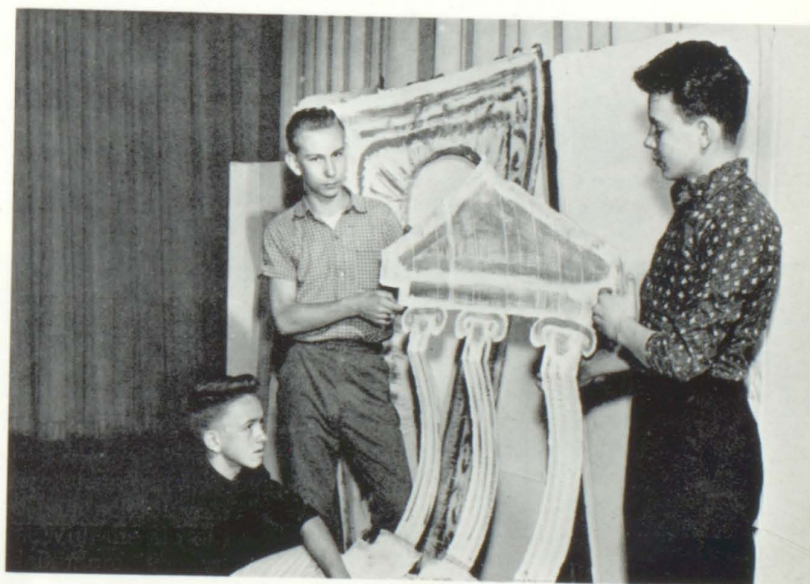

Also assisting the group was Mr. Frederick Halsall, vocational coordinator.

Broadcasters Announce News; Ushers Distribute Programs

Functioning to stimulate interest in commercial jobs, the Commercial Club strives to supplement classroom instruction.

Throughout the year, the club's programs have encouraged the members to look for a career in this field. Movies were shown reviewing a secretary's typical day in an office, and a personnel director of a local industry told of qualifications and duties necessary to hold a secretarial job. Each year members tour a business school as part of the club's program. Through the club, they receive first-hand information on job possibilities.

Under the guidance of Miss Florence Gill, commercial teacher, Barbara Carola was elected president of the organization at the initial meeting. Other officers elected included Donna Calabrace, vice-president; Sandra Fleming, secretary; and Patricia Mekic, treasurer and Gloria Pundai, Council representative.

Club meetings were held on the second Tuesday of each month. Membership was limited to junior and senior girls enrolled in the commercial course.

The club provided the opportunity for students to become better acquainted with the office procedures they will encounter. Another goal for the group was to help students make the necessary adjustment from the classroom to the office.

"Follow me please," was the often repeated phrase of the girls who served as ushers at events in the school auditorium.

Glenda Wadsworth served as head usher on the main floor. Fulfilling the head position in the balcony was Leslie Sperber. Miss Catherine Netzlof served as adviser to the club. Wearing white dresses, the ushers were characterized by their qualities of neatness and promptness. They were required to attend all meetings, but were permitted two excused absences from ushering events.

The girls collected tickets, escorted people to their seats and handed out programs. During football season the ushers, on a volunteer basis, helped people at the stadium. The All Class play was the first indoor activity. Also in the auditorium, the girls ushered for the Junior and Senior Class plays, the Rotary Club and Woman's Club's contests, Ex-temporaneous Speaking Contest finals and any other school event held in the auditorium.

After serving as an usher for two years, any girl who met the qualifications was eligible for a letter on Awards Day. Miss Netzlof selected the girls to receive awards.

This familiar opening was heard every Monday and Thursday during the home room period as the broadcasting staff informed the student body of news happenings. In addition to presenting the news and sports results, the staff advertised important social and scholastic events.

Under the supervision of Miss Mary Louise McBride, the news, script and sports editors made these regular presentations available to the student body. Aided by the advice of Miss McBride, the broadcasting class learned the fundamentals of preparing and delivering a broadcast. News editor was Virginia Pollins. Dianne Graham carried out the duties as script editor, while Jack Townsend filled the position of sports editor. They were assisted by 17 juniors and seniors who comprised this year's staff.

Presenting the annual Christmas broadcast was the staff's largest production. This year's presentation was "Magic Nutcracker," which was based on the "Nutcracker Suite" by Tschaikowsky. Also during the Christmas season, the staff members aided the Red Cross in taping recorded messages by their families for servicemen stationed overseas.

Conventions, Toga Hops, Projects Supplement Study Of Language

Linking the present with the civilization of the past, the Junior Classical League endeavored to further student interest in the culture of Ancient Rome and to provide social activities to stimulate this interest.

Assisting adviser Miss Adeline Reeping were the following officers: Richard Slivosky and Kenneth Nicely, consuls; Susan Johnson, proconsul; Jean Kennedy, scribe; Joseph Reeping, quaestor; Dorothy Biller, Student Council representative.

