It's All About...

Each student had a different definition of what Latrobe was all about during the 1993-1994 school year- Homecoming and prom, the student store, Channel One, science labs, the search for a piece of gum, the art of backing into a parking space, a different bell system, leaky roofs, pep assemblies, senior nights, spirit weeks, swim classes for gym, the change of athletic director, the Derry rivalry, the training room, the ability to wear shorts in September and May, Friday night sporting events, and the thrill of earning an "A" in that impossible class. No matter what one thought the true definition was, each added something special to complete "What Its All About".

From the administration down to the students, each individual and organization shaped the year. The seniors "ruled the school" and concentrated on graduation day. Juniors and sophomores reached another step toward that day. The faculty provided a great learning environment, even while starting the year without a contract. Sports teams worked together to have winning seasons, and many activities sponsored new events to make the year special.

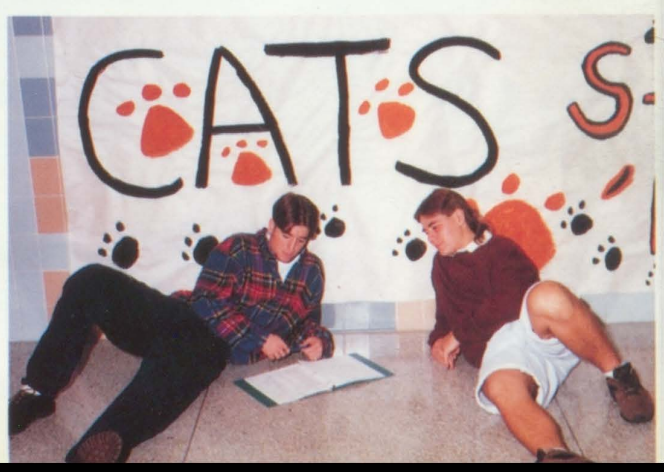
The year was also about friends. Friends reassured each other through the bad times, rallied together through the good times, hung out together, and shared each other's greatest moments. Everyone counted the days until Friday and the relaxing weekend.

Individuality is "What Its All About". Each student and faculty member contributed something special to make the 1993-1994 school year the absolute best.

Written and Reported by: Darcy Kucenic

Sophomores Theresa Martin and Nicole Defloria buy football tickets from Seniors Rodney Schmucker and Scott Harris. Tickets were available during all lunch periods for home games.

The Varsity and JV cheerleaders and mascots smile for an impromptu picture at the Norwin football game. They always knew who was number one.



Seniors Terry Betz and Chad Carns find a quiet place to study. Students found unusual places to do their last-minute cramming.

...Reaching The Top

It took 12 long years, but the Class of 1994 finally made it. They're seniors! Its their turn to be the club officers, team captains, AP students, and loafers in the student store. "Its a wonderful feeling to finally be a senior after all the hard work," commented Jen Allwine.

Seniors, however, are ready to be freshmen again. The thought is exciting, yet very scary. "You'll be all by yourself and finally on your own," said Jen Lancianese.

The fact that the Class of '94 reached their last year of high school brought friends even closer. They shared the common goal to make their senior year the best one ever. Next year they will all be on their own, but they will always be a part of the Class of 1994.

Seniors... Its all about reaching the top.

Rodney Schmucker, Scott Harris, Matt Dixon, Ron Kniess, Mike Oliver, Brian Moreland, and Robbie Bellush prove that cheerleaders are not the only ones with poise. Many senior friendships have lasted since elementary school.

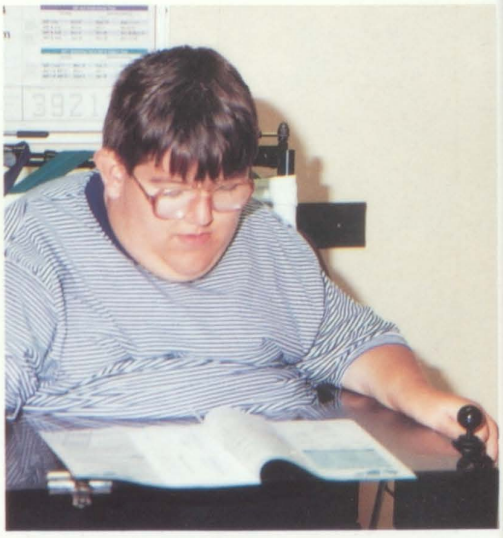
Vern Simms, Erin Fagan, Jen Lancianese, Heather Smith, and Jaime Meholic take a quick break between classes. The girls spent a lot of time together in and out of school.

Darcy Kucenic, Amy King, Deken Palmer, and Jamie Okonak try on hats at Station Square in Pittsburgh. The foursome was often found clowning around together.

...Still trying to prove something after all these years.

Melissa McCracken cools off after her game. The girls' basketball team often found time to joke around with each other.

...Growing Up



"Back to the zoo!" screamed the seniors to the underclassmen, but the underclass would never go back to their junior high days. "Sophomores like the senior high better because there is more freedom. We are treated like adults," explained Sophomore Bob Gera.

Along with more freedom, sophomores experienced the pressure to grow up fast. They took their driving tests, played in varsity games, and went to Homecoming, all for the first time.

Juniors already knew what to expect, but they had a chance to be more involved. No longer the youngest, they started to take the lead. The future became a more important issue. Juniors took their SAT's and started to think about graduation in 1995. "The SAT's are the starting point for our future," said Junior Gene Jones. They were loaded with more schoolwork, but finally got to drive to school.

Underclass... Its all about growing up.

Mr. Zsolcsak and Senior Jeff Kish show Sophomore Nancy Butina the driver's manual before she hits the open road.

Sophomore John Barron goes over a few pointers before taking the SAT's. Achieving a high score on the tests was crucial.

These sophomores compare schedules at orientation. Finding out who had classes together at orientation made the adjustment to senior high easier.

Junior girls try to find the secret to a neat locker. Some students' lockers were actually scary by the end of the year.

...Touching The Future

Observing teachers on any school day, one quickly discovers that teaching was about the interaction with students. Guiding students through experiments; Improving talents in music, art, home economics, or woodshop; Correcting a piece of writing; Educating students in economics, politics, and cultures of the world; Shaping bodies and minds through physical education; Training students in computer programming; Disciplining students to meet deadlines; And so much more.

Faculty also taught after hours. Coaching a team; Advising a club; Sponsoring a dance, sub sale, or field trip; Directing a production; Chaperoning a trip to a foreign country; And the list goes on.

Latrobe's teachers represented years of education and experience which gave students a distinct advantage in the preparation for the future.

Faculty... Its all about touching the future.

Mandy Cirota and Kelly Mailey explore college plans with Mr. Miller. Counselors were always eager to help.

Mr. Karazsia points out problems to Sophomore Brian Williams in shop where one-on-one instruction was essential.

Mr. Dimuzio returns for basketball practice. Many teachers gave their time to extra activities.

Relieving a stressful morning, teachers laugh at each other's jokes in the dining room.

...Striving For Success

From the hard-hitting plays of the football team to the graceful swing of the golf team, competitive students were given the chance to display their athletic abilities through sports. No matter how well an athlete could throw, catch, or hit the ball, each had to have the true love of the sport to make the team successful.

Athletes had to learn to budget their time between schoolwork, social activites, and the demands of sports. Everyday after school practices and games took up most of the night. Senior Mike Hitchman said, "During the winter, I came to school in the morning and went home in the dark."

Coaches made something out of the team's dedication. They helped players reach different milestones and kept up the enthusiasm, even during hard times. "If the coach wasn't dedicated to the sport, then the team wasn't either," commented Senior J.D. Shearer.

The many hours put into a sport paid off, however. The thrill of victory proved to be worth every second of hard work.

Sports... Its all about striving for success.

Senior football players Bryan May, Dave Bulebosh, Robbie Bellush, Rodney Schmucker, and Mike Taluskie await to see what letters Mr. Frowen received from college coaches. Many students received letters from recruiters their senior year.

Junior Valerie Hogel takes time to soak her ankle in the whirlpool before her soccer game. Students used the whirlpools for different kinds of injuries.

Junior Adam Weis drives the ball down the field. In the latter half of the 1993 season, Weis was an important part of the boys' soccer defense.

Senior Dave Bulebosh calls the play, while the offense awaits the snap. Having a strong quarterback was an asset to a successful offense.

...Getting Involved

"Morning madness" described a typical homeroom period due to many activities. They kept students busy through the morning, day, and after school.

The main obstacles students faced were which activity to join and finding time to participate in more than one. "Being involved in many activities is hard, but it makes school more interesting," explained Senior Amy King.

The community, as well as the student body, depended on many school organizations. All the hard work of every activity was evident throughout Latrobe.

Activities... Its all about getting involved.

Juniors Mandy Bushwack, Gwen Frey, and Kristin Brandt stay after school to publicize the latest Interact event. Interact served the community by helping out in various activities.

Juniors Michelle Travis and Beth Regula rehearse their lines to perfection with Seniors Jill Samella and Dan Crabill for the class play. Cast members devoted many after school hours to make the play a "roaring" success.

Senior student council members push the new line of Wildcat wear in the student store. The student store served as a supplier of quick snacks, spare pencils, or just a place to hang out.

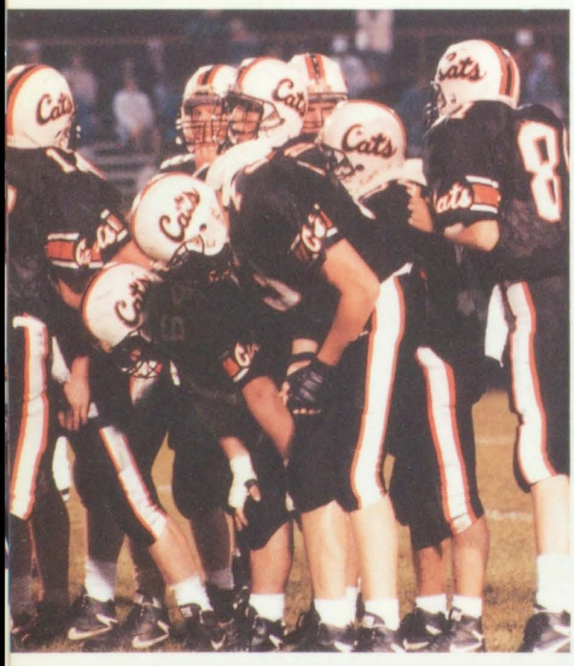
...Rising To The Occasion

"What does your dress look like?" "Where are you eating?" The questions began the first week of school. The anticipation for the annual Homecoming dance was at an all-time high, but Homecoming '93 wasn't just about the dance.

The festivities began October 15 at the first annual Homecoming parade, "That Ol' Wildcat Spirit", sponsored by Interact and Lettermen's Club. JCL took first place, Mat Maids, second, and the band, third. Others taking part were German Club, Student Council, CODE, Lettermen's Club, Senior and Junior High cheerleaders, Midget Football cheerleaders, Miss Fourth of July, Ann Keslar, Crabtree Volunteer Fire Department, and Latrobe Fire Department. NAHS stayed at the stadium and painted over 200 faces orange and black. Ten of 15 former queens rode on the Interact float, while the present court rode in convertibles. Those girls included the following: Sophomores Sue Sobota and Julie Wible, Juniors Gwen Frey and Jodi Hutter, and Seniors Kim Burns, Megan Karazsia, Emilie Kostelnik, Courtney Little, and Erin Ordelt. Parade coordinator, Mrs. Ann Bleehash, commented, "By late Friday afternoon, I was wondering why I ever did this. The students pulled through, however, and the parade went very well."

The football team crushed Albert Gallatin, 48-6. The climax of the night came at halftime when Courtney Little was crowned the 1993 Homecoming Queen. "It was an honor to be chosen, especially by the student body," Little exclaimed.

Hair appointments and car washes started the preparations for "Can't Fight This Feeling" on October 16. Student Council decorated the cafeteria with red, black, and white stars. After eating dinner at area restaurants, 236 couples waited in line an hour for pictures and crowded the dance floor. When the last slow song played, everyone agreed the weekend went too quickly.



The football team huddles before an offensive play. The Cats triumphed in the game, starting Homecoming off right.

Senior Court members Emilie Kostelnik, Erin Ordelt, Courtney Little, Kim Burns, and Megan Karazsia pose for a quick picture at halftime. The entire student body voted for a queen out of the five seniors.

Queen Courtney Little and her date, Senior Rodney Schmucker, dance to "Can't Fight This Feeling". Couples enjoyed the chance to be together during slow songs.

Seniors Mark Ferrenberg and Jason Lucchetti get a little wild at the dance. Many students enjoyed the festivities that night.

Mat Maids show their spirit on their second place float in the parade. They honored the wrestlers who also played football.

Senior Alan Keefe and Junior Ken Ivory demonstrate their outstanding cheerleading ability. The two volunteered to show their spirit for the special night.

Sophomores Mindy Perry, Jayme Zera, Sue Sobota, and Amanda Palmer show their similar taste in dresses. Black was the prominent color for the evening.

TO YOU!

Growing Up... It's So Hard To Say Goodbye...

Kindergarten to graduation is a very long time, but many seniors still had fond memories of their "Kinder" years. Whether it was a special snack time or The Letter People, seniors agreed that kindergarten was a time of much fun and little stress.

The Class of '94 couldn't believe that the real world was right around the corner. With the rest of their lives facing them, everyone approached the future with different attitudes. Many seniors felt that it had been a long thirteen years of the same routeen,and the fact that the real world was approaching probably wouldn't hit them until after graduation. A selected few, though, thought that the time flew by.

What will the Class of '94 remember about their school days? Many seniors wanted to remember the football games and dances, but all agreed friends will never be forgotten. Friendship helped them get through each day and now each friendship would be tested. Although these friends would be going their separate ways, all promised to keep in touch with letters, phone calls, and visits.

With the real world looming over them, the Class of '94 had proven that growing up is "What It's All About!"