Initiating the year's activities, a Toga Hop, supervised by local disc jockey Ray Blair, honored King and Queen, Michael Hollick and Mary Ann Westfall. "Amicitia" or "Friendship Week" began Monday, November 19, with boys extending extra courtesy to the girls and vice versa on Tuesday. Apple Day for the teachers concluded the annual observance on Wednesday. In keeping with JCL tradition, the Latineers entered a Roman float in the annual Halloween Parade.

The Latin I students said good-bye to the second year scholars by honoring them with a Farewell Dinner in December. A slave auction, held annually to collect canned goods to give to needy families, found the Latin I "slaves" catering to the wishes of their Latin II "masters." Second semester activities commenced with a play at Saint Vincent Prep, enacted by the latter's Chapter of the JCL. Earlier in the year, the Latrobe Latineers toured the language labs at Saint Vincent, upon invitation by the Prepsters.

The annual State Convention, attended by a majority of the Latrobe JCLers, was held at Dover, Pennsylvania. Here, Latin students from all over the state assembled to listen to speakers on various educational topics, to participate in contests and quizzes and to enjoy refreshments provided by the hosting school.

During the Latin Festival, pupils created projects

Headed by Kathie Thomas and Jane McCarthy, the Latin newspaper, "The Torch," kept the students informed on JCL activities throughout the year. Department heads for the production were Cindy Forsha, Pam Saxman, Ann Osborne, Karen Rogers and Gail Bronson.

This year the Junior Classical League added to the large collection of Latin trophies another nationally-awarded prize. The trophy, given by the association for the Promotion of the Study of Latin, was earned by students competing in a nation-wide examination because of their high scores.

Acting as an advisory group to the JCL, the Senior Classical League members were former Latin students who enjoyed the benefits derived from membership in the JCL. Leading the group were Cathy Hays and Carolyn Clemens, consuls; Joyce Frederick, pro-consul; Patricia Williams, scriba; Michael Hollick, quaestor, and Judy Campbell, Student Council representative. The Senior Classical League made the arrangements for the Toga Hop and assisted with preparations for the other activities.

Sports' prime objective, building strong bodies and developing sound minds, was encountered by athletes of Latrobe High School as they participated in the many athletic teams. The contestants exhibited skill in each event, showing team spirit, and as the season progressed, improved play.

Interscholastic sports offered were football, basketball, cross country, wrestling, golf and tennis. The athlete carried a responsibility to his school and to his sport. Given protection against injury, he obeyed training rules, gave his best, played a fair game and conducted himself with credit. Sports helped the boys to develop a good moral and physical character.

Playing not only on a competitive basis, the athlete received recreational enjoyment in his respective sport. In assemblies, the coaches presented letters to those displaying the greatest athletic talent. The girls were not forgotten either, for they were given a chance to participate in intramural basketball and volleyball.

Top Competition Greet Wildcat Gridders In Foothills Conference

While compiling an unimpressive 2-7 record, the 1962 Latrobe High Wildcat gridders performed creditably and in a sportsmanlike manner against some of the most powerful teams in the WPIAL.

For the eleventh consecutive year, the LHS eleven defeated Schenley High of Pittsburgh in the season opener. Highlighting the 21-0 defeat was Robert Katana who scored two touchdowns. Arch-rival Derry Area tripped the locals 2-0 at home in the next gridiron contest. Both teams were held scoreless for three quarters until an alert Trojan offense nailed a Wildcat ball carrier in the end zone in the dying seconds of the game.

Traveling to Wilkinsburg, the Cats were defeated 24-18 in the first Foothills Conference fray of the season. Jeannette's powerful offense and spirited defense proved to be fatal as the Jayhawks downed the locals 33-6 at home. Team captain John Pawlosky scored the only Wildcat touchdown on a three-yard pass from quarterback Robert Ruffner in the second stanza. The LHS defense held the Jays to only 13 points in the first half, but the heavier opposition scored three times in the following periods of play.

WILDCAT VARSITY coaching staff James Liddle, George Fabry, Richard Headrick and head mentor Charles Findley note the squad's progress before an upcoming game.

Rigorous Training Develops Talents Of Varsity Eleven

Taking to the road, the locals were stopped by an aroused Kiski Area squad by the score of 13-12. Returning home the Wildcats gained their only Foothills Conference victory by trouncing Connellsville 31-7. Scoring two TD's apiece were Ruffner and Pawlosky, while Katana had one. Fighting for the WPIAL class 'AA' title, the Greensburg-Salem Golden Lions turned back the Wildcats 33-6 in the final home game of the year.

Norwin handed the Cats their worst defeat of the year, drubbing the locals 38-12 at Norwin in the next to the last game of the year. Again playing against a heavier team, the Wildcats put up a creditable showing for the first half, the score being 12-0, favor of Norwin at the end of two periods.

Although not indicated by the score, the Wildcats made their best showing against the undefeated Hempfield Spartans in the season finale. Katana's three yard plunge gave the local eleven a surprise 6-0 lead in the first period, but the powerful Spartans exploded in the second half to make the final tally 33-12.