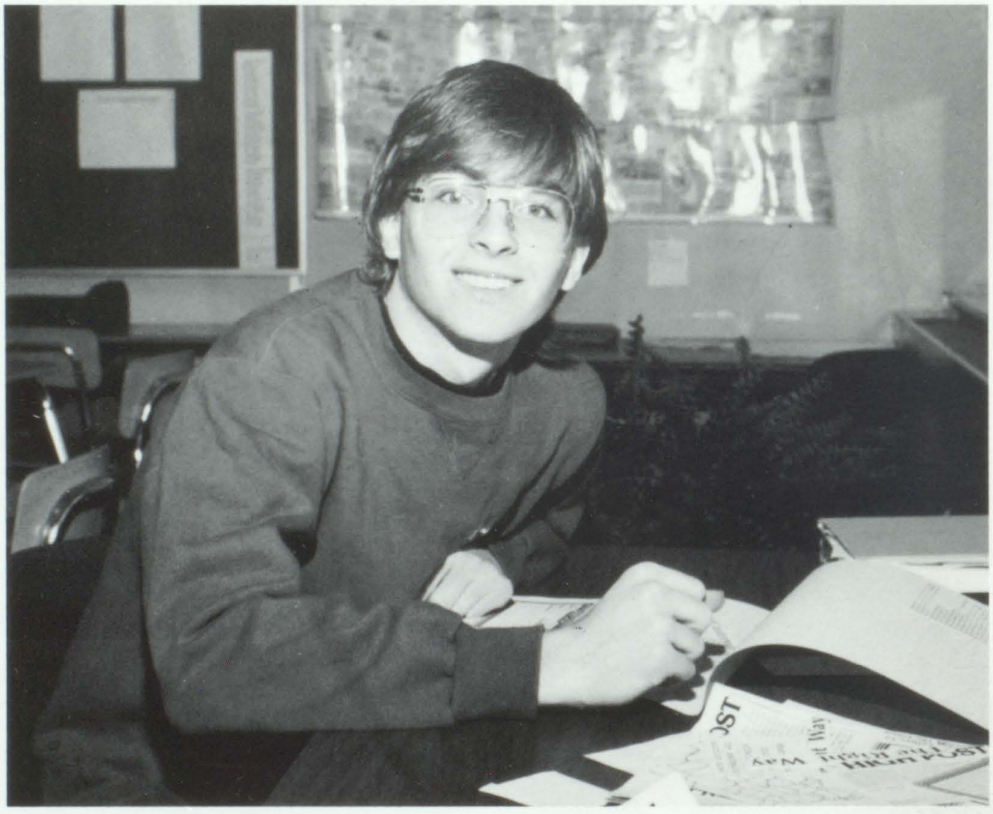
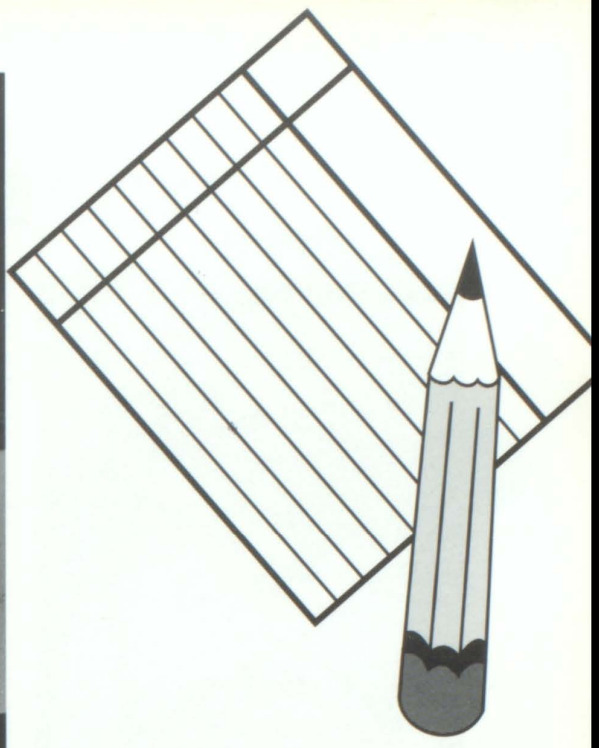
All About....

Jeff Novotny poses in the uniform he has grown accustomed to! Over the years, Jeff had become an excellent trumpet player. He was a crucial part of Jazz and Stage Bands, and the Brass Quintet.

Jaime Mayger and Erin Butina demonstrate that a picture is worth a thousand words. The two superior art students were chosen for their excellence in art and ceramics.



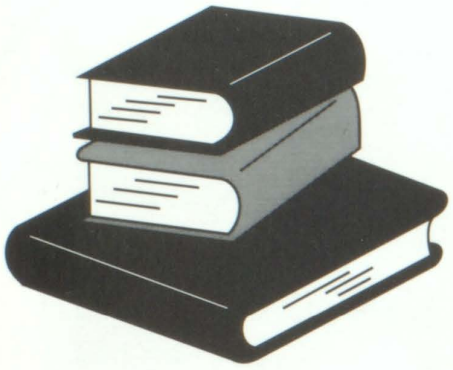
Superb in editorial writing, Scott Perry was the Outstanding Journalism Student. Scott, a High Post editor, wrote clear, precise, interesting material.



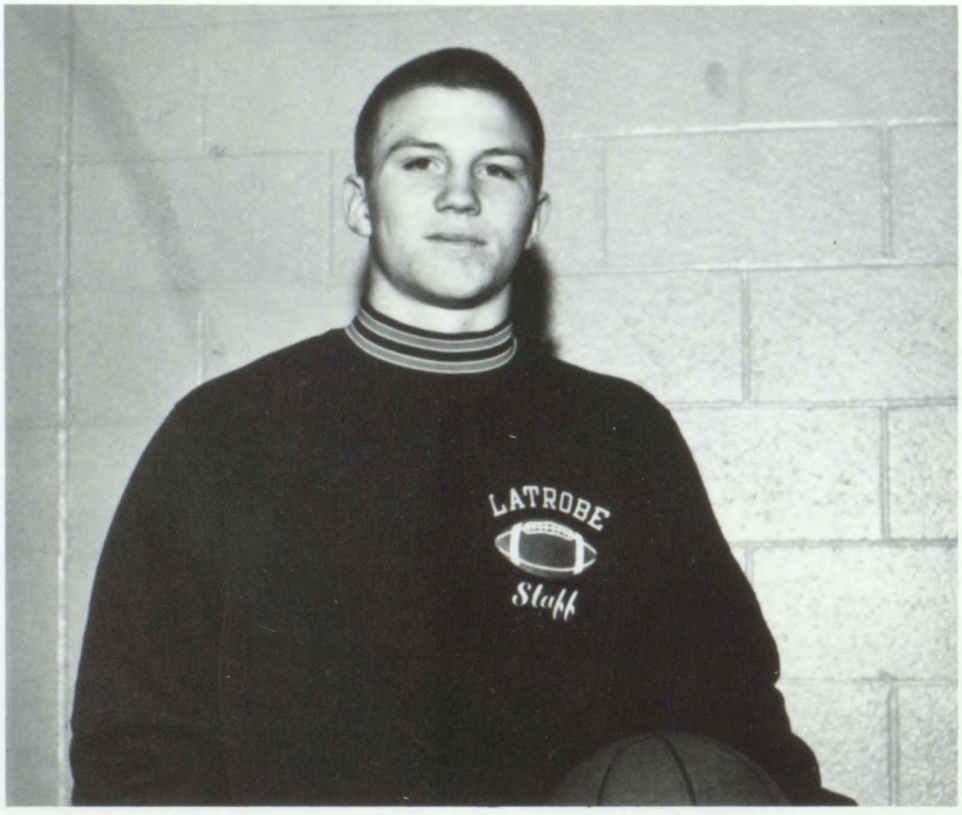
Marjorie Strobel looks at her Calculus one more time before the big test. She was chosen as the Outstanding Math Student for her independent, compotent, and proficient work.

Darcy Kucenic, Outstanding Social Studies Student, has learned to relate well with a variety of people from different backrounds. She was very skilled in analyzing, synthesizing, and evaluating various problems.

Excelling in many Industrial Arts and Technology classes, Brian Smith was the outstanding student of the department.



Both Jami and Staci Seybold represented excellence in the Home Economics Department. They were conscientious in Foods class, creative in sewing and caring in Child Development.



Bryan May was chosen as the Outstanding Phys. Ed. Student because of his cooperation with others, hard work, and athletic ability. Bryan was involved with football and wrestling, as well as honors gym.

Tom Maatta studies his experiment thoroughly before coming to a conclusion. As Outstanding Science Student, Tom always took time to assure that his work was precise.

Outstanding Seniors!

Mindy Larson searches the shelves for the perfect book. Hours of reading and thorough research helped her to excell in all English classes, including A.P.

A straight "A" student in both German and Spanish, Marjorie Strobel was certainly the best choice for Outstanding Foreign Language Student. Marjorie was also a member of SNHS, GNHS, and the German Foreign Exchange program where she spent her Junior year studying in Germany.

Natalie Lentz practices her typing skill in Personal Typing class. Her diligence and self confidence put her above the rest in the Business Department.

Breaking The Routine

Sometimes it seemed like there were not enough hours in a day to balance a busy life. Students had to juggle school work, extracurricular activities, a social life, and a job.

Seniors also had to plan for their life after high school. This added much stress to their lives. Every senior had a different way to deal with their stress. Natalie Lentz said that she liked to relax by sitting and watching a hockey game. There are fun ways to deal with stress. Dana Hill explained, "Everything didn't seem so bad when I called my best friend and talked about it for a whiile. That makes me feel better." Sports were another fun way to deal with stress. Dan Marks liked to go skiing to relax. Justin Everage said that he feels better after punching a wall.

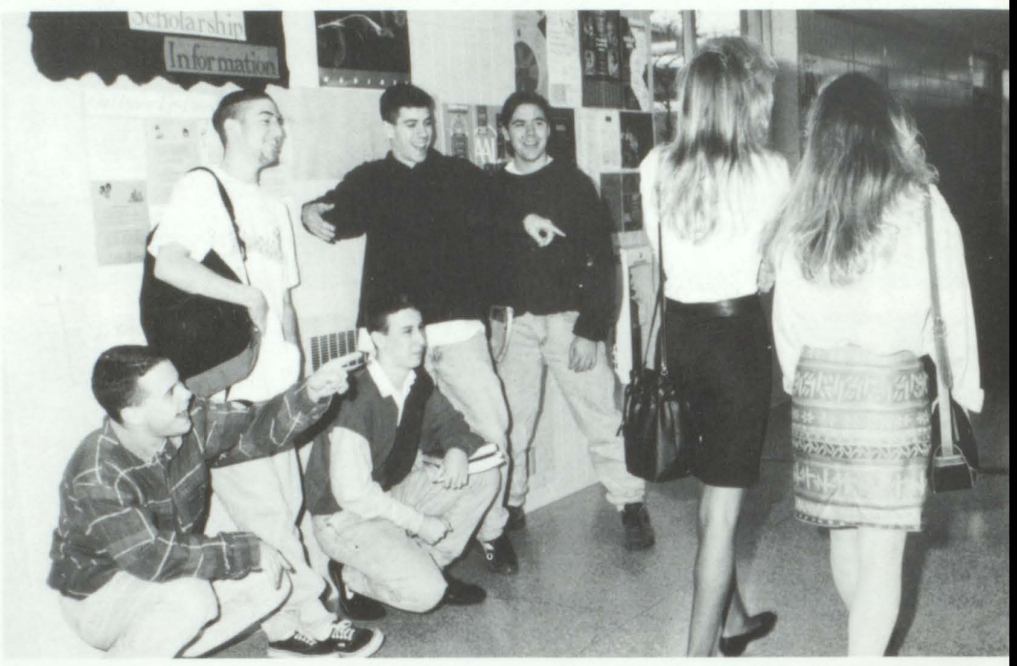
Ron Kniess and Kim Burns display their warm smiles and caring personalities. Everyone felt comfortable around the two "Friendliest" students in the senior class because they were sincerely good people.

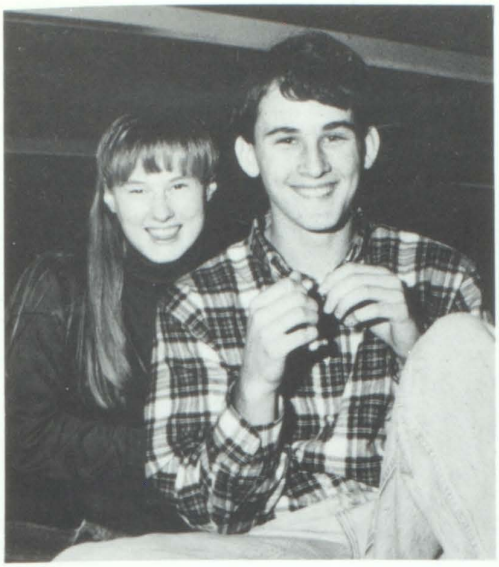


Wandering eyes and speechless body language are caught on film. Jill Samella and Brian Moreland became "Class Flirts" because of their unique, flaunting ways of communicating with the opposite sex.

Nate Bell, Terry Betz, Robbie Bellush, Andy Modecki, and Chad Carns are caught checking out the underclass girls. These guys proved that students see a lot more than just books in school.

Catchy Quotes

"You have to take your job seriously, but you don't have to take yourself seriously."
-Brent Musburger



Tara Adams gets a laugh out of Ryan Purvis which is ordinary because the two had the "Most Contagious Laugh" in the senior class. Tara and Ryan always brought fun and excitement to teachers and students.

Although Jeff Kish was "Class Clown," he doesn't deserve to be behind bars. He and Amy Seybold were always clowning around which kept both teachers and students on their toes.

Michelle Maggiore and Mark Schafer would probably carry on a long phone conversation with anyone who would listen. Students liked to talk to the "Most Talkative" pair all of the time; teachers liked to subtract class points for their outbursts.

Bryan May, Dave Bulebosh, Rodney Schmucker, and Brian Grace proudly wear the girls' Mat Maid T's while trying to persuade Mrs. Maggiore to try on their uniform, a skin tight singlet. As Mat Maid advisor, Mrs. Maggiore worked closely with the girls, grapplers, and student body to boost wrestling spirit.

Christa Yokopenic and Dan Marks show off their Wildcat Pride! Dan, football mascot, and Christa, student trainer, were coined "Most Spirited" for their love of LHS.

Showing Their Stuff

What beautiful babies! Courtney Little and Tom Gaudino, "Most Attractive," have been showing off their looks ever since they were young. The whole Class of '94 was definitly great looking, although there were different looks.

Field Conductor Danette Gasperin takes charge at halftime of a football game. Danette's leadership skill, enthusiasm, and band interest made her a talented conductor.

Voted "Best Dressed" in the senior class, Jennifer Lancianese and Deken Palmer show off their style. Some may think shopping is an art but everyone knows that it is definetly a talent!

Mindy Larson and Andy Clark take a break from show choir practice. The two "Most Talented" seniors excelled in chorus, musicals, and plays.

Athleticism and sportsmanship are qualities Michel Pawlosky, Bryan May, and Melissa McCracken show. Through numerous talents and awards, the three proved to be "Most Athletic" in the senior class.

Sally Meyers, Michaelanne Benning, Dan Crabill and Dawn Dancey show off their singing talent. Songs could always be heard coming from the choir room.

Where can anyone find great talent? The Class of '94, of course! Besides "Most Talented" Andy Clark and Mindy Larson, who both excelled in show choir and the musicals, many seniors displayed talent in band, chorus, forensics, and sports.

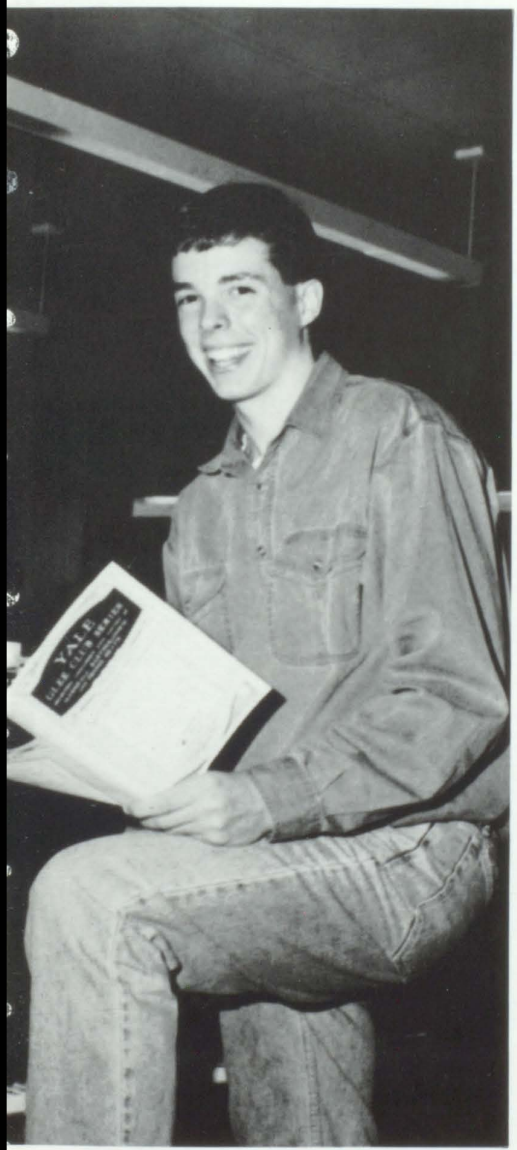
Performers Luke Payne and Erin Butina loved to be on stage. Payne replied, "Acting is like being in a whole new world with a whole new personality." Butina spent the summer on stage at The Apple Hill Playhouse.

Steve Kloock qualified for states for two consecutive years in forensics. He liked the speech events the best because he could "Show his point without putting down others' ideas." He believed that "The art of conversation is the ability to discuss without arguing."

Athletic talent was also a big part of the senior class. Jamie Okonak impressed many at his soccer and basketball games. "In a game, I try to not only beat the team, but the individual players as well," he explained.

Ryan Purvis taught skiing to all ages and levels. "I love teaching people my favorite sport and getting paid for it," he commented.

Whether it was on stage or a field, seniors displayed their talent throughout their school careers. One could only venture to guess how far their talents would take them!



Seniors took many classes to develop and practice talents. Heather Jellison took Clothing I and proved to be extremely skilled in shirt-making.

Looking Their Best

Seniors tried hard and did a lot to look good and stay as fit as possible. Everyone heard that eight, eight-ounce glasses of water a day kept them healthy. Since getting to a cold, working water fountain was often a difficult task, many students found carrying a water bottle most appropriate.

Gone were the days of...

...braces. Now that those awful things that cause the nickname 'metal mouth' were gone, perfect teeth made beautiful smiles.

...glasses. Many seniors, that at one time wore glasses, got contacts to show off attentive eyes. Since contacts were were tinted, disposable, glass, and flexible, seniors couldn't see any reason not to wear them.

...starving to lose those last five pounds. Healthy diets, which included reduced fat intake, helped waistlines and hips to shrink.

...sitting in front of the TV. Seniors found that working out was better exercise than eating while watching "Beavis And Butt-head". Videos and home workouts were very popular. Seniors especially liked "Buns Of Steel", "Body By Jake", and "Fitness Pros."

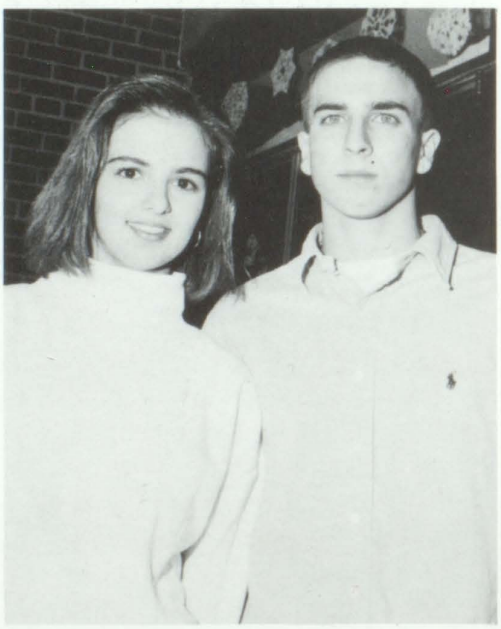
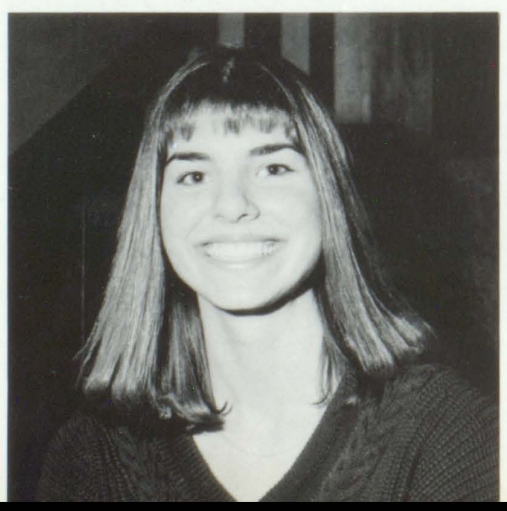
Ron Kneiss tries to convince Harold Meyers to buy a Latrobe sweatshirt from the student store as Melissa McCracken looks on. Student Council members ran the student store during their study halls.



It's easy to make eye contact with Erin Ordelt and Tim Orange because they have the "Prettiest Eyes" in the senior class. During the school day, students' eyes told teachers whether they were listening, day dreaming, or sleeping.



Shannon Thorsen had no problem showing off the perfect teeth in her "Best Smile" because she was usually cheerful and energetic. Both students and teachers enjoyed seeing a smile to relieve some of the pressures of the day.

They've got legs and they definitely know how to use them! Brandy Yates and Alan Keefe received the title of "Best Legs" because of their muscular, athletic legs.

"Best Bods" Emilie Kostelnik and Mike Taluskie were born with a nice shape, but athletics helped to keep them solid. Mike missed the picture due to an athletic injury.

Traveling Overseas

Rotary exchange student Shelley Brandt spent her senior year in Gethin, Germany. She was the first exchange student that the small East German town had ever had. With five years of studying the German language prior to her trip, Shelley felt prepared. She spent the time sight-seeing in famous Bonn and Cologne, along with writing for the Gethin newspaper. She was always an independent person, but spending the time away really helped her to prepare for college. Shelley commented, "Living without my parents for a year forced me to make my own decisions. I really grew up."

Darcy Kucenic does not need this hair primping because she looks like she just stepped out of a salon. She and Bryan Yurek had the "Nicest Hair" in the senior class even though they had two different styles.

Meeting The Challenge

Planning for the future was an important part of being a senior. Students had many tough decisions about choosing a career. Jamie Molina chose to be a beautician because she enjoyed fixing hair and working with people. She began to plan for this career by taking classes at the vo-tech school in cosmetology. She started working at Fantastic Sams in August of 1993. Jamie was also on the co-op program which allowed her to leave school at noon and work 20 to 30 hours per week. Her favorite thing to do was to give perms because she liked to see customers walk away satisfied with a new hairstyle. Jamie took her state boards exam in April to be certified as a beautician. To qualify to take the exam, Jamie had to have 1,250 hours of instruction and training. She hopes to open her own beauty shop after graduation.

"Teachers' Pets" Tom Maatta and Sondae Mitchell do some clean-up for their favorite teacher. Students helped teachers out to make the day more enjoyable.

Reluctantly, Gordie Johnson allows Jamie Molina to trim his great hair. Jamie practiced her hair-cutting skills at Fantastic Sam's.

Hard at work, the title of "Most Intelligent" holds true for Marjorie Strobel and Jeff Novotny. Advanced classes made for some hard studying both in and out of school.

Senior class officers Megan Karazsia, Amy King, Kim Burns, and Lynda Bridge display the Class of '94 Flag. The class flower was the Japenese Iris and the class colors were violet and ivory.

Mr. Repko assists Dan Saffer, Brian Ludwig, and Jamie Foster with a program in their architecture class. The industrial arts program was modernized with eight new IBM computers.

Nicki Gray and Rodney Schmucker are rolling in the dough now, and will hopefully be making big bucks in the future. The two were voted "Most Likely To Succeed."

Student Aides Deann Rummel and Andrea Shafran help keep the office running smoothly. Making copies, writing passes, and delivering messages kept aides busy.

We're In The Money

When most high school students got summer jobs, it was at a grocery store, fast food place, the Mall, Idlewild, or other typical teen work places.

However, Dan Hoffman, Matt McCurdy, and W.C. Paxton had a different idea. They opened up Paxton's Lawn Maintenance. Their jobs included cutting grass, planting, trimming, mulching, cutting down trees, and organic hauling.

Collectively, the three of them made $3500. Ten percent of that money went back into the business for new equipment and repairs.

McCurdy summed up their experience by stating, "The best part of our jobs was being our own bosses. We had no one to answer to and were responsible for all of our own mistakes and accomplishments. Our reputation was on the line, so we took more pride in what we did."

Mike Scaffardi and Alexis Demagone stand in front of their church before going to Denver. They spent a week at The World Youth Events.

Journey To Denver

This summer, Juniors Mike Scaffardi and Alexis Demangone travelled to Denver with other kids from the Greensburg Diocese. Their purpose was to see the Pope on National World Youth Day.

The trip lasted a week, August 10-16. They flew in a private chartered plane from Pittsburgh to Denver. Upon arriving, they got into the swing of the World Youth Day events. These included going to Celebration Plaza, which was a large number of blocked off streets, Mile High Stadium, and Cherry Creek Park.

At Celebration Plaza, many different people joined together for an opening mass. Large groups walked around exchanging buttons, and other memorabilia.

Most of their time was spent at Mile High Stadium. There they partook in catechetical sessions, where speakers related religion to everyday life. The group also attended masses at the stadium.

Their final journey was to Cherry Creek Park where they slept outside with no tents, just sleeping bags. They were cramped into a small space on the ground. There were many different people around them. Italians were sleeping at their feet, the Polish people were sleeping at their heads. Getting meals were not easy either. According to Alexis, "We waited in line for over an hour for a sandwich and a drink. It was not the lap of luxury out there." The morning after, the Pope came and said a three hour mass. After the mass, the group headed back for a four to five mile hike to get on buses to go back to the hotel.

The trip proved to be rewarding for Mike and Alexis. They came back with many stories, memories, and friendships. "I came back with a whole new feeling. I look at people and daily living in a whole new light now," stated Mike.

Fun In France

What is it like going to a foreign country? "It feels like you're in a totally different world. Everywhere you look there are unfamiliar street signs and store names. You turn on your radio and you here music that you have never heard before," commented former French exchange student Nikki Daugherty. The food may also be unusual, and it is possible that dinner is at 8:30 in the evening, but don't let this discourage plans to travel abroad. Former Spanish exchange student Missy Luttner replied, "At first it was difficult to adjust, but after awhile I got used to it. All of the unfamiliarities were worth it because I learned a lot. It was a great cultural experience. I would like to travel abroad again."

Juniors Handle Stress!

Stress is that six letter word that all high school students have come to know.

First, there's the things that the world considers trivial, but teens know are very important... what clothes to wear, what hair style looks best, where to go during weekends, or even what to say to that new love interest.

School is another cause of anxiety for teens... making the grades, getting into the play, joining the right clubs, or getting homework done in a small amount of time.

Thinking about the future causes many reasons for teens to bite their nails... what career to pursue, where to go to college, or getting good SAT scores to get into that college.

For teen-agers, stress is just one of those things that high school is all about.

Playing Dress Up

Homecoming was an exciting time. For many, this was their first formal.

After weeks of planning, the date finally came. The dresses, nails, and hair were done. The guys made sure they had new ties, and made a trip to the florist for corsages.

After dinner and pictures, the couples headed to the cafeteria for the dance. "I'll never forget the moment I stepped into the cafeteria. The music and lights made the finishing touches." said Jessica Bogdan.

German exchange student Robert Zahl shares a special moment with his father before leaving for Latrobe. It was hard saying goodbye to family members before the long trip.

Claudine Michel, from France, and her boyfriend take time to relax in the sun. Spending time with friends before coming to America was important.

Anna Mikander, from Finland, strikes a pose for the camera. Anna was actively involved in American activities during her stay.

Exploring New Territories

Have you ever thought about spending a year abroad? That's exactly what three foreign exchange students did. Eighteen year old Claudine Michel, from Sisteron, France, sixteen year old Anna Mikander, from Grankulla, Finland, and seventeen year old Robert Zahl, from Berlin, Germany stayed with host families in the area.

All three students enjoyed activities similiar to American students. Claudine was on the girls' soccer team. She prefered school here rather than in France. She commented, "We don't have sports activities everyday. Some days we have 13 to 17 hour school days with one hour classes." Claudine did best in math, science, and foreign languages. When she returns home, she will attend the University in Marseille, France, where she will study mathematics and biology.

Anna was actively involved in the German Club and the Aqua Club. Anna commented, "Latrobe is more strict. In Finland, we can call the teachers by their first names and walk through the halls without a pass. Our classes are at different times and we have different subjects every single day." In the future, Anna would like to pursue a career in the foreign language field.

Robert enjoyed playing basketball, reading, and going out with his friends in his spare time. Robert stated, "German students are grouped into one class that has all of their subjects together. There isn't a lunch, the classes are 45 minutes long, and we have 5-15 minute breaks. The school here offers more courses, more sports, and better teachers." After high school, Robert would like to study in the technology field.

All three students learned a lot about our culture. They have great memories of their travels to the United States.

"We All Need Somebody..."

What is a friend? That's obvious - right? It's the person one can have fun with anywhere, confide in, and the person who accepts who one really is. Friends are more than that though. They are the people who one is associated with, and friends seem to almost share identities. Maybe that is the reason having friends in high school is so important. They listen to each other's problems and help each other when they can. Most importantly, they let one know that he or she really belongs.