Twenty-four varsity letters were presented to deserving recipients at the conclusion of the season. Receiving their second monograms were seniors Robert Katana, John Pawlosky and Joseph Stynchula and junior Alan Baum. Presented their first gridiron letter were seniors John Marcinak, Clifford Evans, John Heinnickel, Robert Guzik, Thomas Cirucci, George Rise, Thomas Rodgers, Ronald Evans, Cyril Moyher, Raymond Cassidy and Ed-

Post season awards included an honorable mention to Pawlosky as a back on the WPIAL all star team and a second team quarterback slot to Ruffner on the All-Foothills Conference squad. Ruffner also received the same berth on the All County squad.

Serving as head coach for the Wildcats for the sixth straight year was Mr. Charles Findley, assisted by Mr. George Fabry, Mr. James Liddle, Mr. James Schumaker, Mr. Richard Headrick and Mr. Robert Laing. Mr. Gary Garrison acted as equipment manager for the different grid teams.

The junior varsity football squad registered only one win in five starts during the 1962 gridiron season. Latrobe High's reserve eleven met its first op-

First Year Footballers Master Techniques, Rules, Tactics Of Sport

Completing a season of four games, the freshman football squad held a record of one win and three defeats.

For the first encounter, the frosh eleven traveled to East Huntingdon where they captured their single victory of the year in the season's only away game. The final score stood at 14-0.

The following week, the Wildkittens played host to the Hempfield Area Spartans in a contest that proved fatal to the local team. Hempfield scored 30 points while Latrobe wrangled seven. In the next of the two remaining home games the frosh fought a losing battle against Greensburg-Salem. At the conclusion of grid play, the Little Lions boasted 20 points to Latrobe's 13.

Jeannette provided the competition in the final encounter of the season, when they overran the Kittens 14-0. A game with Derry, scheduled to open the season, was cancelled.

Drilling the team during the season, Coaches James Schumaker and Robert Laing worked together to develop the skills of future LHS varsity players.

Under the direction of Mr. John Monchak, Latrobe's varsity basketball squad ended the 1962-63 season with six wins and 15 losses on their slate.

The Wildcat cagers opened exhibition play on December 1, with a 65-60 overtime victory at the Scottsdale floor. Each squad compiled 58 points at the end of regular play, but Latrobe outscored the Scotts 7-2 during the three minute overtime. The local forces then followed up their initial victory dumping Franklin Area 74-42. A scheduled contest with Kiski Area had to be canceled because snow rendered the district roads impossible.

Penn Hills handed the Cats their first defeat, 66-41. However, the losing spirit was all but for-

A last second surge by the Orange and Black failed in the Penn Joint Contest. Behind 36-30 at the close of the third period the locals charged to within three points of the Indians but time ran out showing a 54-51 win for Penn Joint. Somerset was the fourth team to fall before the Cats, 59-46. Wilkinsburg soundly defeated Latrobe 77-28 in an away game. The Wilkinsburg loss gave Mr. Monchak's squad a respectable 4-3 slate for the non-league, exhibition season.

Latrobe opened the first half of Section II-A play in an away contest with Greensburg-Salem on January 4. The Golden Lions of Coach James Sibley defeated the Latrobe five, 67-53 in the old Greensburg school. The second scheduled game pitted the locals against Derry Area at the Latrobe gymnasium. The contest was a tight one and the surprised fans saw Latrobe leading Derry, 24-22 at the half-way point. The Trojans fought back and gained a three point advantage during the third period. Latrobe managed to pull within a single marker during the final seconds. Edward Giannini grabbed off a Derry pass during the waning moments of the contest and headed the ball toward the hoop. The shot narrowly missed, a Trojan hauled in the rebound and the contest was on.