Many myths about the senior high filter down to junior high. Polling sophomores about these myths, we found that reality set in pretty quickly.

The Myth was...	The Reality was...

Model leadership

benefits students, teachers, community

Most students do not know what goes into being part of the administrative staff, but there is more to it than many think.

When asked what being a Superintendent is all about, Dr. Stavisky answered that he works with four groups of people. First, he works closely with the board of school directors in the development of agendas for their monthly board meetings. Second, he works closely with teachers, principals, and coordinators for education programs. Third, he visits schools and has the opportunity to work with students. Fourth, he works with individuals and groups from the community. Dr. Stavisky stated that the most rewarding part of his work is "the satisfaction associated with groups of people working together to solve problems and provide quality educational programs."

Mr. Myers, the assistant principal, stated that a principal is "one who has many roles — a parent, sponsor of activities, disciplinarian, and instructional leader." He feels that the most important job of a principal is to look out for the well-being of students academically and socially in school. In Mr. Myers' career, his most memorable moment is when a boy who had been a constant trouble-maker was changed. Mr. Myers stated that he had had many verbal "battles" with this boy. This boy was constantly suspended, kicked out of class, and finally withdrew from school. A year after he withdrew, this boy came back to Mr. Myers with his life back on track, and he told Mr. Myers that he (Mr. Myers) had been the only one who had cared.

Another administrator, Mr. Hill, who heads Business Education and Social Studies, stated that his job is to teach teachers, be responsible for working with the budget, and working with the Chamber of Commerce. In his career, he remembers most when a window swung open and hit a boy over the head. The boy didn't get hurt, but everyone laughed because his head was framed in the window.

Running a school as large as Latrobe's administrators had to be flexible and diverse. It took a lot of hard work and stamina to meet the needs of everyone.

Communication

breaks down walls, builds relationships

Language arts teachers helped students speak and write more fluently. Their teaching resulted in some funny, some touching moments. French teacher, Miss Nugent recalled one hilarious moment, "We were reading the book Notre Dame de Paris in class. One girl in the class was flighty and always asked stupid questions. We had been reading for three weeks when she asked, "Oh! Are we reading The Hunchback of Notre Dame?' One boy walked out of the class and screamed. He came back into the room and sighed, 'I feel much better!' The other teachers had run out of their rooms to see what happened."

Some moments were more meaningful to teachers. Looking back, Mr. Mikula commented, "My most memorable times at GL were the rehearsals and performances of the 50 plays and musicals I directed over the years. Seeing students grow theatrically was the most satisfying for me."

Mr. Conroy felt his most memorable moment was, "A few years ago a senior student asked for assistance in applying for a presidential scholarship. Our primary focus was two essays that were an integral part of the application. After much writing and rewriting, the job was completed. Our combined efforts paid off — she received a $10,000 scholarship for each of her four years of college. What made this such a memorable moment was that the girl said, 'Thank you for all your help.'"

Logic, research
improve life, open new worlds

When we asked teachers what teaching was all about for them, we always got positive answers. For example, Ms. Schmidt replied, "the most rewarding moments come when students say, 'Oh, now I understand . . .' or 'so that is what that means . . .' or the best 'I was thinking . . .' "

Miss Kitko told us that teaching Chemistry was "seeing the light of understanding 'click on' for students."

Despite their reputations for being tough and strict, math and science teachers also experienced the more humorous side of teaching.

In Mr. LoCascio's case, his most memorable (and humorous) moment in teaching was the ninth grade field trip he chaperoned to Washington D.C. The entire ninth grade class was in Ford's Theater enjoying the play The Robber's Bridgegroom, when a leading actress came out on stage without a shirt. Although everything worked out all right, Mr. LoCascio told us that the ten boys for whom he was responsible were "walking hormones" for the rest of the trip.

Mrs. Lipko informed us that her most memorable moment happened when she "was stopped by a fellow teacher / staff member and sternly asked, 'where is your pass?' Even the briefcase I was carrying did not convince my colleague that I was a member of the faculty!"

Miss Treskovich recalled her most memorable moment with a laugh. One of her students was looking for a sponsor for the swim team and approached her by saying, "Miss Treskovich, you look like an athletic supporter." Teaching at that point was hopeless as the entire class roared with laughter.

Teachers proved once again that while education is serious, it can still be lots of fun.

Suddenly, former Senior Bob Baum stole the ball from a McDowell runner and ran for a touchdown, thus snatching victory from the jaws of defeat."

Mr. Lucas's most memorable moment was when Mr. Harvey hid Mr. Lucas's American History class ninth period. Mr. Lucas commented, "I walked into my classroom and it was completely empty. "The feeling that a teacher gets when one of their students has created a piece of artwork which expresses the students' ideas, thoughts, and talents is wonderful," replied Miss Thurn, when asked what teaching means to her.

According to Mrs. Maggiore, "Teaching Child Development means writing on a small child's mind and soul for the first time." Mrs. Maggiore was quick to share her most memorable moment, which was when a preschool child addressed her with very "colorful" language. It took her brain a full minute to comprehend what happened, while her students remained frozen waiting for her response. She turned red, tenderly lifted the child from the floor, and said, "You will never use such language in this classroom again."

'Godspell' (1980) was Mr. Tourre's most memorable musical. He explained, "The reason it sticks out in my mind is the overwhelming amount of talent that starred in it." Mr. Tourre continued, "I work with students everyday for months to prepare for one concert, but in that one concert I can tell how each and everyone improved. Special needs emphasize health, career, practical skills.

Teachers serving students in the special needs areas often get to know students on a more personal basis. Often these teachers build special relationships with students they have helped. Mrs. Bleehash recalled one such special time. In her second year of teaching, she was assigned a Vo-Tech homeroom with 28 boys and two girls. A few days before Christmas four of the boys asked if they could be excused. She said yes, but as an afterthought she was worried that they went out to fight. The rest of the class told her to calm down and in a few minutes the four boys walked in with a dozen red roses for her.

Other teachers in the areas recalled humorous incidents. Mrs. Davis remembers in the library when a student asked her what a myopic tree was. He saw it used in context as "the myopic tree surgeon." They later realized that 'myopic' was describing 'surgeon' and not 'tree.' They laughed when they discovered the mistake they made.

Heartbeat of school

offices, cafeteria hubbub of activity

Typing, filing, keeping records, answering phones, taking notes, writing memos, and keeping things running smoothly were what being a secretary at Greater Latrobe was all about.

Each secretary had their own special tasks that went along with their job. For instance, in the athletic office, Mrs. Phillips kept track of all activity accounts and she got to work with the athletes.

Mrs. Kozusko helped with training the library aids.

The office secretaries kept track of the attendance records, delivered lunches to students that forgot them, and overall were the principal's right-hand women.

Mrs. Macey kept track of scholarship information and college information.

With the variety of secretaries, each had her own memorable moments. Mrs. Stahl, the Central Receiving Director, will never forget when she was given a computer that she didn't even know how to turn on, and had to learn how to use it.

Mrs. Macey was walking down the hall to go home for lunch when a strong over-enthusiastic football player came up behind her, gave her a big hug and cracked two ribs.

Being a secretary at Latrobe was best summed up in a statement Mrs. Phillips said, "Everything is memorable in this place. It's so goofy, it's hard to forget."

We celebrated their new beginnings and acknowledge, "A teacher affects eternity; he can never tell where his influence stops." (Henry Brooks Adams)

Retirement claimed several professional employees at the end of '92-'93.

Moving from typewriter to Macintosh computer, office secretary Bev Ambrose saw many changes in her years at GLHS. Some things, however, never changed. Arriving at 6:30 a.m. daily, she wrote early dismissals, delivered messages and forgotten lunches to students and teachers, typed, answered phones, and saw thousands come and go.

Teaching Spanish life and culture to hundreds, Shirley Canterna also sponsored several exchange programs with Spanish speaking cities. Junior Tara Ewanits spoke for many of Canterna's students, "She was a great teacher; I really miss her."

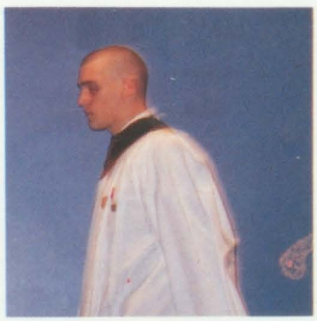
Stationed in the health suite, school nurse Lee DiVittis dealt with accidents, flu epidemics, physicals, SAP, and daily medications. Hypochondriacs and students trying to get out of classes added variety to her days.

Having been a teacher and guidance counselor, Gary Garrison ended 40 plus years in education as athletic director. "Mr. G" befriended both athletes and coaches and proved he knew what high school sports was all about.

Remembered as the "small but mighty" wrestling coach, Tom Harbert trained many young men for competition. He also relished his position as the only male teacher in the business department.

Cloistered in her corner of the S building, biology teacher Marion Vogelsang came early, stayed late, and had great compassion for all her students.

what it's all about



STUDENT LIFE

Soaking up sunshine

Beaches were good places to have fun over the summer, but students also found other ways to have good times.

Many students held summer jobs. They worked anywhere from Idlewild to Dairy Queen. Junior Kristin Kelly stated, "My summer was spent squishing lemons at the fresh squeezed lemonade stand at Idlewild Park." She even started her own savings account.

Idlewild was not only a popular place to work, but to spend time with family and friends. "I spent time there with my family while we had a picnic," replied Junior Stacey Showman.

Friends from school kept up on the latest gossip by talking on the phone, meeting at the mall, or going to the movies. These helped make the summer more memorable and more enjoyable.

While many students spent the summer vacationing with their parents, others chose to spend it with their friends. Junior Todd Jones decided to spend time with his family by going to Ocean City, Maryland for a week. Junior Alexis Demangone took her friend Megan Everett to Nagshead, North Carolina. There they both burned in the hot sun.

Junior Rachel Cobrando summed it up best. "The summer was great. Too bad school had to start"

Searching for fun

McDonald's ... Denny's ... Eat'n'Park; these were the places one would most likely find students hanging out. After a challenging week of homework, tests, and stress, students needed to take time out and relax. Most Friday nights were spent at a sporting event. When the game was over, everyone flocked to their favorite hang-out to mingle with friends.

Another place to blow off steam was Legion-Keener Park. There were a variety of different activities to do, such as roller blading, soccer, sand volleyball, tennis, street hockey, and mountain bike riding. These have all have become very popular with students, serving as a much needed break from the hard work they put forth in school. "It's a nice place to exercise and have fun at the same time," commented Senior Megan Karazsia.

Some other popular hang-outs for many were the area malls and shopping plazas. Some went to shop, while others went to socialize and "check out" the scene. Latrobe wasn't all about the fast paced life in a big city, but when friends got together, hanging out could be lots of fun.

Pulling in the money

Money is what it's all about, and how did one get it? A job, of course! From McDonald's to Latrobe Country Club to King's Garden Palace, part-time jobs played a major role in students' after school lives.

Some students said money burned holes in their pockets. Others put their money toward saving for college, a car, or future use.

Those who were not saving up, spent their money on the necessities in life: clothes, food, and CD's. Prom dresses, gifts, gas, and sports also accounted for a percentage of the money spent.

Some squandered their money on the finer things in life. Sophomore Johnna Pugner quipped, "I spend my money on gold, of course."

Junior Kara Yancich replied, "I rarely spend my money because I'm trying to save up for a car."

No matter how students got their money, it was evident that money played an important role in each and every life. Obviously, money is what it's all about.

Going the extra mile

Between the 2:37 dismissal bell and the 7:10 arrival bell, what's the school all about? Many extracurricular activities consumed most of students' spare time. Some swim team members were actually at school hours before it started to practice. They arrived as early as 5:00 a.m.

A variety of sports got together after school for games, practices, and meetings. Such sports as volleyball, football, and basketball came back to school on Saturdays for practice.

Besides the seasonal sports, many activities such as band, yearbook, and weightlifting spent numerous hours after school. The band not only had instruction in school, but they also practiced after school, performed at shows, and returned to school to prepare for football games several hours before game time.

While some students went home to enjoy their free time, a variety of clubs met, planned, and provided their services. Student Council worked after school to plan various projects. Some students stayed to be tutored in a troubling subject. Teachers were willing to give an hour or two of their valuable time to help those students.

As the school year came to an end, many thought the activities did as well. There are many sports that started in mid or late summer, so some team players were at school for a lot of their summer. A number of students also worked in and around the school for the district during the summer. "Sometimes I feel like I spent more time at school playing volleyball than I did anywhere. It's tiring, but it's worth it in the end," commented Junior Jodi Nachreiner.

Expressing oneself

Like the models in Cosmo and GQ, the fashion-conscious students followed all the latest fads. These trends were not only in clothes, but in hang-outs, TV shows, and music.

Some styles were popular for both sexes. "Kickers", baseball caps, flannel shirts, and sweater vests were commonly modeled by all.

Guys and girls did have different trends, however. The guys played Sega and laughed at "Beavis and Butt-head", while the girls dramatized over "90210" and "Melrose Place". Girls wore bodysuits, ruffled blouses, and chokers. For guys, the usual jeans, T-shirts, and sports paraphernalia prevailed.

The sophomores introduced "double-strapping" bookbags. Country, hard and classic rock, and R&B CD's were popular. Denny's and Eat'n'Park provided late night meals and a place to "chill", while Club 30 was a place to go wild and dance.

Senior Bryan May commented, "I don't think anything is in or out. It's just there."

Putting some thought into it

What area school...
...had most of its students attending nine classes a day (plus lunch)?
...offered all four basic foreign languages as electives?
...offered Red Cross Lifeguard Training and Water Safety Instruction?
...required Driver's Education to graduate?
...offered road instruction to its students at no charge?
...offered Honors Physical Education to its exceptionally athletic students?

What area school offered all of these benefits and much more? None other than Greater Latrobe High School.

Latrobe's many benefits were evident to several of its students. Junior Jason Heese commented, "As JCL President and a Latin student since seventh grade, I really appreciate that Latrobe has such an extensive foreign language department."

Junior Todd Jones stated, "I'm glad Latrobe offers Driver's Education. It gives the basic principles of being a safe driver, since driving is important in every teenager's life."

Senior Tim Worstell said, "I feel the curriculum at Latrobe is one of the best in the state. The teachers add a special flair."

Senior Jeff Novotny explained, "The education here is superior to most schools."

WINNERS VS. LOSERS

- When a winner makes a mistake, he says, 'I was wrong;'
  When a loser makes a mistakes, he says, 'It wasn't my fault.'

- A winner works harder than a loser and has more time;
  A loser is always 'too busy' to do what is neccessary.

- A winner goes through a problem;
  A loser goes around it, and never past it.

- A winner makes commitments;
  A loser makes promises.

- A winner says, 'I'm good, but not as good as I ought to be;'
  A loser says, 'I'm not as bad as a lot of people.'

- A winner listens;
  A loser just waits until it's his turn to talk.

- A winner respects those who are superior to him and tries to learn something from them;
  A loser resents those who are superior to him and tries to find chinks in their armor.

- A winner feels responsible for more than his job;
  A loser says, 'I only work here.'

- A winner says, 'There ought to be a better way to do it.'
  A loser says, 'That's the way it's always been done here.'

Tackling the Enemy

Coach John Bainbridge commented that the goal for the football team at the beginning of the season was "to be the best football team that we could be." After the Cats lost their first game to Derry, the team realized a lot of hard work and dedication would be needed.

Despite losing most of their starters, the Wildcats began the season with a positive attitude. The Cats still had a talented team with nine players being named All-Conference. Senior Dave Bulebosh was named to All-Conference first team. While Seniors Brian May, Mike Taluskie, Keith Stewart, and Junior Neal Thompson were named second team. Seniors Joe Steeves and Tom McKay and Juniors Brian Bronson and Travis Payne received Honorable Mention.

Although the Cats ended the season with a record of 3-7, the team showed improvement each game. Coach Bainbridge remarked, "I think we improved as the season went on. Overall, I felt most of our players played up to their capabilities."

The Cats' season may have not ended the way everyone hoped it would, but it exhibited a lot of hard-work and talent. Many of the players stepped in to fill the positions that were lost. The fans were always there giving their support by cheering at the pep assemblies or at the games.

Senior Jeanne Kondrich fights an opposing defenseman for the ball. Being aggressive was a key part in attacking the goal.

Achieving New Goals

"We really did not know what to expect. We could not have been happier with how well our returning letterwinners mixed with our new players. They combined to make a strong team that truly worked well together," commented Coach Dan Grobe. The Cats ended on a winning note with a section record of 6-4.

Sophomore Torre Baughman and Senior Jeanne Kondrich led the team with fifteen goals and eleven goals, respectively. Junior sweeper Becca May ended with ten goals and led with 22 assists. Baughman, Kondrich, and May were named to the All-Section Team. May was also selected as a WPIAL All-Star for the third consecutive year.

The defense recorded five shut outs with the help of goal keepers Junior Jessica Mitchell and Sophomore Denise Johnson. First year Coach Greg May added, "For a young inexperienced team we played well. With the experience we gained this year, we should be looking toward a very successful season next year. This will only be accomplished if we continue to work and develop our dribbling, passing, and shooting skills."

The girls struggled through some tough games, beating everyone in the section at least once, except for Norwin. The Lady Booters constantly gave their all to come out on top at each game.

Kicking Back

Teamwork and defense were major attributes of the Boys' Soccer team. They finished with a section record of 5-7, 6-11-1 overall.

Highlights of the season included shutouts against Kiski, Derry, and Greensburg Salem. Another win of 4-3 over Salem was also a major milestone. The season's top scorers were Seniors Deken Palmer, who also went on to All-Sections, and Jamie Okonak.

Both players and coaches agreed that the team lacked valuable experience. After many positions were changed, the seniors led the way. The Cats played like a true team and excelled defensively.

Many feel the team will become even better. "We gained some respect this season with some close matches. We let some teams know we could be a real power in the section in years to come," commented Senior Right Wing Ryan Purvis. Although some very skilled seniors will be leaving, co-captain Okonak felt, "The experience the underclass gained this season will help them a lot throughout the next seasons."

The combination of strong senior leadership and excellent defense had contributed to the Cats performance. Because of the leadership they showed, Palmer and Okonak served as co-captains for the team. Palmer also received honor by being named to the Tribune Review Fab 15.

Setting Up Success

With two returning starters and other team members with varsity experience, the outlook for the season was high. "Everyone was really excited about the season because we had a lot of talented players who could take us to the playoffs," quoted Senior Michel Pawlosky. Having two and a half hour practices prepared the team for four five-game matches that sometimes lasted up to three hours. Unfortunately those matches resulted in losses, leaving the Lady Spikers with a 2-5 record. The Cats showed resilience when they bounced back with wins against Belle Vernon, Derry, and a thrilling victory against tough section rival Penn Trafford. Junior Michele Markovich commented, "The Penn Trafford game was the first time all season that we worked together as a team. It was a difficult game, but it felt good that we were able to accomplish what we went there for, to kick some butt!" The season ended with the Cats finishing up their season with an overall record of 6-9.

The Cats improved at the end of the season getting through some tough matches. Coach Diane Musick commented on the season by saying, "The season did not end quite the way we had hoped, but the girls tried their best and that's the only thing we could ask of them."

Making a Run for It

The Boys' Cross Country team finished with an impressive 6-4 section record. Coach Wayne Etling commented, "The team did very well considering that this was the toughest competition we've had in my 14 years of coaching." At the WPIAL qualifier, Latrobe finished 10th in a field of 26. This year's top runner, Junior Mike Scaffardi, finished 15th in the competition. In a disappointing change of policy this year, only the top 11 runners advanced. In the coach's and team's mind, however, Scaffardi is definitely at the state level. Despite this setback, the team had a rewarding season. "I thought the boys did really well this year. We had a winning record, and we had a lot of talented runners," remarked Sophomore Dan Markiewicz.

The team had medal winners at each of the Geibel, Gateway, and Northern Invitationals and the Westmoreland County Meet. The team's success was due to the returning upperclassmen, and also to Freshmen Curk Fry and Sophomore Damon Costello.

Although the team will lose three senior runners, Coach Etling feels that the underclassmen will be able to keep up the pace. Senior runner Tom Maatta comments, "There have been better records before, but we have never had such team loyalty." Written and reported by: Kelly Mailey

Coach Etling informs Seniors Tracey Shilobod, Marlene Kunkle, and Christy Murray of their times. Beating their prior time was something all runners strived for.

Keeping Up the Pace

"The five cross country girl runners did an excellent job for first year runners, performing well for most of the season. They worked very hard and showed much team spirit," commented Coach Wayne Etling.

The girls ended their season with an overall section record of 4-5. They also participated in three invitationals at Gateway, Geibel, and Northern. Both Junior Katie Testa and Freshman Kelly Null participated in all of these. Senior Tracey Shilobod ran only in Northern's Invitational.

The team participated in the Westmoreland County meet at Kiski. In this meet, Null placed second out of 164 in the Junior Varsity section. At the WPIAL meet at Mingo Park, Testa placed 72 and Null placed 41 out of 172. This score qualified Null for finals. At finals, she placed 59 overall. Testa commented, "Through hard work and determination we were able to improve our times and win races."

With the meets and the Invitationals, many runners gained valuable experience. With Null and Testa, the Cats top performers, and other young underclassmen returning, the Cats have a lot of potential to look forward to and work with.

The Wildcat golf team ended their season with a record of 7-8. Sixteen players made up the team, which included four returning lettermen. Seniors Tara Adams and Matt Dixon, Juniors Matt Pellis and Dave Strauser, and Sophomore Matt McBroom were the top players. The team worked hard and kept a winning attitude through the season.

Seniors Michelle Maggiore and Adams qualified for the Girls' WPIAL Individual Tournament, where Adams placed second and Maggiore placed seventh. Adams also went to Penn State to compete for the state title. She finished 13th out of 48 participants.

Coach Robert Baluh commented, "I'm very proud of the team this year. This squad is special to me, because they made it possible to get my 500th career victory and never quit trying throughout the season."

According to Strauser, the leading scorer, "We were a young team, and I was proud of each and every player. We actually did better than I had expected, and I now am very excited for next season."

The team will be losing some key players to graduation, one position that will be difficult to fill is that of Tara Adams. She has golfed on the team since her sophomore year and in her junior year, added a WPIAL champion title to the team's history.

Smashing Results

The Girls' Tennis team proved that they had strength and determination to have a winning season. The girls finished with an undefeated record.

Sophomores Courtney Rosenthal and Mindy Perry led the team in singles. Rosenthal held the position of first singles with an overall record of 17-1. Perry was the second singles player, which was a big improvement for Perry, who played only exhibition the previous year. Both Perry and Rosenthal qualified for the WPIAL singles.

Seniors Amy Picciano and Dana Stranko led the team in first doubles. They also qualified for WPIAL doubles and were the team's co-captains. Picciano's overall record was 17-1, while Stranko's overall record was 16-2.

Coach Jim Rombach took a great hand in the girls' success. According to Picciano, "Coach Rombach always looked at the positive side of things. If someone missed a shot, he still had something good to say to her." The team proved to work together well. The season ended in WPIAL playoffs against Fox Chapel.

Each player contributed to the success of the team. "Working hard individually and together as a team helped to make our team successful," commented on Dana Stranko. Without teamwork, an undefeated season could have never been reached.

JV Experience

The players that made up the Fall JV teams had difficult committments to make. Attending agilities and practices, in extreme heat weeks before school started was a requirement. Also attending those practices were a must. Coaches expected much more commitment than what most players were used to. Those athletes who struggled through the hard practices made the teams.

Junior Varsity sports played a key role in developing athletes for Varsity competition. Playing JV always gave the opportunity for the players to perfect their skills. Some athletes were fortunate enough to see Varsity action in addition to their own JV games. Sophomore volleyball player, Gwen Cochran commented, "This year was a great experience for me. It was a lot of hardwork to be a part of the team, but it was well worth it." Junior Varsity teams give needed experience to team players. If you'd like to win, but you think you can't,
It's almost certain you won't.

If you think you'll lose, you've lost;
For out in the world you've find
Success begins with a fellow's will.
It's all in the state of mind.

If you think you are outclassed, you are;
You've got to think high to rise;
You've got to be sure of yourself before
You can ever win a prize.

Moving Forward

"Our players have worked very hard in the off-season to prepare for this year. They expected a lot of themselves, and that's why I expected a lot out of them," commented Coach James DiMuzio. His goals for the season were to "Improve everyday as a team, to have great team attitude and chemistry, to give 100% everyday, to win the section, and to represent our school and community in a way that all can be proud."

The Cats had a slow start with an exhibition record of 0-3. They improved, winning their first three section games. Senior Jamie Okonak, the only returning starter, was a key to the offense. "He also excelled in his leadership, rebounding, defense, assists, and steals," explained Coach DiMuzio.

The players worked hard and improved their game. Junior Ryan Dias commenmted, "We learned from our losses to help improve our record."

Even though the Cats had a slow start, they improved their play tremendously. The Cats did a lot better than what many expected of them. Okonak proved his ability during the game against Indiana. He had an excellent performance scoring 40 points. Many individuals stood out at the beginning of the season. By the end the Cats worked as a team.

Making a Point

"Practice doesn't make perfect...perfect practice makes perfect. If the girls really put their mind to their work and to practicing, no one could stop them," New Head Coach Ron Gaudi explained halfway through the season. Coach Gaudi felt that while the girls were very hardworking and had the desire not to give up, "they just don't realize their potential." He also pointed out that the girls were getting more confident as they became more successful. Junior Michele Markovich added, "By working together with the right attitude I feel that our team improved as the season progressed and kept us fighting harder day after day."

The team consisted of one freshman, one sophomore, three juniors, and five seniors. The team had many talented players, including Michel Pawlosky, the leading scorer. Coach Gaudi added that even the girls that didn't play as much, and often sat on the bench, had skills and ability. When asked what the team's biggest game was, Coach Gaudi declared that, "Every game is a big game. Every single game we play is important."

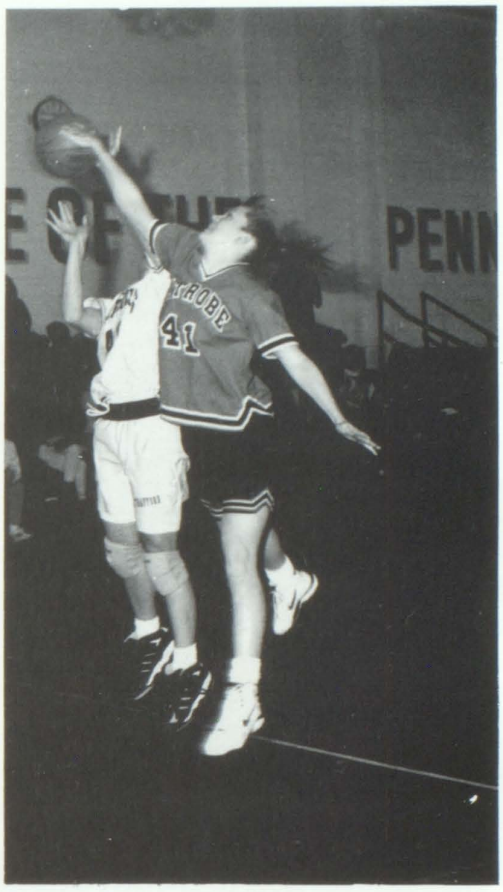
Junior Michele Markovich looks to pass to her teammate. Despite the tough play the Cats lost a close game to Penn Trafford.

Freshman Colleen Kersey plays tough defense on her opponent. As her first year on the team, Kersey was an asset both defensively and offensively.

Senior Michel Pawlosky stops the drive to the hoop by her opponent. Pawlosky served as Captain.

Focusing her power on the ball, Junior Jess Mitchell jumps to block the shot. Mitchell contributed to the strong defensive play.



Sophomore Sue Sobota drives to the hoop. Sobota was a regular starter for the Cats.

New Head Coach, Ron Gaudi, gives instruction during a timeout. The Cats had seven returning lettermen.

Senior Bryan May attempts to take down his opponent. Take downs earns the wrestler two points.

Senior Mike Taluskie rides his opponent, attempting to turn him. Lifting weights helped the wrestlers to gain strength.

Senior Jason Senak warms up before the big meet. A good strong kick was essential in his event, the 500 freestyle.

Relaying a Message

The Cats made giant leaps toward improvement but had trouble with the larger section teams because of their lack of numbers. Coach Jim Jioio commented, "We have an excellent team, we just don't have enough depth." This rang true at Penn Trafford where the guys lost by a disappointing 11 points.

Leading the Cats once again was Sophomore Adam Love. Qualifying for WPIAL competition in eleven events and breaking nine records, Love proved to be a tough competitor. "I had high expectations for this year and next. We've gotten much better this year," commented Love. The powerful 200 medley and free relays of Love, Junior Ken Kuhn, and Freshmen Aaron and Adam Ulishney broke school records and qualified for WPIAL's. Senior captain Mike Hitchman and Junior Tom Mehalic made the move to diving to help bring in more points for the team. Assistant Coach Pete Laszycki said of the first year divers, "They're trying hard and doing real well." The team remained positive during tough meets and they could always be expected to come out on top.