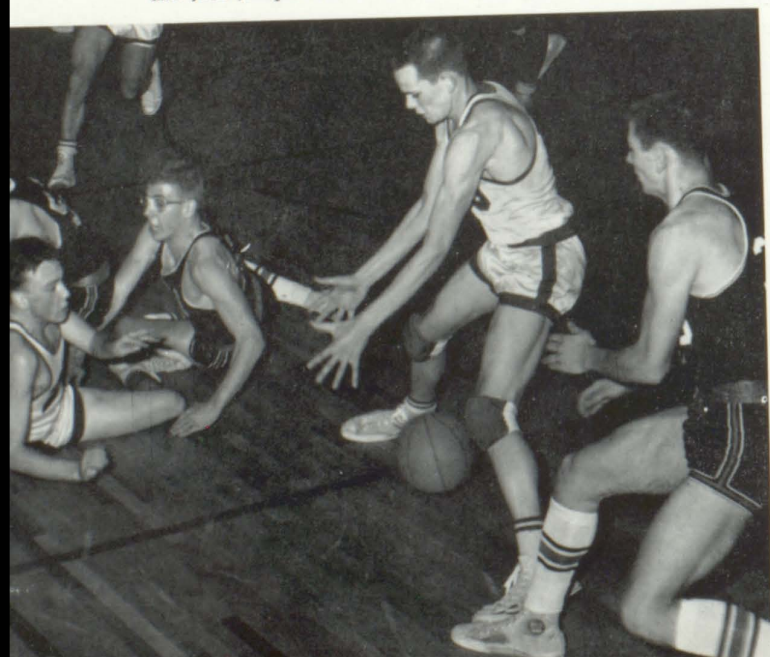

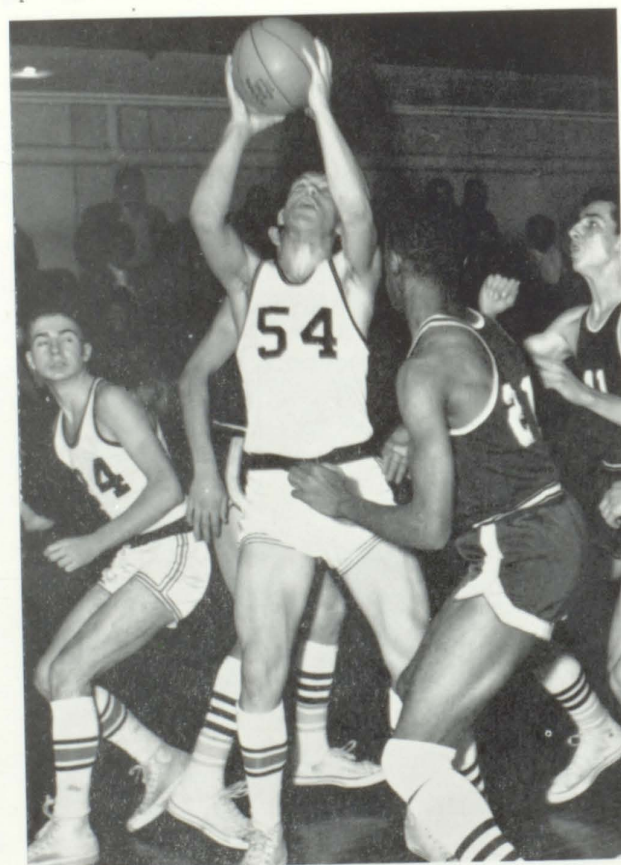

WPIAL Champs, Norwin, led by John Naponick, blasted Latrobe 77-46. The Latrobe team was never in the contest, as Naponick was busy tallying 23 points over the heads of the smaller Latrobe team. Hempfield Area passed the Cats 68-42. Mt. Pleasant Joint downed the locals by 10 points 61-51 on home floor. Latrobe succumbed to Jeannette 36-32 in a low scoring contest at the Jays' court. The Connellsville contest closed the first half in section play.

QUICK TO pursue after a loose ball are three local cagers, Jock Joseph, Robert Atkinson and Thomas Williams.

ROBERT RUFFNER "eyes the hoop" before attempting his follow-up shot, while Stephen Lazur positions for rebound.

In this contest the local team was defeated by the margin of a single field goal, 58-56.

The second half of section competition proved of little more worth than the first for the Latrobe hardwood team.

Greensburg-Salem again defeated the locals, and by the identical score that they compiled in their first meeting, 67-53. Derry Area gained a sweet revenge over the Cats in the second half as they limited Latrobe's offensive to only 24 markers while compiling 49 themselves.

Both Norwin and Hempfield handed the locals defeats, for a second straight time Lyman Stough's Knights by-passed Latrobe 80-47 and the Hempfield Spartans turned the trick with a 56-49 score. After 12 consecutive losses Latrobe finally managed a win over Mt. Pleasant by nipping the Vikings 72-56. Jeannette fell to the locals 76-62 in a home contest. In the final roundball session, Connellsville overpowered the Orange and Black 54-46.

With a section slate of two wins against 12 defeats, Latrobe finished ahead of Mt. Pleasant.

Following the conclusion of the season Mr. Monchak recognized the entire team and presented letters to deserving boys in the customary letter-awards assembly. Edward Giannini was the only senior receiving an award. Junior lettermen include Stephen Lazur, James Maher and Robert Ruffner. Sophomores Thomas Williams, Jock Joseph and Richard Smith were presented letters. Senior manager Robert McCann also received a monogram.

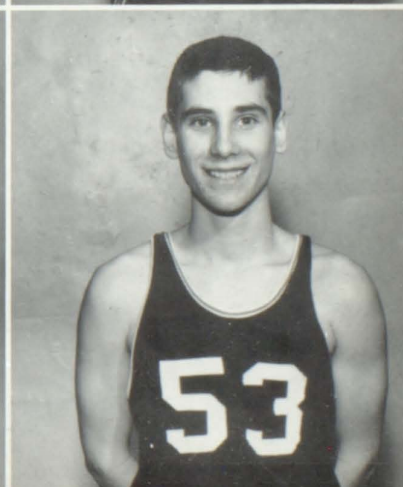

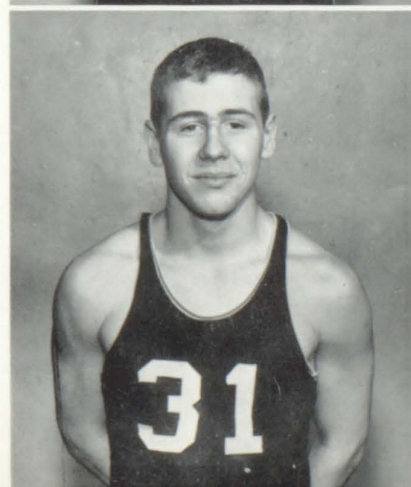

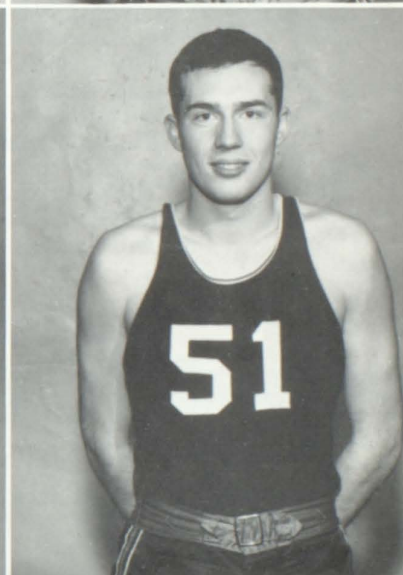

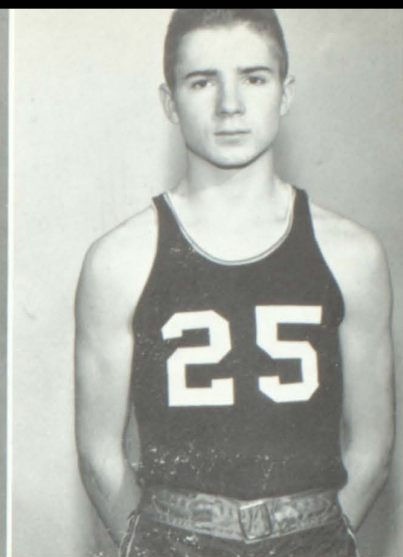

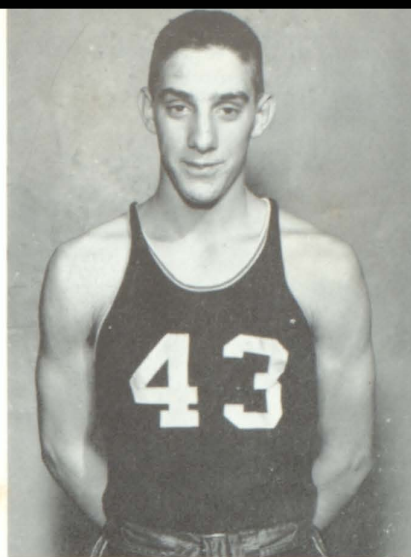

The overall record showed six wins as opposed to the 15 losses suffered by the Cats. Lack of experience hampered the play of the Wildcat cagers during the section competition.

They were again paced by Potthoff, who placed eleventh, earning him the right to represent Latrobe in the PIAA Meet the following week. Here, Potthoff crossed the finish line eighth among the top contestants in the state. He was later presented with a medal for his efforts.

At the conclusion of the season Mr. West awarded letters to the following boys: Richard Hebrank, Thomas Ciocco, Thomas Hinger, Russel Walker, John Kabala, Anthony Kalokerinos and Jack Townsend, seniors; Terry Hauger, James Maher, Thomas Potthoff, David Pottinger and William Scheeren, Juniors; manager Brian Evans.

Jump ball! You fouled her! Get that ball! With these familiar words the first of girls' intramural sports, basketball, commenced early in spring.

To participate in this event, girls organized teams in their homerooms. They followed the schedule and played after school at their appointed time. The homeroom teams vied for honors in their particular class. From here the class finalists competed for the pennant that is given to the victorious homeroom. Junior homeroom 113 emerged victor- out and was awarded the orange and black banner.

INTRAMURAL

A new tournament added to girls' intramural was the girls Gym Class basketball games. Girls signed up in their respective gym classes. Winning semi-finals and finals were the junior champions from Tuesday seventh period.

After the basketball tourney ended the volley- ball season commenced with double eliminations.

CLASSES

Preparation
For College,
Professional,
Domestic Careers

With the beginning of the school year, bright eager boys and girls entered the halls of LHS to continue their public school education.