Senior Jamie Meholic keeps a good pace swimming the 500 freestyle. Long hours were spent building endurance.

Senior Erin Fagan swims the last leg of the breast stroke. Developing a rhythmic breathing pattern is a key element in good stroke technique.

Making a Splash

The Lady Cat swimmers "worked hard, showed good team spirit and stuck to their goals," commented Coach Jim Jioio. The team practiced hard for 18 hours a week. Another strong point was the number of returning upperclassmen who have been swimming for many years. This gave the team much needed experience.

Although the team was dedicated, the snow storms of January made it very difficult for team members to make it to practice. With high standards and practice cancellations, swimmers were more determined. "I'm disappointed that our record was not as good as we would like, but with more practice, I'm looking for continued improvement" commented Junior Mandy Cirota.

The loyalty, talent, and determination of the team paid off. The 200 medley relay made up of Seniors Kristy Kelly, Erin Fagan, Allie Long, and Junior Dawn Heckman qualified for WPIAL's.

Victory was no stranger to returning letterman and record holder, Heckman, who was last season's state champion in two events. "Our seasons always end in a success because we have positive attitudes and abilities," commented Heckman. The Lady Cats showed great determination throughout the whole season.

Sticking Together

"We really pulled together and worked as a team against one of our top contenders," stated Junior Steve Agnello in reply to the Franklin Regional game. The team accomplished an impressive goal for the season, beating Franklin Regional for the first time on home ice.

With the Cats, having nine returning lettermen, the hockey team proved to have many talented players. Four team members were chosen to the All-Star team, Seniors Sean Myers, Terry Betz, Andy Modecki, and Agnello. "The team was the best, and our All-Stars were strong players, that we looked towards for leadership," stated Junior Pat Kairys.

The season proved to be successful. Both Varsity Coach Bill Cesarski and Assistant Coach Jeff Kucenic agreed on the team's performance, stating, "An unfortunate number of injuries and assorted set backs have not deterred the Latrobe Hockey Club from attaining their goals this season. Each player, whether freshmen or senior, pulled and had double the win production over last year at the midway point of the season."

JV Experience

Year after year there are many rising stars in varsity athletics but they must gain valuable experience and leadership qualities passing through the junior varsity first.

"All of our JV's did a great job," replied JV wrestling coach, Mark Mears, "but Buddy Young, Ed Vargo, and Tom Lisbon were real leaders throughout the season." Leadership is just one great quality Latrobeans shared. The JV Boys' Basketball team showed their potential as a whole, exhibiting patience and fortitude by learning from each other and their upperclass teammates. For JV hockey the outlook is high. "The Ice Cats should look forward to a highly competitive team in the future. Tom Underwood among other fine skaters will be vying for vaccancies on the varsity squad," commented Coach Jeff Kucenic. One way to describe the JV Girls' Basketball team is consistency. Sophomores Julie Plesko and Michelle Gordon show the most promise. Plesko's rebounding ability combined with Gordon's talent for running the offense is bound to lead the girls to success.

DONT QUIT

When things go wrong, as they sometimes will,
When the road you're trudging seems all uphill,
When the funds are low and the debts are high,
And you want to smile, but you have to sigh,
When care is pressing you down a bit -
Rest if you must, but don't you quit.

Life is queer with its twists and turns,
As everyone of us sometimes learns,
And many a person turns about
When they might have won and stuck it out.
Don't give up though the pace seems slow -
You may succeed with another blow.

Often the struggler has given up
When he might have captured the victor's cup;
And he learned too late when the night came down,
How close he was to the golden crown.

Success is failure turned inside out -
So stick to the fight when you're hardest hit,-
It's when things seem the worst that you musn't quit.

Swinging the Stick

Strong pitching is one of the keys to success in baseball and if you want to survive past the regular season, it's extremely important. Letter-winning pitchers, Seniors Tom Gaudino, Alan Keefe, and Tony Calabrace provide a good nucleus for the team's prosperity. Section 1 means going up against the likes of Norwin, Greensburg Salem, and Franklin Regional, who each have an excellent base of skilled players. That's where returning Seniors Pete Bush, Dave Bulebosh, and Juniors Neil Zubaty and Ken Ivory come into play. Coupled with additional talent from last year's JV, the team showed strong section play. "We were a young ball team last year and now that we're more experienced I'm looking forward to the playoffs," replied third baseman Ken Ivory.

Striving for Runs

The Cats began this season optimistically. Coach Jane McMahon, entering her third year as coach, hoped to see her team make it to the playoffs for yet another year.

The section appeared to be challenging this year. "Hempfield has always been a tough competitor, and Penn Trafford, who was new to the section this year, also had a good team," said McMahon.

Coach McMahon considered the season as a rebuilding season. After pitching JV last year in addition to some varsity games, when the starting pitcher was injured, Sophomore Kara Olecki stepped in as the Cats' pitcher. Junior Kelly Harr also developed as a pitcher. Sophomore Karen Taluskie, Juniors Amy Shoemaker and Becca May, and Seniors Amy Striker and Natalie Lentz also proved to be key players in helping the team's effort. "I was concerned with the new pitchers. The veteran pitcher last year carried the team. This year we were virtually untested, but the team tended to rise to the occasion," commented McMahon.

Leaping the Odds

With few seniors returning, the role of the underclassmen was very important. The team had fourteen returning lettermen, which was a big asset. An outlook at the beginning of the season showed strength in the distance team and sprints. The weight team, however, was not as strong as many wished it could be. Coach William Repko, explained that, "I like to prepare the athletes for the big meets like the county meet and qualifiers and don't worry as much about duel meets. Qualifiers takes you to states and that's where a lot of good can come for an athlete.

Junior Mike Scaffardi, runner of the 3200m, 1600m, and 4x800m relay commented that, "Even though the track team is young, we work hard and continue to improve with every meet."

Junior Jason Heese, who participates in the high jump and long jump explained at the start of the season that, "With the loss of several seniors to graduation, the jumpers are going to have a hard time. We'll work hard and be able to compensate though."

"My main goal for the season is to prepare the athletes to peak for important meets because the season will be more meaningful for them," replied Girls' Track coach, William Repko. With these high goals the team had a lot of hard work ahead of them. A serious problem the team had to overcome is the loss of many excellent athletes who have graduated. Therefore, with 12 returning lettermen the underclass played a major role on the team. Other great assets were the sprinting and field event teams.

"We're really going to miss the members of our team that graduated last year; but, we have a lot of new talent moving up from the Jr. High. I'm really looking forward to competing both individually and as a team," commented Senior letterman Jeanne Kondrich at the start of the season. Coach Repko felt competition is an important part because this was a rebuilding year. He also felt that concentration on underclass, sprinting, and field events were key factors for them to do well.

Raising Spirits

Following a vigorous schedule that began from the beginning of the summer until February clearly explains why cheerleading is a year round sport. Between the practice, games, and matches during the week, cheerleading often interfered with the girls' personnal lives. But they kept on smiling and knew what they were there to accomplish. They strived to increase the excitement and intensity of the student body and other spectators at sporting events. It was also very important for all the members of the squad to get along well because they represented GLHS and were role models to others.

In addition to supporting athletes at games, in August, the Varsity and Junior Varsity squads attended Elite Cheerleading Camp at the University of Pittsburgh. The cheerleaders also participated in the Fourth of July Parade and once school began, spent many hours painting signs and decorating lockers.

Regardless of what sporting event fans attended, the cheerleaders constantly displayed their dedication toward boosting school spirit and enthusiasm to everyone.

Patching It Up

It's 2:45...as everyone boarded their buses to go home after a hard day at school, all kinds of athletes could be found waiting for their daily treatment in the training room. Taped wrists, massaged muscles, and running whirlpools were all signs that student trainers were ready to go. "That's when the real work began," stated Senior Christa Yokapenic. She also added, "It's a lot of hard work, but Mrs. Curci makes it all worth it. She really makes it fun and interesting."

The training room was constantly bustling with all sorts of injuries, but somehow the trainers always had time to help everyone. Junior Neal Thompson commented, "The trainers do a very good job. For the amount of people that are in and out of here everyday, the training room runs very smoothly."

The student athletic trainers displayed their skills at various sporting events. Anytime an athlete was injured, a trainer was immediately by their side to offer medical assistance and often to help them relax. Mrs. Curci explained, "The student athletic trainers have many responsibilities throughout the athletic season. Their job requires numerous hours and energy. Their work may look easy from the stands, but a lot of effort, patience, and preparation takes place before, during, and after games."

It didn't matter whether you were an athlete or a spectator, it was clear that as athletic trainers, these students showed us all what it means to be truly dedicated to helping others.

Getting Stronger

In November, nearly 200 coaches and athletes were entertained by Mr. Rick Anderson.

Anderson is the strength and conditioning coach for the NBA's Utah Jazz and Vice President of Bigger, Faster, Stronger incorporated. BFS is a fitness company that promotes strength and conditioning by the use of equipment as well as the motivation of student athletes across the country. The purpose of his presentation was not just conditioning, but also to guide athletes toward proper ideals, good ethics, and reaching their goals through sporting activities rather than drugs and alcohol.

The majority of the day was spent learning proper lifting techniques and listening to Anderson's inspiritional speeches. Senior Joe Steeves commented, "I thought that he brought up good points, how all school teams should work together."

Setting the Sights

The Wildcat Rifle team coached by Craig Bates, returned to season action with sixteen shooters, which included five returning lettermen. The Cats have competed only against Hempfield and Seneca Valley.

The Cats switched from shooting .22 caliber rifles to air rifles which shoot pellets rather than shells. This change was due to a high level of lead found in the indoor range. Since the WPIAL doesn't recognize air rifles, Greater Latrobe decided to continue it on an intramural basis.

In a match, ten shooters represent each school, and the best five scores are used for the team score. To have a perfect score of one hundred, the shooter needs to hit a small dot ten times on a target while standing 30 feet away.

Despite only competing on an intramural basis, co-captain Dawn Dancey feels, "The team's average has improved greatly. The whole team has really come together with their concentration and teamwork."

The Rifle season is during the winter months. It is featured in the Spring section because it was not learned about until the middle of the year.

WHAT IT'S ALL ABOUT

MEMBERS OF THE LATROBEAN STAFF SHOW WHAT IT'S ALL ABOUT

The staff met as a class ninth period daily. One class period a day often was not enough time to finish their projects. Senior Editors stayed after school long hours or used up all of their study halls to meet deadlines. They had to work on layouts, stories, captions, and pictures. Senior Copy Editor Darcy Kucenic commented, "It took a lot of work to put the yearbook together. I had to check and proofread every piece of copy that went into the yearbook."

The Junior staff members were responsible for writing stories assigned by the Seniors and doing any other odd jobs to help out. Junior staff members were also responsible for the Faculty section. They all worked individually or in groups of two on each double page spread. "I think by working on a section ourselves, we learned how to put a yearbook together. We also learned what meeting a deadline really means," commented Junior Kristi Smolleck.

NOTICING THE NEWS

HIGH POST STAFF MADE STUDENTS START NOTICING THE NEWS

High Post members worked hard to produce monthly issues of the school newspaper. Advised by Mrs. Janet Henderson, twenty-nine seniors and juniors who completed journalism, worked together as editors, reporters, and typists to produce a newspaper that kept students informed.

Each month the staff worked as a team to meet deadlines so that the newspaper could be published and distributed on time. Many hours were spent collecting information, interviewing people, and revising rough drafts into good copies. Everyone's cooperation was needed to make each issue as informative and interesting as possible. Junior Dawn Heckman replied, "Having the responsibility to meet deadlines and work in a group gave me the experience and discipline I will need in my career." Sports poll questions and "Frey'd Ideas on Sports" were new additions to the newspaper. Junior Katie Testa commented, "I have had a lot of fun, and I also had the chance to meet new people through the work I have done."

GIVING THEIR TIME

STUDENT COUNCIL MEMBERS ARE GIVING THEIR TIME FOR A DRIVE TOWARDS EXCELLENCE

Student Council was once again successful in leading the student body.

Many of the subcommittees planned assemblies, exchange days, and various other projects. Some projects included the candy cane and carnation sales, the penny war, spirit weeks, and planning the Homecoming and Sadie Hawkins dances. The regular activities of the members included working in the student store and in the concession stand during home football games.

Despite its many demands, the Student Council found time to plan the District IV Conference. The District Conference was a gathering of Student Council representatives from over 50 area schools. The students attended workshops which allowed different Student Councils to share ideas. They also heard several speakers throughout the day. The conference was a group effort that was led by Student Council President Andy Cark, who stated, "We all worked together to make the conference a huge success." Planning for the conference involved much work on the part of Student Council. Junior Gwen Frey thought, "I've been to many other conferences, but this one was the best by far mainly because we got to be such a big part of it." Student Council put a lot of hard work and dedication into their projects. Mr.Hull, the Student Council advisor, summed up the year's effort by saying, "It has been a challenging year with all kinds of new projects and new people involved."

STRIVING AT SUCCESS

HONOR SOCIETY MEMBERS ARE STRIVING AT SUCCESS

Many may wonder about the purpose of National Honor Societies. They were not just something that looked good on a college application. Some, such as NAHS and NHS, did productive things for the school and community.

NAHS was made up of "students who took an art interest beyond the classroom," commented co-sponsor Mr. Kuhar. With the help of him and the other sponsor, Miss Thurn, NAHS members kept busy. They boosted Wildcat spirit at home football games by painting the faces of all those with Wildcat pride. Decorating the school for Christmas, taking a trip to Washington D.C., helping at the Spring Art Exhibit, and decorating for the Prom were other NAHS activities. Miss Thurn noticed an "extra effort students show just because they have an interest in art" in every NAHS member.

Students with outstanding academic abilities were eligible for NHS. A 3.5 grade point average and good teacher recommendations were required of all members. Along with sponsor Mrs. Bronson, NHS members participated in various community service projects. They helped at The National Book Fair and worked with handicapped children at the Winter Special Olympics. During the school year they had many fundraisers to sponsor their annual trip to Toronto. Although this took a lot of work, Senior Matt Burns commented, "It makes you feel good to know that you are helping people that really need it."