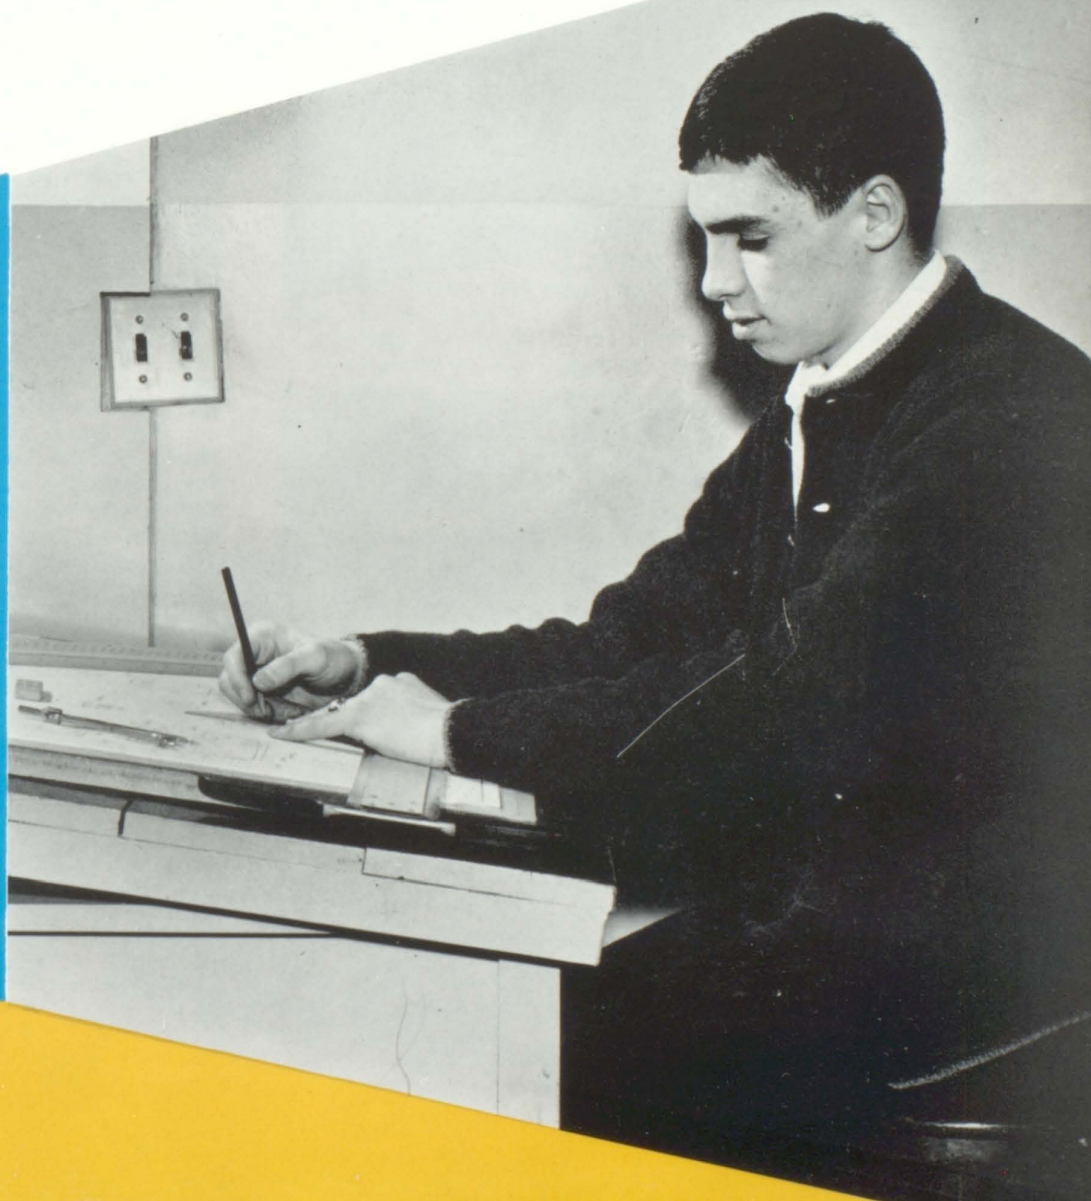

Given the basic subjects of science, math, civics and English, freshmen awakened to find themselves in a circle of academic studies. Success was attained when cheerful smiles demonstrated the long-awaited promotion to the tenth grade. Hoping to conquer biology, history and algebra, sophomores studied for honor roll recognition. With speeches, problems and experiments, time passed quickly for tenth graders working toward their junior status.

Now upperclassmen, the juniors attempted to achieve standards by mastering languages and conquering American History and chemistry problems. They worked diligently to reach the senior seats on Moving-up Day. Confident that this fiscal year would be the best, the Class of 1963 established themselves in the records of the school. Assurance was given at commencement as memories closed a chapter of their lives.

SENIORS

As the class of 1963 leaves the portals of their alma mater, the year looking forward to the future. They have learned that education is the key to success and now the seniors will be searching to fulfill their dreams. Fond memories of incidents at Latrobe High School will linger in their minds as they prepare to face the world and meet its challenges and opportunities.

At the beginning of the school term, the seniors voted the following classmates to guide their activities through the year: Raymond Cassidy, president; Edward Giannini, vice-president; Glenda Wadsworth, secretary; Rebecca Gruendling, treasurer, and Michael Long, Student Council representative. Acting as faculty adviser to the class was Miss Martha Osborne.

The warm glow of pride on the senior's face shows that he has received his long-awaited class ring. Memories of exchanging name cards and wondering what to write on senior pictures cast reflections on the final year at LHS.

Education, the most important phase of student life, has taken its course of four years. Seniors studied the higher arts of mathematics and made discoveries in the scientific field. They spent many hours preparing their weekly Friday talks. Orations, Ruth Robb debates, the Women's Club Contest and the Kiwanis Club Extemporaneous Speaking Contest gave qualified seniors a chance to pursue opportunities in the public speaking field.

Entrance into honorary societies was the worthwhile conclusion of the senior's scholastic achievement's. Those gaining recognition were initiated into National Honor Society, Mu Alpha Theta and Quill and Scroll. Deserving students received scholarships for their college education.

Besides spending a great deal of time in scholastic endeavors, seniors also participated in the school's extra-curricular activities. Outstanding senior boys were rewarded for their sports endeavors when they received their athletic letters. They participated actively in cross-country, varsity football, basketball, wrestling, track, tennis and golf. The girls were also given a chance to show their talents as they engaged in intramural volleyball and basketball. Four senior cheerleaders, with the aid of the Wildcat, enthusiastically led the fans in cheering at the athletic contests.

The harmony of the octet during opening exercises in assembly is only one phase of the music department at LHS. Seniors participated in Boys' Chorus II, Girls' Chorus II, Mixed Chorus, Band and Orchestra. They displayed their vocal and instrumental talents, then were given recognition when they joined with other schools in county and district events. The band, led by five high-stepping majorettes, provided entertaining half-time shows at the football games.

Twelfth grade students demonstrated their acting potential during the assemblies and theatrical presentations of the year. The Problems of Democracy Christmas play and the Senior Class play, comprised of an all senior cast, provided enjoyment for all. Four seniors had leading roles in the All Class play, "Spring Fever." Moving-up Day, the final production of the year, brought to a close the chance for seniors to display their acting ability.

"I could have danced all night," was the comment of one senior girl as she recalls the final dance of the year, the Junior-Senior Prom. The juniors hosted the seniors at this affair, one that will be remembered for many years. Other dances of the year gained a large attendance of fourth year students. At the annual Sadie Hawkins, the shirt frolic of the year, it was a pleasant change for the girls to ask the boys.

"Onward and Upward," the motto of the Senior Class, gives them encouragement to gain their goals in the future. This proverb was placed on a white background with a blue border for the senior flag. The class colors are blue and white with a white rose as the flower.

As the senior received his diploma the night of commencement, his image of life broadened with the realization that he is now on his own.

EMINENT SENIOR personalities discuss plans for the future. Because of distinguished accomplishments in their respective fields these ten pupils were selected by their fellow students to represent the class of '63. As a result of their recognition these prominent graduates will serve as model citizens, leaders and scholars for every underclassman who enters Latrobe High.

OUTSTANDING SENIORS

Four Years Of Resolute Efforts Materialize For Ten Prominent Grads

By excelling their classmates in achievement and ability, ten senior students were elected by their fellow students to represent the outstanding senior in each chosen category.

Through the demonstration of his qualities as a leader, CLIFFORD EVANS was selected in the leadership category. Presidency of the National Honor Society was among his many positions. He engaged in the activities of the Mu Alpha Theta. Cited in the Elks Leadership Contest, he was recognized as a leader outside the school. Membership in the Humanities Seminar and recipient of the Harvard Book Award are among his achievements. Regarding future plans, Clifford stated, "After the completion of my studies at Washington and Jefferson College, I desire to enter the medical field in the character of a doctor."

In the scholarship category RUSSELL WALKER distinguished himself by his membership in the National Honor Society, vice-presidency of the Mu Alpha Theta and attendance at the Joe Berg Science Seminar. As a debate finalist, extemp winner and second and third place recipient of the Gay Philips History Award and the American Legion Essay Contest respectively, he proved his abilities as a scholar. ## Noteworthy Feats Of Seniors Inspire Underclassmen To Attain Goals he stated, "I would like to offer my services as a civil engineer to the Peace Corps, particularly stationed in India."

Chosen as the outstanding senior in the athletics division, JOHN PAWLOSKY has demonstrated his capacities as a football captain, letterman and three year team member. Besides athletics he was president of his Junior Class and of the Modern Language Club. "A Liberal Arts course at Wisconsin State is my next step forward," was his comment concerning a future career.

VICTORIA MELAGO, winner of the Pierce Clothing Award and the Reeder Clothing Award, was selected by fellow classmates in the home-making category. Although she has shown her ability in that annual fashion show, she was also known as a three-year majorette. "My plans for the future aren't definite, but I do intend to go to a business school to learn an office vocation," remarked Victoria.

Recognized by his performances in three All Class plays, the Junior Class play and pep assemblies, GENE PAULL proved his dramatic talent to the Senior Class. Although he participated largely in dramatics, he was sports editor of the High Post and a member of the tennis team for three years. Gene commented, "My career plans include attending Pennsylvania State University, probably as a political science major."