CLOSIN G THE GAP

FOREIGN LANGUAGE SOCIETIES TRY CLOSING THE GAP BETWEEN CULTURES

"The Honor Societies represent some of the best academic and most active students in our school," commented Mrs. Bronson, the Latin National Honor Society Advisor. All four of the languages, French, German, Latin, and Spanish, took part in an honor society. The requirements to be inducted into the societies included receiving three A's in the first three quarters of the third level of the respective language; only Latin students were eligible during the second level of instruction. Inductions, which took place in the spring, included a serious ceremony with the officers of each society speaking in their respective language. All inductees took an oath, also in the respective foreign language, preserving the bridge between the cultures. German National Honor Society Advisor Mrs. Debacco commented that "students who are inducted into the Delta Epsilon Phi should be very proud of this honor." French, German, and Spanish inductees took part in a candlelight ceremony while the Latin society dressed in traditional Latin costumes. Along with taking the oath of membership, the new members also received a certificate of membership into the society. French National Honor Society member Chris Friedline commented, "I feel that it is an honor for anyone to be recognized nationally, and I am proud to be involved." The French National Honor Society Advisor, Miss Nugent, and the Spanish National Honor Society Advisor, Mrs. Ryder, agreed that the students work hard and deserve the recogniton of the society.

"Meeting people from different countries is a great experience where everyone should be involved," commented Senior Erin Butina. AFS and advisor Mrs. Garrett opened arms to twelve students spending the year abroad. The group held a welcoming bon-fire to acquaint the members and exchange students.

"Medical Explorers is great because it helps you to know what to expect in future job opportunities," commented Senior Nicki Gray. Members heard from a wide variety of speakers in the medical field, including an Anesthesist, Physician's Assistant, and Cardiologist. Advisor Mrs. Krelling led the group on a tour of the new five floor multi-million dollar expansion unit of the hospital.

Hard at work, Forensics members held Student Congresses every other Wednesday and competed in trophy tournaments every Saturday. With head advisor Mr. Hensell, the team had a very successful year. Senior Vice-President Lisa Lawson remarked, "This year's team worked together extremely well."

"We've had a rip-roarin', point-scorin', Derry-gorin', season. I don't know if we've ever gone undefeated before," commented Senior Captain Jeff Novotny about the Quiz League. More than half-way into their season, the team boasted a perfect 6-0 record that held them in first place. Advisor Mrs. Kubus remarked, "Both the varsity and JV are strong."

A HELPING HAND

MEMBERS LEND A HELPING HAND TO TEACHERS AND STUDENTS

Many students gave up their time to usher at events, volunteer for Morning Announcements, and to be office, library, or athletic office aides.

For starters, the Ushers club passed out programs and seated people at high school performances. They also coordinated the coatroom at the Prom and helped at Graduation ceremony.

Students from the High Post and Latrobean staffs volunteered to participate in Morning Announcements. Unfortunately, they could not broadcast on television as in the past because of a shortened homeroom period. Instead, they announced club meetings, sports results, and other important information on the PA system.

Office Aides played an important role in getting those little jobs done in the office. They performed such tasks as filing excuses, making copies, cutting paper, and helping the secretaries with any problems that arised.

Library Aides did many jobs to help Mrs. Davis in the library. Junior Julie Wible replied, "We collected library passes when the students arrived, put books away, and went to different study halls to see what students were sent to the library."

The Athletic Office Aides made copies, addressed sports announcements and letters to different coaches and administrators, answered the phones, and filed physical forms.

SHOWING OFF SOME

MEMBERS HAVE BEEN SHOWING OFF SOME TALENT DURING THEIR PERFORMANCES

Chorus was open to any student interested in performing music. Chorus member Mandy Cirota stated, "It's fun being a part of the chorus because after the hard work, seeing an applauding audience makes me feel great." The Chorus worked in preparation for their various performances.

The Show Choir met daily during first period with advisor Mr. Tourre to rehearse their song and dance routines. This auditioned group performed for their fellow classmates and represented GLHS at various social functions. The Show Choir sang carols in the Roger McFeely park prior to Christmas Vacation.

Many people did not realize how much work members of Stage Crew performed. They built sets for the play and musical and worked at community events held in the auditorium. They also worked with lighting, sound, and projectors.

Scenery and sets are a vital part of any theater production. With the help of their advisor Mr. Kuhar Set and Scenery Design members participated in the designing, building, and painting of various sets. President Curtis Pollock felt, "Putting together sets was tedious work, but seeing the end product gave me a real sense of accomplishment." Most sets were started from scratch with the help of many talented hands.

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT

PLAY MEMBERS FIND THAT PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT AS THEY STEP INTO THE SPOTLIGHT

When the clock struck eight on November 19, it was time for the cast of "The Mouse That Roared" to go on stage for the opening night of the play. It was time to see the final outcome of all the hard work put into it.

The main parts in the play were double casted, where a different member of the cast played the character each night of the performances. Gloriana was played by Senior Shannon Thorsen and Junior Julie Chamberlain, and Tully Bascom was played by Seniors Steven Kloock and Tim Worstell.

In the play, a small country called Grand Fenwick was ruled by Queen Gloriana who decided to declare war on the United States because their major export of wine was being copied and mocked in California. The small country won the war because they captured the Q-bomb.

The cast, under the direction of Mr. Andrew Gilfillan, practiced every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday after school in the auditorium and nearby hallways for months prior to the debut. A few weeks before the opening of the play they started practicing on Saturdays from ten in the morning until four in the afternoon.

"There was a lot of practicing and long hours put into the play, but it all paid off when I heard the applause of the audience," explained Junior Christie Johnson of her first play and the pride she felt after the performances.

The cast members were not the only ones who devoted their time to making the play a success. Stage Crew also spent many days after school in preparation for the play. They prepared the props and the scenery for the production.

Setting the Stage

Senior stage managers Kelly Herwick, Lynda Bridge, and Dawn Dancey go over set and scenery details. Mr. Mikula and Mr. Cremonese finalized all decisions.

Showering with Gifts

The townspeople, Lynda Bridge and Kerrie Kinnan, present Guenevere, Amanda Thompson, with a robe and flowers. The setting of the musical was Camelot.

Rehearsing the Scene

Pellinore, Ryan Purvis, rehearses the rescuing of Arthur, Tim Worstell, out of the invisible box. Lead roles were rehearsed separately from the chorus.

MASTERING THE MUSICAL

CAST MEMBERS SPENT MANY HOURS AT PRACTICE MASTERING THE MUSICAL

Excitement filled the air for the cast of Camelot as opening night approached. All the hard work of the cast was about to pay off on March 18 and 19. Practices were held on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays after school and also on Saturdays. The practices were long but prosperous under the new direction of Mr. David Cremonese and Mr. James Mikula.

Over one-hundred people tried out but only 61 people were given parts. In order to try out for Camelot, students had to learn a dance routine and a song from the musical that had to be performed in front of the directors, and they also had to read a part from the script in front of the prospective cast members. Senior Sally Meyers said, "I felt nervous about reading in front of everybody, but once I started reading, I felt confident I would get a part in the musical."

The lead part of King Arthur was played by Tim Worstell. Guenevere was played by Amanda Thompson, and the part of Sir Lancelot was given to John Sereno. All students worked hard to ensure the musical would be a hit.

Junior Melissa Haines explained, "At the beginning, practices were a little crazy, but overall, they helped make Camelot a success."

Sugar Sweet

Mordred, Andy Clark, is tempting Morgan, Heather Smith, with sugar sweet candy. These two villians of the town of Camelot added suspense to the musical.

Fly Away

Arthur, Tim Worstell asks Merlin, Dave Ridilla, to change him into an eagle. The cast practiced many hard hours in order for the musical to be a success.

STORMS OF SOUND

BAND MEMBERS WERE CREATING STORMS OF SOUND SHOWING THEIR SPIRIT

Bands of America, held in West Virginia, was the goal of the marching band. This annual festival only accepted 40 bands from across Pennsylvania, with the Wildcat band being among one of them.

Not only did the 103 members of the marching band consist of instrumentalists but also colorguard. These students used their talents to add visuals to the show.

Because the football games and competitions were done at the end of fall the marching band no longer continued but, the colorguard did. A select group of girls were chosen for Winterguard. This group performed indoors and competed. Other segments of the band didn't stop either. Joining the Symphonic Wind Ensemble or Concert Band under direction of Mr. Raymond Hamill, was mandatory for all marching band members. Another group, the Jazz Band, was a very select group of brass and electronic instrument players. This band played at festivals, dinners, and other special events year round.

What all of the band activities had in common was a group of talented people that enjoyed performing. For the most part band was a year round activity, so many friendships developed from seeing people so often. Senior Kari Siko, a member of the colorguard, commented, "I've made so many friends through band activities. Band has taught me a lot, not only about music but also about myself."

OUT AND ABOUT

CLUB MEMBERS GO OUT AND ABOUT PARTICIPATING IN ACTIVITIES

The German Club, whose purpose is to give students experience in German culture and to build relations between America and Germany, consisted of 45 students. The members had various fundraisers to raise money for field trips, the German exchange program, and charities suggested by students. Mrs. DeBacco, the advisor, commented, "We always like to help the school out, too. We try to do everything they ask us to do."

Junior Classical League consisted of 105 Latin, Greek, Mythology, and Classical Civilization students. They were recognized at the National JCL convention for having over 100 members. Members attended state and national conventions where they competed in academic, athletic, and creative arts competitions. Mrs. Bronson, the group's advisor, commented, "The JCL members are a very diverse but a very dedicated group."

Key Club is a service organization associated with the Kiwanis Club. K.E.Y. stands for Kiwanis Educating Youth. The motto of Key Club International, which is "Caring - Our Way of Life" summed up the purpose of the club. The advisor, Mrs. Patterson, and the club had several objectives, a few of which were to develop initiative and leadership, to serve the school and community, and to prepare for useful citizenship.

GETTING A GRIP

MEMBERS TELL STUDENTS ABOUT GETTING A GRIP ON DRUG EDUCATION

Educating students about drugs was top priority for the members of CODE, the Committee On Drug Education. Approximately 80 students joined and participated in activities. Monthly meetings were held with Derry, Ligonier, and Ligonier Valley high school students. Red Ribbon Week was held from October 23-31. During those nine days the Grim Reeper visited classrooms and "killed" several students to symbolize the great amount of people that are killed everyday by drugs. "Our goal is to have more involvement with the community," said Mr. Myers, club advisor. To help accomplish this goal, some CODE members attended a meeting called Community Vision at St. Vincent College to learn about drug prevention. The motto for CODE is "The future is bright with drugs out of our sight."

"SADD is important to us because we are strongly against drunk driving and we want to help solve this problem," explained Juniors Emmy Leonard and Michelle Markovich. With the help of Mr. Zsolcsak, members of SADD, Students Against Drunk Driving, staged a mock accident to show the consequences of driving drunk. Several fundraisers were held and the money was given to different charities and needy families.

HEADS HELD HIGH

AFTER ALL OF THE DEDICATION CLUB MEMBERS WERE CAUGHT WITH THEIR HEADS HELD HIGH

Members of Pep Club spent many hours after school with paper, paint and markers to create signs of support.

The "Battle of the Halls" signified the excitement of the upcoming Homecoming weekend events. Each class was responsible for decorating their own hall for the competition.

Pep assemblies provided another time for everyone to show their support. Senior football player Jason Reed commented, "I think it's great having pep assemblies because they really help to get me psyched for the game."

"Athlete of the Week" was a new award sponsored by Letterman's Club. Each week coaches nominated athletes who excelled in their respective sports. From those athletes, the officers then selected the individual who they felt deserved this special honor.

There were several other activities that Letterman's Club members took part in to earn points towards their letterman's jackets. Such as selling football programs, changing the bulletin board outside the Athletic Office, changing the rosters in the gym, and cleaning up school grounds.

For the second year, Letterman's Club held an All-Sports banquet. All athletes were invited for a dinner and presentation of awards given to outstanding athletes. Letterman's Club member Amy Picciano commented, "I think it is great to have a club to honor athletes."

TASTE THE THRILL

STUDENTS TASTE THE THRILL AS THEY PARTICIPATE IN CLUBS

The wrestlers were not the only ones who prepared for a tough wrestling season. The Mat Maids were busy with various activities to boost wrestling spirit.

To show their support, the Mat Maids painted signs, decorated lockers, and worked in the concession stand at wrestling matches. They were also in charge of organizing the wrestlers' Senior Night. Junior wrestler Neil Thompson commented, "The Mat Maids were the backbone of the team. We really appreciated all of the support they gave us." The Mat Maids also participated in the Homecoming parade in which they won second place.

Under the supervision of Mrs. Anne Bleehash, Interact members helped restart the tradition of the Homecoming parade. Other activities included tailgate parties before home football games, the Bachelor Auction and visits to Green Meadows, a home for the elderly. Interact also helped with a blood drive and sponsored a production of "The Nutcracker".

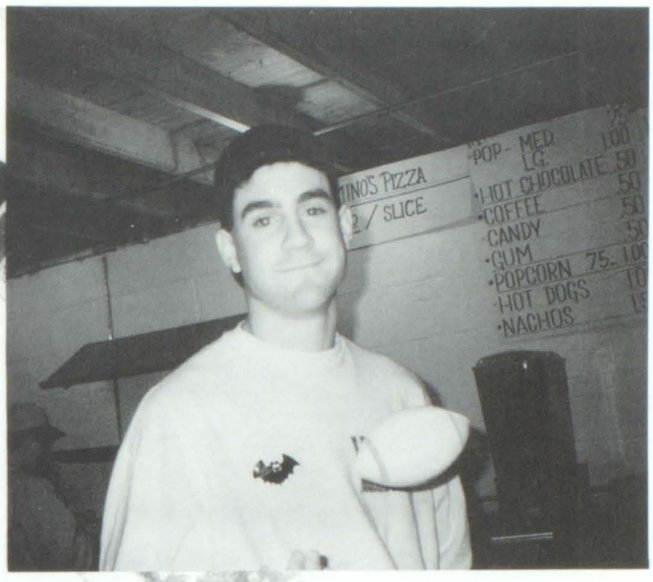
TYING IT TOGETHER

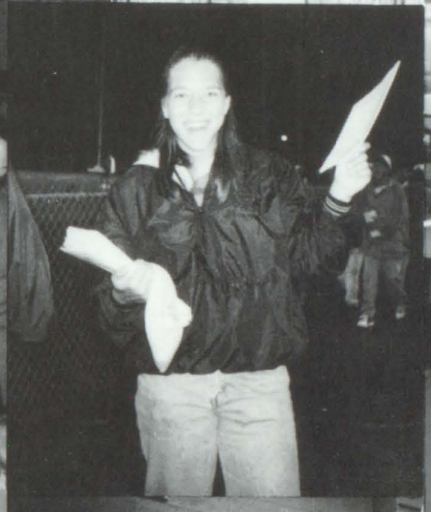
For starters, we hope you loved the section. We just wanted to explain how and why the new and improved Activities section came about. First off, we only pictured those clubs whose members were either elected, elgible by grade average, or had to try-out. We also thought that it was still necessary to list all members in a roster form.

We would like to thank all the sponsors for their cooperation, Mrs. Henderson for her support in allowing us to create a new section, Mark Givogri for all the alphabetizing, cutting, and pasting, and all the rest of those helping hands. We could not have done it without you.

A lot of long hours and hard work were put into this section to make it the best ever. Most other clubs put in almost as much time as we did in their activities. These two pages tied together all of the extra hours that went into them.

Christa & Emilie





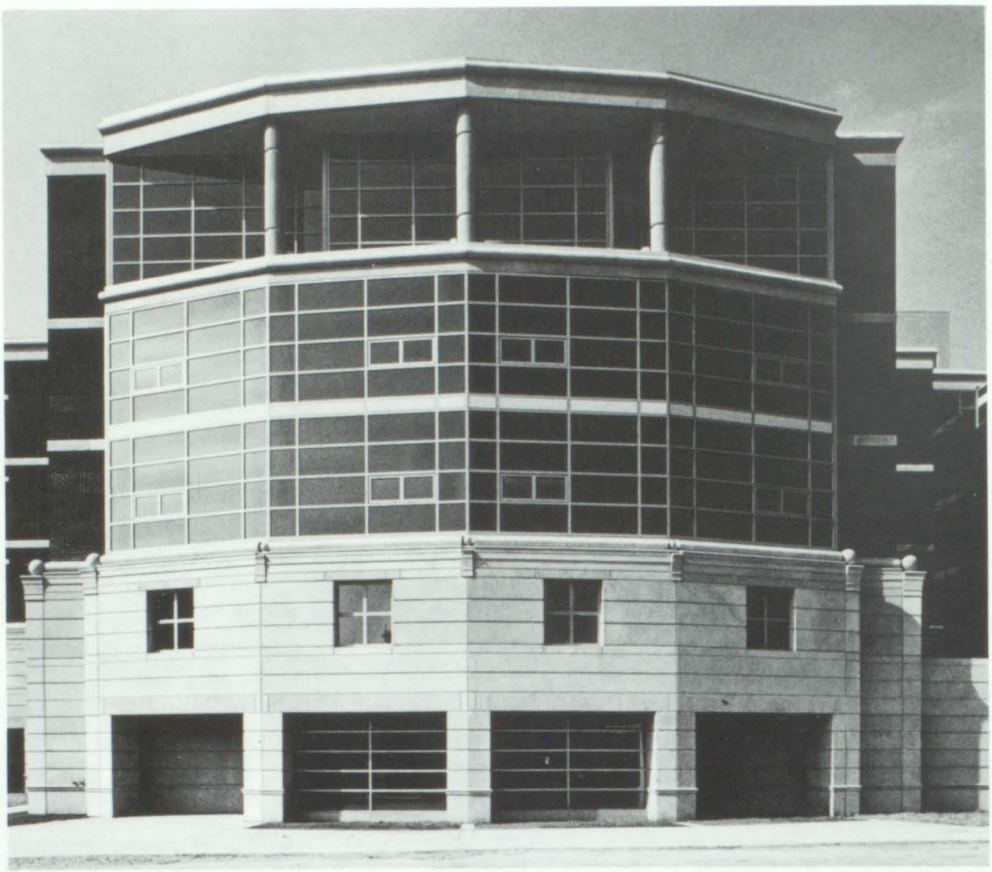
Catchy Quotes

"Nothing great was ever achieved without enthusiasm."
-Emerson

It's All About Support

The 1993-94 Business Staff worked hard from June to October to solicit ads for this year's book. Few people realize how expensive it is to produce a quality yearbook. The average cost of a high school yearbook is between $25,000 and $30,000. Thanks to the tremendous amount of support local businesses gave, the yearbook was affordable to most students.

Latrobe Area Hospital has been a landmark in our community for years. Ads is featuring the new edition the hospital has recently built. The hospital is not only a symbol of the constant growth of Latrobe, it is also a part of what Latrobe is all about.



The "Ads for Grads" section is a relatively new feature in the Latrobean. It began in the 1992-1993 yearbook as a way for parents to praise and give their best to their graduating seniors. Parents chose a variety of ways in which to do this. One popular way was to send in a baby and a recent picture accompanied by a poem or sentimental message (an example of this is shown below). This new feature has grown dramatically in one year. The generosity of those who have donated has definitely made the 1993-1994 Latrobean "What It's All About."

Today we stand and look at you and see the beautiful person that you have become. That shy, little girl that we use to know, has now become a very determined young woman. We are very proud of the person that you have become. Good luck in all you strive for.

We love you,
Mom and Shell

We know that you will 'be all you can be,' but here is some advice to help you as you travel along your path in life.

Remember to believe in yourself.
Only you can control your destiny.
Dedicate yourself to accomplishing your goals.
Never give up your drive and dedication.
Everything can be achieved with persistance and hard work.
You are the key to success.

We love you and we are very proud of you. Mom, Dad, Natalie & Juli

As you graduate and prepare to go off on your own we have prepared some motherly words of advice.
1) Treat others as you would want to be treated.
2)When your goals are out of reach, raise your capabilities.
3)Remember...you are a child of a King.
4) Don't wash white sox with a red sweatshirt.
5)Never, never, never give up.
6)Call your mothers--they care.

With love,

Believing

There comes a time
When we must face the truth,
Face up to our fears,
and live the years of youth.
For none of these are easy,
but they all can be done,
only if you believe in yourself
and from them you do not run.
The message I'm trying to say to you,
I will tell you today.
The way to win is to believe in yourself,
and believe in everything you say.
Love, Mom, Dad, and David

Jami Wagner

Dearest Jami,

There is a lot of pleasure, as well as a little sadness, in watching you become a young woman. It seems like only yesterday that you wore pigtails in your hair and bandaids on your knees.

How very simple life was then--you were always within shouting distance, came inside before dark, and went to bed before we did.

Today, we don't always agree on everything; we "lock horns" more frequently, and we sometimes don't remember you are almost an adult.

We realize we are developing a new relationship and want you to know how terribly proud of you we are. We respect and admire you for what you stand for. You have filled our lives with much joy and we love you with all our hearts.

Love, Mom and Cy

Marlene Renee Kunkle

Marlene,
Where have all the years gone. You've grown up into a beautiful young lady and have made us quite proud with all your endeavors. Our memories will be with us forever. May God bless you and guide you in making all life's choices.
We love you so very much, Mom and Sharon

P.S. Bojo, Bella and Valentine too!

May You Have

Enough happiness to keep you sweet;

Enough trials to keep you strong;

Enough sorrow to keep you human;

Enough hope to keep you happy;

Enough failure to keep you humble;

Enough success to keep you eager;

Enough friends to give you comfort;

Enough faith and courage in yourself, your business, and your country to banish depression;

Enough wealth to meet your needs;

Enough determination to make each day a better day than yesterday.

With Love Always,

It seems like only yesterday that you started school, and now look at you. You will graduate and there is a new and exciting life waiting for you. You have accomplished so much in those few short years. It may not seem like much now, but you will look back and remember the good times and friends. We are very proud of you. We hope you get everything out of life that you deserve.

Love,
Mom, Dad, Eric, and Michael

Buffy,
This is just ONE of the many moments in time when you ARE all that we thought you could be! We're so proud of you! Thanks for making our job so easy! Congratulations!
Love, Mom & Dad

We are proud of how far you have come.
Your accomplishments are many.
We have faith in how far you will go.
The future is yours.
The past 18 years have been fun, exciting and filled with wonderful memories.
What is most precious is not the awards you have received, but what you have become!
A very special and loving

HEIDE,
DID WE TELL YOU EVERY-THING ALONG THE WAY?
IF WE DID NOT, THEN YOU
MUST CHOOSE FOR YOURSELF.
IF IT HAS MEANING ACCEPT
IT AND MAKE IT YOUR OWN.
IF IT DOES NOT, DISCARD
IT. YOUR LIFE IS YOURS TO BUILD AS YOU CHOOSE.
BUT REMEMBER...

THERE IS ALOT IN LIFE THAT IS HARD, BUT TAKE IT AS IT COMES AND FIND THE GOOD...

AND TAKE TIME TO LAUGH,
DANCE AND SING.

In Your Eyes

Within your eyes we see great things...our most wonderful one... we see all of your dreams come true...a new and brighter sun... within your eyes a story's told... a story old but new...of love in all it's glory and...a heart that's good and true...our world is there within your eyes...we're lost within their spell...we are but a slave to do...each thing they chance to tell... for beauty such as your eyes hold... is greater, yes by far...than tropic waters fleeced with gold...and dotted with a star...all truth, all love, all beauteous things...that fill the earth and skies...all those are but a second to...the heaven in your eyes.

From Senior Latrobean Editors...

To the Class of 1994:

It's hard to believe how fast the many years we've spent at Latrobe have flown. Remember the first day of our sophomore year? It seemed like we'd be in this school forever, and graduation was so far away. Over the years our class has definitely made its mark- we were the only sophomores to see the senior slide show; Interact organized the first Homecoming parade and prom fashion show; class officers sponsored a Senior Dinner Dance at the Sheraton; we are the smallest class to graduate from Latrobe High School; and, of course, it had to be our year that it snowed three feet. Our years together have been full of fun, hardships, friendships, trouble, and special moments. Now it is time to move on- leaving each of us with feelings of hope, fear, sadness, and excitement. True friendships will never die, and our memories will live forever.

After three years here, we are beginning to understand "WHAT IT'S ALL ABOUT". See you guys in five years!!!

To the Underclass:

Good luck next year! It will finally be your time to shine. Thanks for putting up with the seniors' attitudes and new ideas. Keep those special Latrobe traditions alive- Homecoming, prom, student store, candy cane and carnation sales, Bachelor Auction, classes decorating the halls, warnings of driving drunk, the blood drive, and a new painting each year- so the future classes can enjoy the same things we have. You can truly be proud of our school and what we've established- we are. Keep those spirits up. It will make a happier and more fun place to be next year. The mixed senior and underclass friendships had some great memories, and the goodbyes will be hard. Don't worry, we'll be back at holidays and weekends.

We wish you success as you learn "WHAT IT'S ALL ABOUT".

To the Faculty-

You are the backbone of our school. Thanks for giving us a future and a chance to prove ourselves. You provided good role models, settled a contract without a strike, and put up with senioritis. You also put up with each bad mood, which can ruin a perfectly good day. You made this an amiable place to learn and to attend everyday. We owe you all more than we can ever repay you. We hope you can uphold the quality of a strong learning institution with the best reputation in the area.

You all helped us to understand better"WHAT IT'S ALL ABOUT".

Best Wishes, Class of 1994

Thank You's

From Heide, Kristin, Nicki & Darcy...
-Mrs. Henderson - For simply knowing what to do and how to get us to do it. This book would be impossible without you!
-The Henderson Family - You've got the best darn wife and mother in the world. We are sorry for keeping her away from you all of those "late nights".
-Senior Editors - You guys all had great ideas for your sections and you all pulled it together for the best yearbook ever.
-Junior Editors - Even though we sent you to do the craziest things, you did what we asked. We wish you luck with your book next year!
-Judy Miller - We appreciate all the time and effort you put into keeping our room tidy. Thanks for being our gate keeper and letting us come and go no matter how late it was.
-Buchman Studios - We couldn't have done it without you or your pizza money.
-C.T. Miller - You are the layout GOD! Thanks for listening to our ideas and putting them down correctly on our layouts!
-Barb Merson - Our Herff Jones hook up! Our motto was, "When in doubt call Barb Merson."
-Scott Cool - Hey the name says it all! The day you helped us design our cover and answered our questions was our slap of yearbook reality
-Our families - This is for listening to us gripe about yearbook and for coming to get us at all hours of the night. We love all of you.
-Herff Jones - Thanks for having faith in us and trusting us to send in our pages even though they were a little late because of the snow.

From Brandy & Michelle...
-Junior Editors - For counting votes, writing stories, and putting up with us!
-Al and Buchman Studios - For scheduling (and rescheduling) pictures and having them back so quickly.
-Teachers and Department Heads - For taking time to nominate those special seniors.
-Class of 1994 - Without you, there is no reason for us to be here! You are the greatest, see you guys at the reunion.

From Misty & Diane...
-Heide, Kristin, and Nicki - Thanks for all of your help around our deadline. Without you our section would never have been finished.
-Junior Editors - For organizing the name cards and all of our dirty work.

From Melissa & Shelly...
-Athletic Office - For always having the answers to our questions.
-Coaches - For all the cooperation and comments about your seasons.
-Athletes - For adding your input to the stories and captions.
-Latrobe Bulletin - For allowing us to use your pictures.
-Mr. James Okonak & Mr. &Mrs. Jim Bates - for getting us pictures.
-Latrobean Staff - For always offering a hand even if we didn't ask.
--Sorry to the teams which we could not picture.
--Good luck to all of the senior athletes in the future.

From Christa & Emilie...
-Club Advisors - Thanks for all the help organizing your clubs and for filling us in on club activities.
-Mrs. Henderson - Thanks for believing in us.
-Latrobean Staff - Thanks for all the helping hands.

From Megan, Lisa & Brian...
-Nikki, Beth & Chris - For putting up with our bossy orders.
-Office Secretaries - For allowing us to use the copying machine.
-Miss Treskovich - For being lenient with the hall passes.
-Kennametal - For donating the copier.
-Ad patrons - For supporting the yearbook.

The 1994 LATROBEAN, of Greater Latrobe High School, Latrobe, PA 15650, was printed in offset lithography by Herff Jones Yearbooks, Gettysburg, Pennsylvania 17325. The local representative is C.T. Miller and the customer service adviser was Barbara Merson. Additional advice and design assistance was provided by the company art department under the direction of Scott Cool.

The press run for 1994 was 800 copies of 248 pages. Paper is 100# Bordeaux gloss.

The cover was custom embossed on black Vibratex material with metallic foil as the applied color. It was mounted on 160 point binder's board at the Herff Jones Cover Plant in Montgomery, Alabama 36108. The book was smyth sewn in sixteen page signature, trimmed to 9 X 12 rounded and backed with decorative head and foot bands.

The endsheets were school designed DF&B on 65# vellum stock.

In addition to the high carbon jet-black ink used throughout, there are six flats with process four-color and one flat of duochrome spot color.

Type is Helvetica with appropriate emphasis faces done 8 and 10 point for captions and 12 point for body copy. Headlines appear in varying styles and sizes.

No portion of this book may be reproduced in any form without the written consent of the 1994 Yearbook Staff. For further information, contact the LATROBEAN Yearbook Office, Greater Latrobe High School, Latrobe, PA 15650.