"A job as an industrial draftsman where I could put my designs into effect," are the plans of senior ANTHONY CIAFRE. By placing first in the Lions Club Drafting Award, he was noted as the top senior industrialist.

For her earnestness and achievement, RITA BRAVIS was cited as the outstanding commercial student. As a Quill and Scroll member, she served on the Business Staff of the school publications. Last year she was elected vice-president of the Commercial Club. "For my immediate future I plan to get a secretarial job to secure further experience in office tasks," commented Rita.

Yearbook editor KAREN JUHASZ was selected in the Journalism category. A member of the National Honor Society, she serves as head cheerleader and member of the Quill and Scroll. She also was a debate winner. "A college career at Pennsylvania State University where I can enhance my knowledge is my next goal," remarked Karen.

For his musical talents, CHARLES PERSON was recognized in the music department. Dixieland band, orchestra, county band, Dance Band and Mixed Chorus comprise his musical agenda. Charles stated, "I would like to attend Indiana State College or join the service after I graduate."

JUNIORS

With two years of knowledge and experience behind them, the Junior Class faced the problems and responsibilities of upperclassmen heading for the achievement of their goals.

Accomplishing their first duty, juniors elected James Maher, class president; James Sillaman, vice-president; Carolyn Clemens, secretary; Margaret Gibson, treasurer, and Keith Robb, Student Council representative. Mr. George Rise, American History teacher, served the students as class supervisor.

While considering attendance at college or vocational school, many juniors applied themselves to Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Tests, College Board Exams and the National Merit Scholarship Test as they consulted college pamphlets and entrance requirements. The All Class play, "Spring Fever," and the Junior Class play produced several dramatists from within the class core while extra clubs, band and orchestra claimed the services of active members.

Athletic-minded boys of the junior ranks contributed to the victories and recognition in school sports as their classmates cheered them forward with the help of junior cheerleaders.

In recognition of their achievement, outstanding juniors of all phases of social, academic and extra-curricular programs were inducted into the National Honor Society.

Highlighting the social season of the year, the Junior-Senior Prom claimed the attendance of many class members. Accepting the new responsibility of seniors on Moving-Up Day, these upperclassmen gazed back on three individual years of frustration, work and frolic.

OFFICERS OF the Sophomore Class, Jock Joseph, Theresa McCullough, Linda Gall, Mario Battaglia and Pamela Curnow, decide upon 1963 Career Conference student guides.

Sophomores eagerly look forward to the future role of upperclassmen after a trying but fascinating year in their second phase of school life.

At the start of the second term they held the election of class officers. Selected to lead the class were Jock Joseph, president; Mario Battaglia, vice-president; Pamela Curnow, secretary; Theresa McCullough, treasurer, and Theresa Gall, Student Council representative.

Autobiographies and biology papers as well as an enactment of a satire on "Julius Caesar" were among the projects undertaken by the tenth graders. They represented their class in the Extemporaneous Speaking Contest, Ruth Robb Debate and the Women's Club Contest. This class also participated in many of the high school organizations such as the Junior Classical League, Student Council and Student Service.

The annual Career Conference for the sophomores, which offered them the opportunity to learn more about their future occupations, was held during the latter part of the school year.

Journalism I and Broadcasting I membership included sophomores who possess abilities in writing and public speaking. With the completion of another school term with all of their tasks completed, the sophomores now anxiously await next year to take their position as juniors.

Through Classroom, Social Activities, Students Acquire New Skills

FREDERICK POTTHOFF, Linda Carns, Paula Seabol, William Fagan and Charles Jacobina become familiar with the regulations and traditions of their new environment.

FRESHMEN

As their initial year of high school draws to a close, members of the class of 1966 will always remember their first days of classes. These students made new friends and experienced a new school life.

Approximately 440 freshmen entered the halls of the building in early September. They delegated their class officers to guide them during their first year by electing Fred Potthoff, president; William Fagan, vice-president; Paula Seabol, secretary; Linda Carns, treasurer, and Charles Jacobina, Student Council representative. Mr. William Franks aided the yearlings as faculty adviser.

In addition to many hours spent in class, the frosh participated in extra-curricular activities and sports. Beginning the social events early in fall was the freshman dance which offered the students an opportunity to become acquainted with all their classmates. Adding to their activities were freshmen members of the band and the orchestra. Others composed the membership of the Girls' Chorus I and the Boys' Chorus I.

Dramatically inclined freshmen demonstrated their skill in acting by portraying roles in the All Class play, "Spring Fever." Debates, poetry, Shakespeare reading, declamations and the extemporaneous speaking contest also gave the ninth graders a chance to exhibit their abilities in forensics.

With their crucial year behind them, the freshmen anticipate three more years of hard work, activities, sports and friendships.

FINE STEELS

PERFORMANCE
POINT

Just as men of industry judge our fine steels by actual performance at the working point, so does management in commerce and the professions judge the people who enter these fields. This year's bright new graduates—you and you and all of you—will be carefully appraised as careers begin. It is our cordial wish that you will have the best of success in measuring up from the very beginning, at the working point!
